HORSES KILLED, MAN HURT TEAM AND CAR COLLIDING

Henry Goodballet Has His Collar Bone Broken and Narrowly Escapes Death.

VERY BAD ACCIDENT IN THE EAST END TODAY

With a rapidly moving street car almost upon him, Henry Goodballet, a well known butcher, worked with desperate energy to turn his horses from the track, where they had jumped after they had become unmanageable from fright, and because he could not succeed, a terrible collision resulted. Goodballet was badly injured, one of the horses was killed outright, the other so badly injured that it will die and the front trucks of the car jumped the track, badly frightening the passengers and shaking them up considerably. The accident occurred this morning at 9:30 o'clock, on Pennsylvania avenue, near the eastern boundary of Columbian park.

Goodballet's team, a gray and a bay horse, took fright when the car, running at a high rate of speed, was only a short distance away. The team was headed east and the car was west bound. Along that portion of the line there are no street crossings and the motormen usually cover the stretch at a high rate of speed. The motorman had only a moment to act after the horses, rearing and plunging, stepped onto the track and the time was not sufficient for him to avert the accident. Goodballet had no chance to jump from the vehicle had he been so inclined. He made no effort to escape, holding to the reins in his effort to steer the horses clear of the rails until the impact came.

The vestibule of the car struck the gray horse on the left breast. The animal fell under the wheels and the front trucks of the car were thus derailed. The animal was horribly mangled. The bay horse was so badly hurt that it will probably have to be killed. So great was the force of the collision that the wagon was almost demolished. The contents of the wagon, steaks, sausages and other articles from the meat market, which Goodballet was delivering, were scattered about over the street.

Goodballet was thrown from the wagon and for a time was stunned. He soon recovered and thought that he had escaped without any serious injury, but after he had been removed to the home of his brother, Conrad Goodballet, of Helena, nervousness developed and soon he was in a condition bordering on collapse. Dr. Hendershot was telephoned for and upon examination found that Godballet's right collar bone was broken. His injuries and the terrible shock caused him to suffer greatly.

Goodballet is a member of the firm of Hoppel & Goodballet, which has an establishment on First avenue. He is well and favorably known over the entire East End and the mishap will be regretted by his many friends. Dr. Hendershot stated this afternoon that he did not anticipate any serious results from the injuries and that Goodballet would be around again in a week or more.

LADIES OF THE W. R. C. ANNUAL ELECTION

The Organization Has Had a Prosperous Year and Has Raised $500 for the Hospital.

The ladies of the W. R. C. held an important meeting yesterday afternoon in the G. A. R hall, being called to order at 3:30 o'clock and adjourning at supper time. Officers were elected for the ensuing year and considerable time was spent in the selection. The election resulted as follows: Mrs. N. A. Frederick, president; Mrs. Henry Thompson, senior vice president; Mrs. Pearce Kirby, junior vice president; Mrs. Daniel McLane, chaplain; Mrs. R. L. Herbert, treasurer; Mrs. Sarah Kinsey, guard; Mrs Fred Timmons conductor; Mrs. E. O. Walter and Mrs Tan Dawson, musicians. The officers will be installed on the first Friday evening in January in conjunction with the officers of the G. A. R. post and of the Sons of Veterans. Four candidates will also be initiated at that meeting.

While talking over the good accomplished by the corps during the past year it was stated that $500 had been raised by the ladies for the purpose of fitting up a room in the new hospital. This is considered one of the most important acts of the year and it is surely a commendable one. This makes two rooms that are assured to be fixed up the Trades and Labor council having decided to do the same.

Held Theater Parties.

The Hollenden and Belmont foot ball teams formed theater parties last evening and attended "A Trip to the Moon" at the Grand. The Hollendens had engaged all four boxes, which were draped in lavender and white the club colors. In addition pennants galore were in full view and an enjoyable time was spent. The Belmont boys bought all the seats in the front row, and held up their end in a satisfactory manner, even though they had been vanquished on the gridiron.

Whist Club Entertained.

The Pipe Dreamers' Whist club was entertained in a charming manner at the home of Len Harvey, Ravine street, last night. Mr. Harvey is an ex-member of the Rovers' foot ball team and has been laid up for some time by injuries sustained in a game. The club members were well cared for and the evening was one of unusual pleasure.

EAGLES' ELECTION

A Full Corps of New Officers Chosen By the Local Aerie Last Evening.

The regular meeting of the local aerie Fraternal Order of Eagles held in their beautiful rooms last night was the most important and best attended since its institution. A number of new members were taken in and the annual election of officers was held, resulting as follows:

The new officers will be installed the first meeting in January, and it is likely an officer of the grand aerie will be detailed as installing officer.

Embarrassing to Officials.

Mayor Weaver and City Auditor Davidson are experiencing all kinds of trouble in doing their work at the city hall, the result of the conditions existing by the improving of that building. This morning both officials did their work on one table and both will give a sigh of relief when the carpenters are ready to lay down their implements.

In Aid of Execution.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—There was a hearing in probate court yesterday afternoon in the proceeding in aid of execution in which D. E. Mather, a Salem furniture dealer, is plaintiff, against Frank Falkenberg. Mr. Falkenberg appeared in person and Attorney K. L. Coburn appeared for the plaintiff. Judge Martin reserved his decision.

Two Perished at a Wake.

Brooklyn, December 5.—(Special.)—Michael Stafford and Charles Burley perished in a fire last night at the home of Mrs. Mary Gillgans, where a wake was being held.

Young Artist Asphyxiated.

New York, December 5.—(Special.)—Miss Virginia Thornton, a popular young artist, was asphyxiated at her home last night.

January Term of Court.

MUCH SMALLPOX AT WASHINGTONVILLE

Sixteen Cases of the Disease Reported in That Small Village.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The smallpox epidemic at Washingtonville is said to be assuming alarming proportions. The disease in the absence of proper quarantine regulations is spreading rapidly. There are now 16 cases and the number is said to be increasing at the rate of two new cases a day.

No deaths have yet resulted and the disease is said to be of a mild type.

KICKS ARE COMING THICK AND FAST

This is the Season When the Service Board Must Listen to Complaints.

THOSE HEARD LAST NIGHT

Since their election to office the members of the board of public service have not held a shorter meeting than that of last evening. However, several rather important matters were taken under discussion and a big batch of bills were ordered paid. The entire board was present.

As usual the board mentioned the deplorable condition of several of the streets and alleys. Nothing was done, however, more than to order the street commissioner to be on the watch for all violators and see that they remedy the conditions for which they are responsible. The time of the year is at hand when all sorts of kicks and complaints come in regarding the promiscuous dumping of water on the streets, causing big chunks of ice to form on the thoroughfares and the first objection was raised at this meeting.

Mail Carrier McCloskey was present and complained of a neighbor in Peach alley allowing water to run from his yard down the center of the alley. He said the water freezes and causes much inconvenience to pedestrians. There was another gentleman with Mr. McCloskey and he said that the conditions last year were so bad that his wife fell and broke a rib. He desired that the conditions be remedied. The board ordered the street commissioner to investigate and compel the proper persons to look after the violation of the ordinance covering that point.

The board is determined that a stand shall be taken to abolish all violations of the ordinance pertaining to filth or water flowing on the streets, especially during the present season. The members know from past experience and observation the damage and inconvenience it causes and feel that some strenuous measures should be adopted to prevent it. On the sloping streets the danger is made more imminent and they will be watched with greater care. It is said that there are some of the streets of this class now practically impassable and dangerous to both man and beast. Commissioner Dickey stated that he would do all he could to bring the guilty parties to task for the careless-

THE OLD FORCE TO BE RETAINED

Treasurer McKinnon Will Keep Treasurer Cameron's Force in Office.

FIVE OF THE SIX TO STAY

Good Evidence That the Old Employes Have Been Satisfactory And Faithful—All Are Men of High Standing And Ability.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, December 5.—Hon. W. S. McKinnon, of Ashtabula, who on January 11, 1904, will succeed Hon. I. B. Cameron, of Columbiana, as treasurer of the state of Ohio, has announced that he will retain in the department five of the six men members of Mr. Cameron's official family. The member retiring is George T. Blake, of East Liverpool, who was not an applicant for re-appointment. The members continued are Charles C. Green, cashier, of Lisbon; Captain John W. Barnaby, bookkeeper, of Canton; Arthur H. Griffith, bookkeeper, of Windsor; James S. Hughes, watchman, of Salem, and Zachariah S. Jackson, messenger, of Springfield. Each of these gentlemen received a personal letter from Mr. McKinnon Friday conveying the pleasing information that each would be retained in their respective capacities.

The retention of practically the entire old force is highly complimentary to Mr. Cameron, and in itself is conclusive evidence of Mr. McKinnen's appreciation of the effective support given him by Mr. Cameron in his recent political battles, and also a tribute to the efficiency of the force. It is a fact well known throughout the state, as it is at the capital, that the help rendered Mr. McKinnon by Mr. Cameron in the speakship fight in the house of representatives two years ago, was the chief determining factor in the settlement of that contest, and without this aid there might have been another story to tell, insofar as Mr. McKinnon is concerned. At the most critical period of the fight, when one or two votes one way or another would have meant victory or defeat, Mr. Cameron brought the necessary strength to Mr. McKinnon and he won the speakership in a canter.

When Mr. McKinnon was a candidate for the Republican nomination for treasurer of state he also had the active support of Mr. Cameron, who made it possible for the former to receive the solid support of the Eighteenth district in the state convention, which meant much in view of the fact it counted exactly 48 votes. At no time was there any discussion between the two gentlemen which could be construed as being an agreement that Mr. Cameron's appointees should hold over under the new administration.

Mr. McKinnon acted of his own volition, and, as has been suggested, his course is but indicative of his high sense of appreciation of the loyalty and worth of his friends. Mr. McKinnon and his predecessor are much alike. Both first saw the light in the land of Bobby Burns, both are energetic, decisive, and financiers of the first order, and the success each has attained is the result of unremitting individual effort.

A few words about the appointees will not be amiss. Charles C. Green needs no introduction to Columbiana county people. As cashier of the funds of Ohio's treasury he has made many friends and his splendid capacity and ability has drawn attraction and merited praise from leading financiers of the state. He has been the recipient of many flattering offers from several financial institutions. He was Mr. Cameron's chief deputy during the

EAST LIVERPOOL A LUCKY TOWN

Only Important City in Ohio Which Is Now Free From Smallpox.

TALKS OF HEALTH BOARD

It was stated at the regular meeting of the board of health last evening that East Liverpool is the only city in the state of its size that it now free from smallpox. The extremely bad case in the East End at the Prescott home has been cured and the other parts of the city are without the dread disease. The members of the board felt that the city is indeed fortunate from this standpoint and they expressed themselves as being ready to lay the credit at the feet of the health officer and sanitary policeman, both of whom have worked hard to keep the treacherous malady from spreading. The last case cost the city in the neighborhood of $600.

Considerable other business was presented to the board and disposed of with dispatch. The report of the health officer was received for the past two months and showed the following results: For the month of October—Births, male, 21; female, 12; deaths, male, 8; female, 7; causes of deaths—old age, 1; heart disease, 3; paralysis, 1; bronchitis, 1; scalded, 1; pneumonia, 1; cancer, 1; cholera infantum, 1; accidental, 2; fever, 1; meningitis, 1. For the month of November—Births, male, 16, female, 14. Deaths, male and female, 9. Immediately following this report the salaries of the officers serving under the board were ordered paid as were also the bills of the smallpox case.

The old question of how, when and where action will be taken to stop the people who have sanitary sewers connected to the Bradshaw avenue sewer discontinue the practice was again brought up. Dr. Birkett thought something should be done at once. He said that the board had bothered along with the question for months and months and that so far nothing has been done. He finally made a motion that the board of education be instructed by the clerk to meet with the board of health and explain why it has not complied with the former requests or demands of the health board. The board of education has been made the defendant, because it is alleged that it is the biggest violator and the health board feels that if it can prove any reason why no action can be taken that all anxiety and trouble can be abolished without hurting any one person in particular. The solicitor informed the board not to take any radical steps by ordering the sanitary policeman to cut the connections and the secretary of the state board of health informed the board to simply find out who is connected and have them arrested for the violation.

Dr. Birkett also asked that something definite be learned regarding the imposing of a license fee on the dairymen who do business in the city. Dr. Birkett thinks the dairymen should not be compelled to pay a dollar a year when there is no one appointed to inspect the milk of all the wagons, the cows, pastures, etc., of the milk men. He proposed that the money be used to hire an inspector to visit each dairy a couple times each year. He also thought the law should be carried out which pertains to the meat dealers. They are also assessable and so are the ice men, who sell ice that is formed on ponds, creeks and other volumes of water. The collections, said the physician, are provided so as to protect the people and not for a pecuniary gain and inasmuch as the people will profit by a semi-annual inspection, he favored it very much.

NEED OF A PEST HOUSE VERY APPARENT HERE

COSTLY BILLS COULD BE AVOIDED

At the meeting of the board of health last evening the question was raised as to whether the state of Pennsylvania can be made to pay the expenses incident to the recent smallpox case of Mrs. Prescott, of the East End, who contracted the disease in Pennsylvania. There were some who thought it probable that the sister state could be collected from, but it was finally proven to the satisfaction of all the members that money can be collected only from counties of this state where a case is contracted. The question brought to the surface again the truth of the penny wise and pound foolish tactics of the board.

Though the city of East Liverpool has escaped without a scourge of the disease, it has been compelled to pay out enough money to have taken care of twice as many cases as it has had to contend with and the practicability of having a pest house erected seems very plain. The last case of the city was that one in the East End. It cost the city something over $600, an amount considered very reasonable by the board. According to the provisions of the code it would not have been necessary to stand the entire expense in this case and of the dozen or more of the past year there are only three or four cases wherein the city should have paid the exorbitant bills. The state law distinctly says that the city shall not pay the expenses, providing the victim of smallpox is able to pay it. In nearly every case that has been known in this city for a year the victims have been able to pay all costs. The law relative to the maintenance of persons confined in quarantine says:

"When a house or other place is quarantined on account of contagious diseases it should be the duty of the board of health having jurisdiction to provide for all persons confined in such house or place, food, fuel and other necessaries of life, including medical attendants, medicine and nurses when necessary, the expenses so incurred, except those for disinfection, quarantine or other measures strictly for the protection of the public, when properly certified by the president and clerk of the board of health or health officer where there is no board of health, shall be paid by the person or persons quarantined when able to make such payment and when ot by the city, village, hamlet, township in which he or they were quarantined, provided that when a person with a contagious disease quarantined in any county is a legal resident of some other county of that state and is unable to pay such expenses it shall be paid by the county in which he has a legal residence, if notice and a sworn statement of the amount of such expense are sent to the infirmary directors of said county within thirty days after the quarantine in such case are discharged."

That a pest house would be a saving project to the city is proven by comparing the cases of Lucy Thorn and Clarence Hall with that of Mrs. Prescott in the East End. The first two had the smallpox in Jefferson county. They were under the care of the pest house authorities. This county was rendered a bill of a little more than $300 for both of them. The Prescott case, which was attended at a private house, cost the city almost twice as much as both of the other cases.

It is thought that the board of health would have no trouble in getting the money to erect a pest house. The question would have to go before the people for their vote on it and on the belief that they would rather vote for an appropriation when by so doing they can save hundreds of dollars in a year and also pay for the building in a year, that there would be no trouble experienced in securing the required number of votes.

Officer Spoiled a Scrap.

John McMillan and Albert Newman were on the verge of having a fiercce fight last evening in the Diamond when Officer Morris happened on the scene. The two men, who are well known local characters, it is said, have had a grievance of long standing and when they met shortly after dark concluded to fight it out. They are possessors of extraordinary fistic ability and would have put up an interesting scrap. The officer waltzed them to the city hall, where they gave bail for their appearance before the mayor today.

Work on New Bridges.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—U. V. Gaskill, of Lisbon, a member of the Ohio Steel Erecting company, of Steubenville, which has the contract for building four of the five new bridges to be constructed in the county, says work will be commenced within two weeks on the bridge at East Palestine, which will be the first one built. Mr. Gaskill will superintend the construction of all the bridges his company has contracted for in the county.

End of Court Term Near.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The court assignments for next week will probably conclude the work of the September term here, as Judge Hole has been appointed by Judge Robinson, the presiding judge of the district, to sit the following week in the trial of the case of George H. and Robert Ford, the Burton (O.) bankers who are under indictment for obtaining money under false pretenses. The case will be heard in Warren on a change of venue from Geauga county.

Vasbinder Is Again Free.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—M. C. Vasbinder, the well known base ball player who was in jail here in default of a $10 fine imposed in the court of Justice S. E. McCormick in Washington township, for hunting without a permit, was released yesterday afternoon, his fine having been paid.

PROBATE MATTERS

The Barth Case Continued—Action Taken on Other Pending Suits.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The case of William Anderson vs. Carl Barth et al. has been continued and leave given to file answer and cross petition instanter.

In the case of S. H. Maneval vs. the U. P. church of East Palestine, leave is given the defendant to file answer and cross petition instanter.

In the case of Margaret Moore, as guardian of Nellie and James L. Moore, minor heirs of James L. Moore, deceased, vs. Mrs. Mary Quinn, Thomas D. Quinn et al., partition of two tracts of 160 and 30 acres in Madison township is ordered. James B. McIntosh and William George and a third person to be named are to make the division, one-half of which will go to the plaintiff's wards.

The case of Joseph S. Faloon vs. Charles Matthews has been settled at the defendant's cost.

PLAY TO BE REPEATED

Those Who Were Unable to See "A Trip to the Moon" Will Have Another Chance.

Owing to the fact that many people who wished to witness the performance "A Trip to the Moon," could not be accommodated, either Thursday or Friday night, it has been arranged to give the play again on Monday evening. Friday night many persons were turned away after all the standing room had been sold. The prices for the Monday night performance have been reduced to 10, 20 and 30 cents.

Paying November Bills.

City Auditor Willis Davidson and Treasurer Horton were busy this afternoon paying November bills aggregating several thousand dollars. The most of the amount was distributed among the members of the police, fire and street departments.

MOTHER DISOWNS HER DAUGHTER

Birdie West Has Fallen On Evil Ways and Her Parent Wants Her Locked Up.

Disinherited by her mother, who is doing all in her power to get her sentenced to the penitentiary, Mrs. Birdie West, the woman who figured in the sensational shooting case at New Cumberland less than a year ago, when Marsh Hobbs came near receiving death wounds, and who was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, has undoubtedly the right to decide that the whole world is against her. This statement she has made numerous times of late and it is continuously ringing in the ears of her mother.

The mother, Mrs. Pugh, of West Market street, appeared at the city hall this afternoon and wanted a warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. West, charging her with stealing a dog worth $40. Mrs. Pugh acknowlegded that Mrs. West is her daughter but she said she had disowned her and it was her only desire to get the depraved woman into some penal institution. She said Mrs. West has been pestering her for two weeks, having been liberated from the Canton workhouse within the fortnight. It was learned that Mrs. Pugh's real reason for wanting her daughter arrested is to get rid of her, notwithstanding that she does care considerably for the dog.

"Drink has caused her to become so polluted," said Mrs. Pugh, "she has had a life of misery and it can all be credited to the cursed stuff. Sam West is her second husband. Her first husband was killed while drunk and in company with another woman. I tell you she has been mixed with an awful tribe and I will never own her as my daughter again. Just yesterday she hit me and knocked me out of the house and then picked up a big dish and tried to break her brother's head. She is a terror and I want her sent to the pen if possible."

The mayor was not at the city hall when the mother applied and she left stating she would be back again.

THE HIGH SCHOOL WANTS A PIANO

An Offer From Pittsburg of Which Advantage May Be Taken.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS

In the Schools Are Arousing Much Interest And Excellent Literary Exercises Will Be Held—Encouraging Educational Reports.

Announcement will be made in the public schools on Monday of the contest which the local high school will enter for obtaining the piano offered by the Pittsburg Dispatch for the individual, home, lodge, club, school or secret society or any other association obtaining the largest number of Dispatch coupons. Two pianos are offered, one an $800 Chickering baby grand, and the other a $450 W. F. Frederick upright.

For some time the high school has been in need of a good piano and it is desirous that if possible the $800 piano may be procured. The aid of all the public school children, along with the high school students, will be solicited in the collecting of coupons. The coupon of the Sunday Dispatch will count for three ordinary coupons from the Daily Dispatch. The contest will be open until the first of February, during which time the teachers of the different rooms will receive the coupons from the pupils of their schools, and turn them in at the principal's office of the building they belong to and each principal of the various buildings will present them in turn to Supt' Rayman's office.

It is believed that the children will enjoy working with a will for the winning of the contest. In case the high school students win the piano will be placed in the assembly room of the high school.

During the past week the school children and teachers have showed a desire in their work to accomplish much before the Christmas vacation.

All classes and schools are now quite advanced in the work of the year, which still maintains the same interest, with some new feature or departure from the old methods introduced, occasionally making school a pleasure to the teacher and those to be taught.

Last evening after school a number of girls and boys in different grades were eager to remain and do something in their rooms to aid their teachers in making the first arrangements for the Christmas literary exercises which will be an interesting day to all children just previous to the holiday vacation. Prof. Rayman has decided to have the literary exercises on Friday afternoon, December 18, and the schools will be dismissed on Wednesday evening, December 23.

In a number of the schools the recitations and essays are already being prepared, and with the small ones of the primary grades the teachers find it necessary to find short speeches and assign them early in the month in order that all may be ready to take part in the literary exercises of the third Friday in the month.

The pupils of some of the primary grades yesterday afternoon were given some time for the making of some special work for the decoration of their rooms at Christmas time. The time thus spent was very profitable.

In one fourth grade the pupils brought their needles, thread and scissors and with the direction of their teachers made pouches of light fabric, wherein will be found ruler, pens, slate and lead pencils. This will be tied to one side of the pupil's desk and when slates are taken out of the desk it will be impossible for ruler and pencils to make a noise by falling to the floor.

The idea is one which will teach order and quietness to pupils and the teacher using this simple method will find herself repaid for yesterday's sewing lesson.

The report for the month of November shows an increase of pupils in attendance and more regular and punctual attendance, with a noted decrease in tardiness over last month and many more on the honor roll.

The entire enrollment was: Males, 1,540; females, 1,560; the per cent of attendance for the males was 96 and for the females 94. The number of tardy marks by the males were 63 and 58 by the females; the total honor roll pupils, those that were neither absent or tardy during the month were 632 males and 701 females.

A number of the different schools had no tardiness at all. They were those taught by Misses Lizzie Griggs, Ethel Herbert, Emily Firth, Mary Pike, Carrie Gaver, Hattie Orin, Grace Morgan, Elizabeth Stevenson, Mary Smith, Drusie I. Creighton, Effie McKinnon and Mr. Johnson.

On Tuesday evening the younger teachers and substitutes met and discussed the first chapter in genetic psychology. Some of the topics made very interesting by Prof. Rayman were—First, the spirit of the teacher; second, what it means to be a progressive teacher; third, the great responsibility of the teacher in developing character.

Prof. Rayman yesterday received printed matter from the United States commissioner of education calling attention to the St. Louis exposition and urging that the states organize an exhibit for the exposition and that the public schools be well represented. It called attention to the fact that 200,000 square feet or four or five acres of land at the exposition would be given for educational purposes.

Adjacent to the school exhibit portion will be the space for the representation of musical, literary, medical, sanitary, medicine and surgery. At the exhibition the educational work will be divided as follows: First, presentation of public school work by states; second, presentation of academic work; third, presentation of normal school work; fourth, presentation of college and university work; fifth, special professional and technical school work. Prof. Rayman and the local corps of teachers have not taken any steps for the arrangement of exhibition work, because no directions or methods of procedure have been sent out as yet by our state school commissioner, L. D. Bonebrake. Prof. Rayman stated yesterday that the idea of preparing this kind of work would be well considered before being taken up in our city schools, as he would have nothing interfere with the learning or regular work of the children. However, it might be arranged for later on.

High School Notes.

In the chapel exercises of the high school held yesterday a number of seniors reflected credit upon their class when they delivered several very interesting orations. Miss Sue Wilson spoke on "A Trip Through the New England States." Mr. Shelton Overdorff followed with an oration on "A Trip Through the Sunny South." "A Trip Through the Southwest," by Mr. Herbert Miles was very interesting. Mr. Charles Stevenson took for his topic "A Trip Through the West," and Mr. Williams concluded the literary program with "A Trip on the Great Lakes." Special music added much of interest to the exercises.

In the senior literature class last week one day the seniors were notified that they would have discussions on any topic mentioned and that all class members would be compelled to get up and speak extemporaneously on that topic. If they could think of nothing to say on the subject they were supposed in a graceful and humorous manner to excuse themselves. This idea was excellently carried out and the literature hour was one of rare benefit and enjoyment. Some of the discussions brought up were "Trusts," "Manual Training in the High School," "River Improvements" and "Whether Latin Should Be Compulsory in the High School."

HEART DISEASE SOON CURED!

By the Great Specialist in Heart disease, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., Who Will Send $3.75 Worth of His Personal Treatment Free.

To demonstrate the remarkable curative powers of his new, complete personal treatments by mail for heart disease, short breath, pain in the side shoulder or left arm, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation smothering spells, puffing of the ankles, or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send $3.75 worth free as a trial, to all who mention this paper.

His treatments are the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research and remarkable success in treating the various ailments of the heart, stomach and nerves which so often complicate each case. So astonishing are the results of his complete personal treatments that he does not hesitate to offer all persons a trial free.

Nothing could be more liberal. Few physicians have such confidence in their remedies. There is no reason why all afflicted persons should not avail themselves of this exceedingly liberal offer, as they may never have another such opportunity. No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease.

Mrs. A. Kronck, of Huntington, Ind. was cured after thirty physicians had failed; Mrs. Flora Graetor, of Bristolville, O., aftew twenty-two; Jas. R. Waite, the noted actor, after a score had pronounced him incurable; Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, after five leading physicians had given her up Mrs. Julius Keister, of Chicago, after ten; Mrs. R. Parker, after sixteen failed. Col. N. G. Parker, ex-treasurer of South Carolina, says: "Dr Miles is a skillful physician in a field which requires the best qualities of head and heart."

A thousand references to, and testimonials from bishops, clergymen, bankers, farmers, and their wives will be sent free upon request.

Sam West, of the William Brunt company, of East Liverpool, has charge of the odd work in the kiln sheds.

Misses Bessie Dallas and Corma Brown, of East Liverpool, are new employes in the decorating department.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bond, of Marietta, are visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bond.

Charles McMillen, of East Liverpool, is working in the packing rooms. Mr. McMillen has rented one of the Samuel Allen houses and will move here as soon as it is ready for occupency.

John Bossen was in East Liverpool on Tuesday and Wednesday on business. Mr. Bossen has resigned his position as foreman of the clay shops and will be succeeded by Charles Caufman. Mr. Bossen will work at the bench in the clay shops.

W. H. Norman, formerly of East Liverpool, now of Kansas City, Mo., was in town this week on business. He called at the pottery and expressed himself as being much surprised that Carrollton had such a modern plant.

MINERVA NOTES.

Miss Linnie Kinkade, of East Liverpool, has acccepted a position in the decorating department.

Ernest Wilson, while out hunting the other day saw a quail fly into a culvert along the railroad. When he looked in to see the bird it was gone; but he just shot through, and his partner, Hiram Borne, who was watching the other side, saw a rabbit walking out on two legs.

John Kerrigan is back working on his old bench, as bowl maker.

Mrs. Bertha Bartram has accepted a position in the biscuit ware house.

W. Reames, of England, has accepted a position as cover dish maker.

George and Robert Brockway, of Carrollton, spent Sunday with their families here.

Cash McKinnon and Hiram Borne lately visited friends in East Liverpool.

ONLY ONE NEGRO EVER GOT TO HEAVEN

Startling Doctrine Promulgated By a Mormon Patriarch at a Colored Man's Funeral.

Salt Lake City, December 5.—Only one negro has ever entered heaven and hereafter the gates of heaven are closed against the members of the black race.

This is the latest doctrine promulgated by the Mormon church, and the declaration announcing the doom of the colored race was made in a highly sensational manner by a high Mormon church official during the funeral services of Eugene Burns, one of the most prominent colored men in Utah.

Rev. D. A. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church, had just finished his sermon eulogizing the dead negro when Patrick Miner, president of one of the quorums of the seventies of the Mormon church, walked up to his pulpit, and to the consternation of the mourners, began a highly sensational discourse. He declared that the dead man could not enter heaven. All that ever existed of him lay in the coffin before the altar.

He further said that an Ethiopian could not reach the state of exaltation necessary to entrance into heaven. His soul was doomed before his birth. The patriarch's remarks caused awe and consternation among the hearers, and precipitated an ecclesiastical scrimmage.

Rev. Mr. Brown replied to the remarks of the patriarch, referring to a quotation from the bible to prove his contention that any man can be saved on the condition of salvation laid down in the scriptures.

Burns was a grandson of Abel, the body-servant of Joseph Smith, the prophet of the Mormon church. Abel was a negro and, according to the remarks of Patriarch Miner, is the only one of his race who ever succeeded in gaining entrance within the pearly gates. The reason he was so successful in accomplishing that feat, according to the patriarch, was his loyalty and service to Joseph, the prophet, and his belief that the Mormon religion is the only one that ever happened.

Abel, the son of Ham and body-servant of Joseph, the prophet, died and was translated. The children whom he left in this world may never be exalted to that state according to the patriarch. The reason assigned by the patriarch for the non-admission of Ethiopians to the other side is the fact of their dusky skins. No man with black skin may enter the gates of heaven, said the patriarch.

HORSES KILLED, MAN HURT TEAM AND CAR COLLIDING

VERY BAD ACCIDENT IN THE EAST END TODAY

With a rapidly moving street car almost upon him, Henry Goodballet, a well known butcher, worked with desperate energy to turn his horses from the track, where they had jumped after they had become unmanageable from fright, and because he could not succeed, a terrible collision resulted. Goodballet was badly injured, one of the horses was killed outright, the other so badly injured that it will die and the front trucks of the car jumped the track, badly frightening the passengers and shaking them up considerably. The accident occurred this morning at 9:30 o'clock, on Pennsylvania avenue, near the eastern boundary of Columbian park.

Goodballet's team, a gray and a bay horse, took fright when the car, running at a high rate of speed, was only a short distance away. The team was headed east and the car was west bound. Along that portion of the line there are no street crossings and the motormen usually cover the stretch at a high rate of speed. The motorman had only a moment to act after the horses, rearing and plunging, stepped onto the track and the time was not sufficient for him to avert the accident. Goodballet had no chance to jump from the vehicle had he been so inclined. He made no effort to escape, holding to the reins in his effort to steer the horses clear of the rails until the impact came.

The vestibule of the car struck the gray horse on the left breast. The animal fell under the wheels and the front trucks of the car were thus derailed. The animal was horribly mangled. The bay horse was so badly hurt that it will probably have to be killed. So great was the force of the collision that the wagon was almost demolished. The contents of the wagon, steaks, sausages and other articles from the meat market, which Goodballet was delivering, were scattered about over the street.

Goodballet was thrown from the wagon and for a time was stunned. He soon recovered and thought that he had escaped without any serious injury, but after he had been removed to the home of his brother, Conrad Goodballet, of Helena, nervousness developed and soon he was in a condition bordering on collapse. Dr. Hendershot was telephoned for and upon examination found that Godballet's right collar bone was broken. His injuries and the terrible shock caused him to suffer greatly.

Goodballet is a member of the firm of Hoppel & Goodballet, which has an establishment on First avenue. He is well and favorably known over the entire East End and the mishap will be regretted by his many friends. Dr. Hendershot stated this afternoon that he did not anticipate any serious results from the injuries and that Goodballet would be around again in a week or more.

LADIES OF THE W. R. C. ANNUAL ELECTION

The Organization Has Had a Prosperous Year and Has Raised $500 for the Hospital.

The ladies of the W. R. C. held an important meeting yesterday afternoon in the G. A. R hall, being called to order at 3:30 o'clock and adjourning at supper time. Officers were elected for the ensuing year and considerable time was spent in the selection. The election resulted as follows: Mrs. N. A. Frederick, president; Mrs. Henry Thompson, senior vice president; Mrs. Pearce Kirby, junior vice president; Mrs. Daniel McLane, chaplain; Mrs. R. L. Herbert, treasurer; Mrs. Sarah Kinsey, guard; Mrs Fred Timmons, conductor; Mrs. E. O. Walter and Mrs Tan Dawson, musicians. The officers will be installed on the first Friday evening in January in conjunction with the officers of the G. A. R. post and of the Sons of Veterans. Four candidates will also be initiated at that meeting.

While talking over the good accomplished by the corps during the past year it was stated that $500 had been raised by the ladies for the purpose of fitting up a room in the new hospital. This is considered one of the most important acts of the year and it is surely a commendable one. This makes two rooms that are assured to be fixed up the Trades and Labor council having decided to do the same.

Held Theater Parties.

The Hollenden and Belmont foot ball teams formed theater parties last evening and attended "A Trip to the Moon" at the Grand. The Hollendens had engaged all four boxes, which were draped in lavender and white the club colors. In addition pennants galore were in full view and an enjoyable time was spent. The Belmont boys bought all the seats in the front row, and held up their end in a satisfactory manner, even though they had been vanquished on the gridiron.

Whist Club Entertained.

The Pipe Dreamers' Whist club was entertained in a charming manner at the home of Len Harvey, Ravine street, last night. Mr. Harvey is an ex-member of the Rovers' foot ball team and has been laid up for some time by injuries sustained in a game. The club members were well cared for and the evening was one of unusual pleasure.

EAGLES' ELECTION

A Full Corps of New Officers Chosen By the Local Aerie Last Evening.

The regular meeting of the local aerie Fraternal Order of Eagles held in their beautiful rooms last night was the most important and best attended since its institution. A number of new members were taken in and the annual election of officers was held, resulting as follows:

The new officers will be installed the first meeting in January, and it is likely an officer of the grand aerie will be detailed as installing officer.

Embarrassing to Officials.

Mayor Weaver and City Auditor Davidson are experiencing all kinds of trouble in doing their work at the city hall, the result of the conditions existing by the improving of that building. This morning both officials did their work on one table and both will give a sigh of relief when the carpenters are ready to lay down their implements.

MUCH SMALLPOX AT WASHINGTONVILLE

Sixteen Cases of the Disease Reported in That Small Village.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The smallpox epidemic at Washingtonville is said to be assuming alarming proportions. The disease in the absence of proper quarantine regulations is spreading rapidly. There are now 16 cases and the number is said to be increasing at the rate of two new cases a day.

No deaths have yet resulted and the disease is said to be of a mild type.

KICKS ARE COMING THICK AND FAST

This is the Season When the Service Board Must Listen to Complaints.

THOSE HEARD LAST NIGHT

Since their election to office the members of the board of public service have not held a shorter meeting than that of last evening. However, several rather important matters were taken under discussion and a big batch of bills were ordered paid. The entire board was present.

As usual the board mentioned the deplorable condition of several of the streets and alleys. Nothing was done, however, more than to order the street commissioner to be on the watch for all violators and see that they remedy the conditions for which they are responsible. The time of the year is at hand when all sorts of kicks and complaints come in regarding the promiscuous dumping of water on the streets, causing big chunks of ice to form on the thoroughfares and the first objection was raised at this meeting.

Mail Carrier McCloskey was present and complained of a neighbor in Peach alley allowing water to run from his yard down the center of the alley. He said the water freezes and causes much inconvenience to pedestrians. There was another gentleman with Mr. McCloskey and he said that the conditions last year were so bad that his wife fell and broke a rib. He desired that the conditions be remedied. The board ordered the street commissioner to investigate and compel the proper persons to look after the violation of the ordinance covering that point.

The board is determined that a stand shall be taken to abolish all violations of the ordinance pertaining to filth or water flowing on the streets, especially during the present season. The members know from past experience and observation the damage and inconvenience it causes and feel that some strenuous measures should be adopted to prevent it. On the sloping streets the danger is made more imminent and they will be watched with greater care. It is said that there are some of the streets of this class now practically impassable and dangerous to both man and beast. Commissioner Dickey stated that he would do all he could to bring the guilty parties to task for the careless-

MOTHER DISOWNS HER DAUGHTER

Birdie West Has Fallen On Evil Ways and Her Parent Wants Her Locked Up.

Disinherited by her mother, who is doing all in her power to get her sentenced to the penitentiary, Mrs. Birdie West, the woman who figured in the sensational shooting case at New Cumberland less than a year ago, when Marsh Hobbs came near receiving death wounds, and who was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, has undoubtedly the right to decide that the whole world is against her. This statement she has made numerous times of late and it is continuously ringing in the ears of her mother.

The mother, Mrs. Pugh, of West Market street, appeared at the city hall this afternoon and wanted a warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. West, charging her with stealing a dog worth $40. Mrs. Pugh acknowlegded that Mrs. West is her daughter but she said she had disowned her and it was her only desire to get the depraved woman into some penal institution. She said Mrs. West has been pestering her for two weeks, having been liberated from the Canton workhouse within the fortnight. It was learned that Mrs. Pugh's real reason for wanting her daughter arrested is to get rid of her, notwithstanding that she does care considerably for the dog.

"Drink has caused her to become so polluted," said Mrs. Pugh, "she has had a life of misery and it can all be credited to the cursed stuff. Sam West is her second husband. Her first husband was killed while drunk and in company with another woman. I tell you she has been mixed with an awful tribe and I will never own her as my daughter again. Just yesterday she hit me and knocked me out of the house and then picked up a big dish and tried to break her brother's head. She is a terror and I want her sent to the pen if possible."

The mayor was not at the city hall when the mother applied and she left stating she would be back again.

THE OLD FORCE TO BE RETAINED

Treasurer McKinnon Will Keep Treasurer Cameron's Force in Office.

FIVE OF THE SIX TO STAY

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, December 5.—Hon. W. S. McKinnon, of Ashtabula, who on January 11, 1904, will succeed Hon. I. B. Cameron, of Columbiana, as treasurer of the state of Ohio, has announced that he will retain in the department five of the six men members of Mr. Cameron's official family. The member retiring is George T. Blake, of East Liverpool, who was not an applicant for re-appointment. The members continued are Charles C. Green, cashier, of Lisbon; Captain John W. Barnaby, bookkeeper, of Canton; Arthur H. Griffith, bookkeeper, of Windsor; James S. Hughes, watchman, of Salem, and Zachariah S. Jackson, messenger, of Springfield. Each of these gentlemen received a personal letter from Mr. McKinnon Friday conveying the pleasing information that each would be retained in their respective capacities.

The retention of practically the entire old force is highly complimentary to Mr. Cameron, and in itself is conclusive evidence of Mr. McKinnen's appreciation of the effective support given him by Mr. Cameron in his recent political battles, and also a tribute to the efficiency of the force. It is a fact well known throughout the state, as it is at the capital, that the help rendered Mr. McKinnon by Mr. Cameron in the speakship fight in the house of representatives two years ago, was the chief determining factor in the settlement of that contest, and without this aid there might have been another story to tell, insofar as Mr. McKinnon is concerned. At the most critical period of the fight, when one or two votes one way or another would have meant victory or defeat, Mr. Cameron brought the necessary strength to Mr. McKinnon and he won the speakership in a canter.

When Mr. McKinnon was a candidate for the Republican nomination for treasurer of state he also had the active support of Mr. Cameron, who made it possible for the former to receive the solid support of the Eighteenth district in the state convention, which meant much in view of the fact it counted exactly 48 votes. At no time was there any discussion between the two gentlemen which could be construed as being an agreement that Mr. Cameron's appointees should hold over under the new administration.

Mr. McKinnon acted of his own volition, and, as has been suggested, his course is but indicative of his high sense of appreciation of the loyalty and worth of his friends. Mr. McKinnon and his predecessor are much alike. Both first saw the light in the land of Bobby Burns, both are energetic, decisive, and financiers of the first order, and the success each has attained is the result of unremitting individual effort.

A few words about the appointees will not be amiss. Charles C. Green needs no introduction to Columbiana county people. As cashier of the funds of Ohio's treasury he has made many friends and his splendid capacity and ability has drawn attraction and merited praise from leading financiers of the state. He has been the recipient of many flattering offers from several financial institutions. He was Mr. Cameron's chief deputy during the

Only Important City in Ohio Which Is Now Free From Smallpox.

TALKS OF HEALTH BOARD

It was stated at the regular meeting of the board of health last evening that East Liverpool is the only city in the state of its size that it now free from smallpox. The extremely bad case in the East End at the Prescott home has been cured and the other parts of the city are without the dread disease. The members of the board felt that the city is indeed fortunate from this standpoint and they expressed themselves as being ready to lay the credit at the feet of the health officer and sanitary policeman, both of whom have worked hard to keep the treacherous malady from spreading. The last case cost the city in the neighborhood of $600.

Considerable other business was presented to the board and disposed of with dispatch. The report of the health officer was received for the past two months and showed the following results: For the month of October—Births, male, 21; female, 12; deaths, male, 8; female, 7; causes of deaths—old age, 1; heart disease, 3; paralysis, 1; bronchitis, 1; scalded, 1; pneumonia, 1; cancer, 1; cholera infantum, 1; accidental, 2; fever, 1; meningitis, 1. For the month of November—Births, male, 16, female, 14. Deaths, male and female, 9. Immediately following this report the salaries of the officers serving under the board were ordered paid as were also the bills of the smallpox case.

The old question of how, when and where action will be taken to stop the people who have sanitary sewers connected to the Bradshaw avenue sewer discontinue the practice was again brought up. Dr. Birkett thought something should be done at once. He said that the board had bothered along with the question for months and months and that so far nothing has been done. He finally made a motion that the board of education be instructed by the clerk to meet with the board of health and explain why it has not complied with the former requests or demands of the health board. The board of education has been made the defendant, because it is alleged that it is the biggest violator and the health board feels that if it can prove any reason why no action can be taken that all anxiety and trouble can be abolished without hurting any one person in particular. The solicitor informed the board not to take any radical steps by ordering the sanitary policeman to cut the connections and the secretary of the state board of health informed the board to simply find out who is connected and have them arrested for the violation.

Dr. Birkett also asked that something definite be learned regarding the imposing of a license fee on the dairymen who do business in the city. Dr. Birkett thinks the dairymen should not be compelled to pay a dollar a year when there is no one appointed to inspect the milk of all the wagons, the cows, pastures, etc., of the milk men. He proposed that the money be used to hire an inspector to visit each dairy a couple times each year. He also thought the law should be carried out which pertains to the meat dealers. They are also assessable and so are the ice men, who sell ice that is formed on ponds, creeks and other volumes of water. The collections, said the physician, are provided so as to protect the people and not for a pecuniary gain and inasmuch as the people will profit by a semi-annual inspection, he favored it very much.

The News Review is recognized as East Liverpool's leading newspaper as regards news service.

NEED OF A PEST HOUSE VERY APPARENT HERE

COSTLY BILLS COULD BE AVOIDED

At the meeting of the board of health last evening the question was raised as to whether the state of Pennsylvania can be made to pay the expenses incident to the recent smallpox case of Mrs. Prescott, of the East End, who contracted the disease in Pennsylvania. There were some who thought it probable that the sister state could be collected from, but it was finally proven to the satisfaction of all the members that money can be collected only from counties of this state where a case is contracted. The question brought to the surface again the truth of the penny wise and pound foolish tactics of the board.

Though the city of East Liverpool has escaped without a scourge of the disease, it has been compelled to pay out enough money to have taken care of twice as many cases as it has had to contend with and the practicability of having a pest house erected seems very plain. The last case of the city was that one in the East End. It cost the city something over $600, an amount considered very reasonable by the board. According to the provisions of the code it would not have been necessary to stand the entire expense in this case and of the dozen or more of the past year there are only three or four cases wherein the city should have paid the exorbitant bills. The state law distinctly says that the city shall not pay the expenses, providing the victim of smallpox is able to pay it. In nearly every case that has been known in this city for a year the victims have been able to pay all costs. The law relative to the maintenance of persons confined in quarantine says:

"When a house or other place is quarantined on account of contagious diseases it should be the duty of the board of health having jurisdiction to provide for all persons confined in such house or place, food, fuel and other necessaries of life, including medical attendants, medicine and nurses when necessary, the expenses so incurred, except those for disinfection, quarantine or other measures strictly for the protection of the public, when properly certified by the president and clerk of the board of health or health officer where there is no board of health, shall be paid by the person or persons quarantined when able to make such payment and when ot by the city, village, hamlet, township in which he or they were quarantined, provided that when a person with a contagious disease quarantined in any county is a legal resident of some other county of that state and is unable to pay such expenses it shall be paid by the county in which he has a legal residence, if notice and a sworn statement of the amount of such expense are sent to the infirmary directors of said county within thirty days after the quarantine in such case are discharged."

That a pest house would be a saving project to the city is proven by comparing the cases of Lucy Thorn and Clarence Hall with that of Mrs. Prescott in the East End. The first two had the smallpox in Jefferson county. They were under the care of the pest house authorities. This county was rendered a bill of a little more than $300 for both of them. The Prescott case, which was attended at a private house, cost the city almost twice as much as both of the other cases.

It is thought that the board of health would have no trouble in getting the money to erect a pest house. The question would have to go before the people for their vote on it and on the belief that they would rather vote for an appropriation when by so doing they can save hundreds of dollars in a year and also pay for the building in a year, that there would be no trouble experienced in securing the required number of votes.

Officer Spoiled a Scrap.

John McMillan and Albert Newman were on the verge of having a fiercce fight last evening in the Diamond when Officer Morris happened on the scene. The two men, who are well known local characters, it is said, have had a grievance of long standing and when they met shortly after dark concluded to fight it out. They are possessors of extraordinary fistic ability and would have put up an interesting scrap. The officer waltzed them to the city hall, where they gave bail for their appearance before the mayor today.

Work on New Bridges.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—U. V. Gaskill, of Lisbon, a member of the Ohio Steel Erecting company, of Steubenville, which has the contract for building four of the five new bridges to be constructed in the county, says work will be commenced within two weeks on the bridge at East Palestine, which will be the first one built. Mr. Gaskill will superintend the construction of all the bridges his company has contracted for in the county.

End of Court Term Near.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The court assignments for next week will probably conclude the work of the September term here, as Judge Hole has been appointed by Judge Robinson, the presiding judge of the district, to sit the following week in the trial of the case of George H. and Robert Ford, the Burton (O.) bankers who are under indictment for obtaining money under false pretenses. The case will be heard in Warren on a change of venue from Geauga county.

Vasbinder Is Again Free.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—M. C. Vasbinder, the well known base ball player who was in jail here in default of a $10 fine imposed in the court of Justice S. E. McCormick in Washington township, for hunting without a permit, was released yesterday afternoon, his fine having been paid.

PROBATE MATTERS

The Barth Case Continued—Action Taken on Other Pending Suits.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The case of William Anderson vs. Carl Barth et al. has been continued and leave given to file answer and cross petition instanter.

In the case of S. H. Maneval vs. the U. P. church of East Palestine, leave is given the defendant to file answer and cross petition instanter.

In the case of Margaret Moore, as guardian of Nellie and James L. Moore, minor heirs of James L. Moore, deceased, vs. Mrs. Mary Quinn, Thomas D. Quinn et al., partition of two tracts of 160 and 30 acres in Madison township is ordered. James B. McIntosh and William George and a third person to be named are to make the division, one-half of which will go to the plaintiff's wards.

The case of Joseph S. Faloon vs. Charles Matthews has been settled at the defendant's cost.

PLAY TO BE REPEATED

Those Who Were Unable to See "A Trip to the Moon" Will Have Another Chance.

Owing to the fact that many people who wished to witness the performance "A Trip to the Moon," could not be accommodated, either Thursday or Friday night, it has been arranged to give the play again on Monday evening. Friday night many persons were turned away after all the standing room had been sold. The prices for the Monday night performance have been reduced to 10, 20 and 30 cents.

Paying November Bills.

City Auditor Willis Davidson and Treasurer Horton were busy this afternoon paying November bills aggregating several thousand dollars. The most of the amount was distributed among the members of the police, fire and street departments.

EAST END

M'LAUGHLIN BROTHERS ARE BUILDING STABLES

Will Quarter Many Horses Near Ralston's, Where They Have a Contract.

McLaughlin Bros., the well known railroad contractors, of this city, have commenced the erection of large stables on the property of George Phillips, along Pennsylvania avenue, just west of the Hargraves residence. The stable will be large enough to accommodate about 50 horses and mules which are to be used in the near vicinity this winter. It will be remembered that McLaughlin Bros. secured the contract recently for the grading necessary in changing the old state road to avoid the grade crossing at Ralston's.

The contractors are preparing to spend at least four months on the work as the job is one of the largest of the kind undertaken by the railroad in years. The work is to be commenced next Tuesday.

FISH ARE PLENTIFUL IN LITTLE BEAVER

Parties of East End Fishermen Are Bringing Home All They Care to Carry.

Since the first discovery of the fish in the shallow waters near the mouth of Little Beaver, it is estimated that 200 pounds have been taken out by the people of the East End and instead of diminishing the number of fishing parties is increasing. Success is so certain that the most timid Waltons are trying their hands. The shallow waters are literally alive with several specimens of the finny tribe, including carp, suckers, and perch, and they vary in size from a half pound to five and six.

Several of the fishermen caught all they could carry yesterday afternoon. Among the most successful were Will Terrence, Harry Herbert, Porter Herbert and Charley Herbert, Robert McArte and Harry McArter. Each came home with fine strings and they are going to try it again as soon as the supply on hand is exhausted.

Myler Given a Surprise.

A. P. Myler, the district deputy of the Tribe of Ben Hur, was tendered a surprise last night at his home on Maple street by quite a number of members of the Wellsville, Chester and East End tribes. The gentleman, while taken unawares, was equal to the occasion and all were soon enjoying his well known hospitality. Various games and social pleasantries sufficed to make the moments fly all too quickly and at a late hour all enjoyed an elegant repast.

Young Italian Hurt.

A young Italian employed as a section hand on the C. & P. railroad, was painfully hurt yesterday while at work near the Laughlin pottery. Some fellow workmen pushed a heavy truck against him, one of the wheels passing over and crushing two of his toes. He was taken to the office of Dr. R. J. Marshall, where the injury was attended to.

To Nominate Officers.

The Tribe of Ben Hur will hold an important meeting at its hall next Monday evening, at which time the nomination of officers for the ensuing term will be held. The election will take place one week later. There are several candidates for some of the offices and some lively contests will result.

Buckeye Castle Met.

Buckeye Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, held an interesting meeting last night, at which several candidates were advanced in the degrees. Nominations were opened for the various offices and the election will be held at the meeting December 18.

EAST END ARFFAIRS.

Robert Larkins' horse, injured yesterday in Helena, is not improved and may have to be killed.

Miss McGrew, of the Horace Mann school, left this morning for Beaver Falls to spend Sunday with relatives.

Mrs. William Terrence, who has been quite ill for the past week, is considerably improved today.

Dan Miller, Walter Owen and Al Heckathorn, jiggermen at the East End pottery, were laid off today owing to a shortage of boards.

Will Moore, of Laughlin No. 3, is unable to work owing to a sprained ankle, sustained yesterday while skating on Little Beaver creek.

Several people from the East End attended the social last night given by the Ladies of the Golden Eagle at their hall in the postoffice building.

Dr. M. W. Taylor, of Mulberry street, whose serious illness from nervous prostration was reported yesterday, is considerably improved today.

AT THE THEATER

The New York Sun recently took the cast of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a rural drama, which is to be seen here shortly, as a proof of its theory that the greatest success of a play was made by a competent cast of players who were not well known, rather than a cast of well known favorites. To quote the Sun it said: "An illustration in point is given in 'Quincy Adams Sawyer' at the Academy of Music. No more than two members of that company were known to the first audience." At the Grand Friday night.

"Tobe, take care of the baby," is a simple command, yet it means volumes when given by a dying mother, out on the great plains in the west, to her nine-year-old son, trusting him to care for her new born babe, his little sister. Yet "Young Tobe Hoxie" did it as a duty, even when that baby grew to be a woman and caused many heart aches by her willfulness in having her own way. This beautiful pastoral play will be at the Grand on Tuesday night.

The musical farce comedy, "Peck's Bad Boy," all re-written for this season, retaining all the old characters which have made the play the most successful farce comedy ever produced. He has added all new dialogue, new specialties and all of the latest popular music. At the Grand next Wednesday night.

Hear Charles A. (Karl) Gardner, the sweet singer with Lincoln J. Carter's great scenic comedy, "The Darkest Hour," at the Grand tonight. Mr. Gardner has many admirers in this city and a packed house is anticipated.

Miss Nina Williams will exhibit the Whitely Exerciser at J. J. Rose's store December 8 and 9. 285-1

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the overfed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite house hold remedy for all stomach troubles for over 35 years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. IRON MARKET STEADY

Manufacturing Conditions Irregular---New Year Promises Revival of Business.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Reductions in Wages Brings Little Opposition from Labor—Holiday Goods in Excellent Demand—Eggs and Dairy Products Reach High Prices.

New York, Dec. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade is seasonably quiet except in the lines affected by weather and those embracing holiday goods, which are in good demand. Activity is especially conspicuous among footwear jobbers and retailers. Commodities are generally lower in price, although a few important articles such as cotton, eggs and dairy products have risen so sharply that Dun's index number on Dec. 1 was $98,223, against $97,825 a month previous. For the year there is a decline of about 2 per cent.

Manufacturing conditions are still irregular, the best symptom of the week being the steadiness of iron and steel. Textile mills still find it difficult to secure prices in proper ratio to the raw material, the violent advance in cotton adding to the embarrassment of spinners, who have only limited supplies on hand. Light stocks of hardwood maintain prices, but the demand is moderate. Railway earnings in three weeks of November were 4.8 per cent larger than a year previous.

Several encouraging reports are received regarding the iron and steel situation. In most cases the proposed reduction in wages have met with no opposition, and such business as comes forward is handled without interruption. Another good sign is that the past dullness has brought no reduction in prices. Mills have received several orders for structural shapes and railway supplies. These are all evidences of an end to the deadlock between buyers and sellers, while in the trade there is a growing confidence that the new year will bring a further revival. On the other hand, the market is decidedly quiet. The chief event in the export trade was a large sale of tin plates for shipment to Canada.

Failures this week number 331, against 258 last week, 249 the preceding week and 204 the corresponding week last year.

SILVER SERVICE FOR LIPTON.

Gift of American People Will Be Presented at a Dinner in London.

New York, Dec. 5.—A silver service, consisting of 20 pieces, the gift of the American people to Sir Thomas Lipton, will be forwarded by the Etruria to the United States ambassador in London under cover of instructions from the department of state. Lindsay Russell, of New York, goes to London by the same steamer as a representative of the national committee.

The presentation committee has been formed in London and a dinner at which Consul General Evans will preside has been arranged for Friday, Dec. 18, to which all prominent Americans abroad and Englishmen interested in Anglo-American relations will be invited.

The inscription on the centerpiece is "From the people of the United States to Sir Thomas Lipton, Baronet, K. C. V. O., who by his good tempered sportsmanship, his generosity to the families of American soldiers and his hospitality to Americans at home and abroad has contributed much to our Anglo-American friendship."

Insane Man Creates a Scene.

New York, Dec. 5.—Kalman Foldessy, who was arrested here during President Roosevelt's visit last week for writing threatening letters to the president, was committed to the Manhattan state hospital for the insane. Foldessy made a scene in court by suddenly drawing a penknife and exclaiming, "If I'm insane why did the doctors give me this?" He was quickly disarmed. How he became possessed of the weapon is unknown. Doctors testified that he is hopelessly insane.

Time Saved on Foreign Mail.

New York, Dec. 5.—It is officially announced by the American line that beginning in January, 1904, its steamers from New York for Southampton will call at Plymouth and Cherbourg to land mails and passengers for London and Paris. This will enable the mails to reach Paris 12 hours sooner than under the present methods, while there will be a saving of several hours in reaching London.

Killing of Whales Forbidden.

Christiana, Dec. 5.—The Odelhthing unanimously passed a bill forbidding the killing of whales off the Norwegian coast for a period of 10 years. This measure is the outcome of agitation by the fishermen, who accuse the whaling companies of the reckless extermination of the whales. The fishermen argue that it is the whales that drive the fish in shoals to the coast.

Martial Law Proclaimed.

Denver, Dec. 5.—Governor Peabody has decided that a state of rebellion exists in the Cripple Creek district and declared modified martial law. All the people of that section are answerable to the military for their conduct.

"FOR ALL CATARRHAL COMPLAINTS

Pe-ru-na is Most Excellent," Writes Congressman John L. Sheppard.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN L. SHEPPARD.

Congressman John L. Sheppard, Member of Congress from Texas, writes:

Gentlemen:—"I have used Peruna in my family and find it a most excellent remedy for all catarrhal complaints."—Congressman John L. Sheppard.

THERE are two things that the whole medical profession agree about concerning catarrh. The first is that catarrh is the most prevalent and omnipresent disease to which the people in the United States are subject. All classes of people have it. Those who stay in doors much and those who go outdoors much. Working classes have it and sedentary classes have it.

The doctor finds catarrh to be his constant and ever-present foe. It complicates nearly every disease he is called upon to treat.

The second thing about catarrh on which all doctors agree, is that it is difficult to cure it. Local remedies may give relief but they fail to cure permanently. Sprays or snuffs amount to little or nothing except to give temporary relief.

Catarrh is frequently located in internal organs which cannot be reached by any sort of local treatment. All this is known by every physician.

To devise some systemic internal remedy which would reach catarrh at its source, to eradicate it permanently from the system—this has been the desire of the medical profession for a long time. Forty years ago Dr. Hartman confronted this problem. He believed then that he had solved it. He still believes he has solved it. He cures thousands of people annually. During all these years Peruna has been the remedy upon which he has relied.

It was at first a private prescription, afterwards manufactured expressly for him in large quantities. This remedy, Peruna, is now to be found in every drug store and nearly every home in the land. It is the only reliable internal remedy ever devised to cure any case of catarrh, however long the case may have been standing.

A Case of Nasal Catarrh of Five Years' Standing Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Hon. Rudolph M. Patterson, a well-known lawyer, of Chicago, Ill., writes

"I have been a sufferer from nasal catarrh for the past five years and at the earnest solicitation of a friend I tried Peruna and am glad to say it has afforded a complete cure. It is with pleasure I recommend it to others."—Rudolph M. Patterson.

A course of Peruna never fails to bring relief. There is no other remedy like Peruna. Its cures are prompt and permanent.

Mr. Camillus Senne, 257 West 129th street, New York, writes:

"I have fully recovered from my catarrhal troubles. I suffered for three years with catarrh of the head, nose and throat. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief, but at last I have been cured by the wonderful remedy called Peruna.

Mr. Camillus Senne.

"I read of Peruna in your almanac, and wrote you for advice, which I followed. After taking one and one-half bottles of Peruna I am entirely cured, and can recommend Peruna to anyone as the best and surest remedy for any catarrhal troubles."—Camillus Senne.

Hearing Lost by Catarrh---Restored by Peruna.

Mr. William Bauer, Burton, Texas, a Ginner and Miller, writes:

"Some years ago I lost the hearing in my left ear, and upon examination by a specialist, catarrh was decided to be the cause. I took a course of treatment and regained my hearing for a time but I soon lost it completely. I commenced to take Peruna according to directions and have taken eight bottles in all, and my hearing is completely restored, and I shall sing the praises of Peruna whenever an opportunity occurs.—Wm. Bauer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

SNAP SHOTS OF TEN DOLLAR BILLS

George White, Roving Photographer, Alleged to Have Engaged in Counterfeiting.

Wheeling, December 5. — George White, a roving photographer temporarily employed at the Jarvis Engraving company, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Special Agent Michael Sneehan, of the United States treasury department, on a serious charge.

White came to this city a short time ago and hired out at odd jobs at the Jarvis Engraving company. While so engaged he undertook the photographing of ten dollar bills on plates, and was detected in the act by other employes of the company. He was taken before United States Commissioner Boyd and bound over for a hearing at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

White has a number of aliases and it is intimated by the officials that he is wanted for some similar acts in other parts of the United States. He claims that he had no ill purpose in view and will be given a chance to explain himself along these lines.

When his operations became known to the engraving company it created general consternation, because of the very unusual character, and the company is very much relieved to know that the matter was nipped in the bud.

SALINEVILLE

Salineville, December 5.—Miss Eva Lewton, of Main street, was the recipient last Monday of a beautiful writing desk as a premium for a soap order of $10.

The funeral of James Gallagher, the saloonist, of the East End, took place last Thursday from St. Patrick's chapel at 10 o'clock. A large procession followed the remains to St. Patrick's cemetery, east of town.

Alexander W. George, an aged and well known citizen of Mooretown, Jefferson county, died last Tuesday, and was laid to rest Thursday in Mooretown cemetery. Mr. George was the last one of the large family of Judge Thomas George and was about 76 years of age. He leaves an aged wife and several married children.

The remains of Mrs. Margaret Connelly, who died last September in this village, were disinterred by J. C. McQuilkin, shipped to her former home in Pennsylvania, and laid to rest beside her husband, who had died several years ago.

Harvey Haverfield, the bookkeeper of the the Citizens' Banking company, after a two weeks' sickness with grip, was out last Tuesday for the first since his late sickness.

Miss Williams will show you the benefits derived from the Whitely Exerciser if you will call on her at Rose's store December 8 and 9. 285-1

HORSES KILLED, MAN HURT TEAM AND CAR COLLIDING

VERY BAD ACCIDENT IN THE EAST END TODAY

With a rapidly moving street car almost upon him, Henry Goodballet, a well known butcher, worked with desperate energy to turn his horses from the track, where they had jumped after they had become unmanageable from fright, and because he could not succeed, a terrible collision resulted. Goodballet was badly injured, one of the horses was killed outright, the other so badly injured that it will die and the front trucks of the car jumped the track, badly frightening the passengers and shaking them up considerably. The accident occurred this morning at 9:30 o'clock, on Pennsylvania avenue, near the eastern boundary of Columbian park.

Goodballet's team, a gray and a bay horse, took fright when the car, running at a high rate of speed, was only a short distance away. The team was headed east and the car was west bound. Along that portion of the line there are no street crossings and the motormen usually cover the stretch at a high rate of speed. The motorman had only a moment to act after the horses, rearing and plunging, stepped onto the track and the time was not sufficient for him to avert the accident. Goodballet had no chance to jump from the vehicle had he been so inclined. He made no effort to escape, holding to the reins in his effort to steer the horses clear of the rails until the impact came.

The vestibule of the car struck the gray horse on the left breast. The animal fell under the wheels and the front trucks of the car were thus derailed. The animal was horribly mangled. The bay horse was so badly hurt that it will probably have to be killed. So great was the force of the collision that the wagon was almost demolished. The contents of the wagon, steaks, sausages and other articles from the meat market, which Goodballet was delivering, were scattered about over the street.

Goodballet was thrown from the wagon and for a time was stunned. He soon recovered and thought that he had escaped without any serious injury, but after he had been removed to the home of his brother, Conrad Goodballet, of Helena, nervousness developed and soon he was in a condition bordering on collapse. Dr. Hendershot was telephoned for and upon examination found that Godballet's right collar bone was broken. His injuries and the terrible shock caused him to suffer greatly.

Goodballet is a member of the firm of Hoppel & Goodballet, which has an establishment on First avenue. He is well and favorably known over the entire East End and the mishap will be regretted by his many friends. Dr. Hendershot stated this afternoon that he did not anticipate any serious results from the injuries and that Goodballet would be around again in a week or more.

LADIES OF THE W. R. C. ANNUAL ELECTION

The Organization Has Had a Prosperous Year and Has Raised $500 for the Hospital.

The ladies of the W. R. C. held an important meeting yesterday afternoon in the G. A. R hall, being called to order at 3:30 o'clock and adjourning at supper time. Officers were elected for the ensuing year and considerable time was spent in the selection. The election resulted as follows: Mrs. N. A. Frederick, president; Mrs. Henry Thompson, senior vice president; Mrs. Pearce Kirby, junior vice president; Mrs. Daniel McLane, chaplain; Mrs. R. L. Herbert, treasurer; Mrs. Sarah Kinsey, guard; Mrs Fred Timmons, conductor; Mrs. E. O. Walter and Mrs Tan Dawson, musicians. The officers will be installed on the first Friday evening in January in conjunction with the officers of the G. A. R. post and of the Sons of Veterans. Four candidates will also be initiated at that meeting.

While talking over the good accomplished by the corps during the past year it was stated that $500 had been raised by the ladies for the purpose of fitting up a room in the new hospital. This is considered one of the most important acts of the year and it is surely a commendable one. This makes two rooms that are assured to be fixed up, the Trades and Labor council having decided to do the same.

Held Theater Parties.

The Hollenden and Belmont foot ball teams formed theater parties last evening and attended "A Trip to the Moon" at the Grand. The Hollendens had engaged all four boxes, which were draped in lavender and white the club colors. In addition pennants galore were in full view and an enjoyable time was spent. The Belmont boys bought all the seats in the front row, and held up their end in a satisfactory manner, even though they had been vanquished on the gridiron.

Whist Club Entertained.

The Pipe Dreamers' Whist club was entertained in a charming manner at the home of Len Harvey, Ravine street, last night. Mr. Harvey is an ex-member of the Rovers' foot ball team and has been laid up for some time by injuries sustained in a game. The club members were well cared for and the evening was one of unusual pleasure.

EAGLES' ELECTION

A Full Corps of New Officers Chosen By the Local Aerie Last Evening.

The regular meeting of the local aerie Fraternal Order of Eagles held in their beautiful rooms last night was the most important and best attended since its institution. A number of new members were taken in and the annual election of officers was held, resulting as follows:

The new officers will be installed the first meeting in January, and it is likely an officer of the grand aerie will be detailed as installing officer.

Embarrassing to Officials.

Mayor Weaver and City Auditor Davidson are experiencing all kinds of trouble in doing their work at the city hall, the result of the conditions existing by the improving of that building. This morning both officials did their work on one table and both will give a sigh of relief when the carpenters are ready to lay down their implements.

In Aid of Execution.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—There was a hearing in probate court yesterday afternoon in the proceeding in aid of execution in which D. E. Mather, a Salem furniture dealer, is plaintiff, against Frank Falkenberg. Mr. Falkenberg appeared in person and Attorney K. L. Coburn appeared for the plaintiff. Judge Martin reserved his decision.

MUCH SMALLPOX AT WASHINGTONVILLE

Sixteen Cases of the Disease Reported in That Small Village.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The smallpox epidemic at Washingtonville is said to be assuming alarming proportions. The disease in the absence of proper quarantine regulations is spreading rapidly. There are now 16 cases and the number is said to be increasing at the rate of two new cases a day.

No deaths have yet resulted and the disease is said to be of a mild type.

KICKS ARE COMING THICK AND FAST

This is the Season When the Service Board Must Listen to Complaints.

THOSE HEARD LAST NIGHT

Since their election to office the members of the board of public service have not held a shorter meeting than that of last evening. However, several rather important matters were taken under discussion and a big batch of bills were ordered paid. The entire board was present.

As usual the board mentioned the deplorable condition of several of the streets and alleys. Nothing was done, however, more than to order the street commissioner to be on the watch for all violators and see that they remedy the conditions for which they are responsible. The time of the year is at hand when all sorts of kicks and complaints come in regarding the promiscuous dumping of water on the streets, causing big chunks of ice to form on the thoroughfares and the first objection was raised at this meeting.

Mail Carrier McCloskey was present and complained of a neighbor in Peach alley allowing water to run from his yard down the center of the alley. He said the water freezes and causes much inconvenience to pedestrians. There was another gentleman with Mr. McCloskey and he said that the conditions last year were so bad that his wife fell and broke a rib. He desired that the conditions be remedied. The board ordered the street commissioner to investigate and compel the proper persons to look after the violation of the ordinance covering that point.

The board is determined that a stand shall be taken to abolish all violations of the ordinance pertaining to filth or water flowing on the streets, especially during the present season. The members know from past experience and observation the damage and inconvenience it causes and feel that some strenuous measures should be adopted to prevent it. On the sloping streets the danger is made more imminent and they will be watched with greater care. It is said that there are some of the streets of this class now practically impassable and dangerous to both man and beast. Commissioner Dickey stated that he would do all he could to bring the guilty parties to task for the careless-

THE OLD FORCE TO BE RETAINED

Treasurer McKinnon Will Keep Treasurer Cameron's Force in Office.

FIVE OF THE SIX TO STAY

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, December 5.—Hon. W. S. McKinnon, of Ashtabula, who on January 11, 1904, will succeed Hon. I. B. Cameron, of Columbiana, as treasurer of the state of Ohio, has announced that he will retain in the department five of the six men members of Mr. Cameron's official family. The member retiring is George T. Blake, of East Liverpool, who was not an applicant for re-appointment. The members continued are Charles C. Green, cashier, of Lisbon; Captain John W. Barnaby, bookkeeper, of Canton; Arthur H. Griffith, bookkeeper, of Windsor; James S. Hughes, watchman, of Salem, and Zachariah S. Jackson, messenger, of Springfield. Each of these gentlemen received a personal letter from Mr. McKinnon Friday conveying the pleasing information that each would be retained in their respective capacities.

The retention of practically the entire old force is highly complimentary to Mr. Cameron, and in itself is conclusive evidence of Mr. McKinnen's appreciation of the effective support given him by Mr. Cameron in his recent political battles, and also a tribute to the efficiency of the force. It is a fact well known throughout the state, as it is at the capital, that the help rendered Mr. McKinnon by Mr. Cameron in the speakship fight in the house of representatives two years ago, was the chief determining factor in the settlement of that contest, and without this aid there might have been another story to tell, insofar as Mr. McKinnon is concerned. At the most critical period of the fight, when one or two votes one way or another would have meant victory or defeat, Mr. Cameron brought the necessary strength to Mr. McKinnon and he won the speakership in a canter.

When Mr. McKinnon was a candidate for the Republican nomination for treasurer of state he also had the active support of Mr. Cameron, who made it possible for the former to receive the solid support of the Eighteenth district in the state convention, which meant much in view of the fact it counted exactly 48 votes. At no time was there any discussion between the two gentlemen which could be construed as being an agreement that Mr. Cameron's appointees should hold over under the new administration.

Mr. McKinnon acted of his own volition, and, as has been suggested, his course is but indicative of his high sense of appreciation of the loyalty and worth of his friends. Mr. McKinnon and his predecessor are much alike. Both first saw the light in the land of Bobby Burns, both are energetic, decisive, and financiers of the first order, and the success each has attained is the result of unremitting individual effort.

A few words about the appointees will not be amiss. Charles C. Green needs no introduction to Columbiana county people. As cashier of the funds of Ohio's treasury he has made many friends and his splendid capacity and ability has drawn attraction and merited praise from leading financiers of the state. He has been the recipient of many flattering offers from several financial institutions. He was Mr. Cameron's chief deputy during the

Only Important City in Ohio Which Is Now Free From Smallpox.

TALKS OF HEALTH BOARD

It was stated at the regular meeting of the board of health last evening that East Liverpool is the only city in the state of its size that it now free from smallpox. The extremely bad case in the East End at the Prescott home has been cured and the other parts of the city are without the dread disease. The members of the board felt that the city is indeed fortunate from this standpoint and they expressed themselves as being ready to lay the credit at the feet of the health officer and sanitary policeman, both of whom have worked hard to keep the treacherous malady from spreading. The last case cost the city in the neighborhood of $600.

Considerable other business was presented to the board and disposed of with dispatch. The report of the health officer was received for the past two months and showed the following results: For the month of October—Births, male, 21; female, 12; deaths, male, 8; female, 7; causes of deaths—old age, 1; heart disease, 3; paralysis, 1; bronchitis, 1; scalded, 1; pneumonia, 1; cancer, 1; cholera infantum, 1; accidental, 2; fever, 1; meningitis, 1. For the month of November—Births, male, 16, female, 14. Deaths, male and female, 9. Immediately following this report the salaries of the officers serving under the board were ordered paid as were also the bills of the smallpox case.

The old question of how, when and where action will be taken to stop the people who have sanitary sewers connected to the Bradshaw avenue sewer discontinue the practice was again brought up. Dr. Birkett thought something should be done at once. He said that the board had bothered along with the question for months and months and that so far nothing has been done. He finally made a motion that the board of education be instructed by the clerk to meet with the board of health and explain why it has not complied with the former requests or demands of the health board. The board of education has been made the defendant, because it is alleged that it is the biggest violator and the health board feels that if it can prove any reason why no action can be taken that all anxiety and trouble can be abolished without hurting any one person in particular. The solicitor informed the board not to take any radical steps by ordering the sanitary policeman to cut the connections and the secretary of the state board of health informed the board to simply find out who is connected and have them arrested for the violation.

Dr. Birkett also asked that something definite be learned regarding the imposing of a license fee on the dairymen who do business in the city. Dr. Birkett thinks the dairymen should not be compelled to pay a dollar a year when there is no one appointed to inspect the milk of all the wagons, the cows, pastures, etc., of the milk men. He proposed that the money be used to hire an inspector to visit each dairy a couple times each year. He also thought the law should be carried out which pertains to the meat dealers. They are also assessable and so are the ice men, who sell ice that is formed on ponds, creeks and other volumes of water. The collections, said the physician, are provided so as to protect the people and not for a pecuniary gain and inasmuch as the people will profit by a semi-annual inspection, he favored it very much.

NEED OF A PEST HOUSE VERY APPARENT HERE

COSTLY BILLS COULD BE AVOIDED

At the meeting of the board of health last evening the question was raised as to whether the state of Pennsylvania can be made to pay the expenses incident to the recent smallpox case of Mrs. Prescott, of the East End, who contracted the disease in Pennsylvania. There were some who thought it probable that the sister state could be collected from, but it was finally proven to the satisfaction of all the members that money can be collected only from counties of this state where a case is contracted. The question brought to the surface again the truth of the penny wise and pound foolish tactics of the board.

Though the city of East Liverpool has escaped without a scourge of the disease, it has been compelled to pay out enough money to have taken care of twice as many cases as it has had to contend with and the practicability of having a pest house erected seems very plain. The last case of the city was that one in the East End. It cost the city something over $600, an amount considered very reasonable by the board. According to the provisions of the code it would not have been necessary to stand the entire expense in this case and of the dozen or more of the past year there are only three or four cases wherein the city should have paid the exorbitant bills. The state law distinctly says that the city shall not pay the expenses, providing the victim of smallpox is able to pay it. In nearly every case that has been known in this city for a year the victims have been able to pay all costs. The law relative to the maintenance of persons confined in quarantine says:

"When a house or other place is quarantined on account of contagious diseases it should be the duty of the board of health having jurisdiction to provide for all persons confined in such house or place, food, fuel and other necessaries of life, including medical attendants, medicine and nurses when necessary, the expenses so incurred, except those for disinfection, quarantine or other measures strictly for the protection of the public, when properly certified by the president and clerk of the board of health or health officer where there is no board of health, shall be paid by the person or persons quarantined when able to make such payment and when ot by the city, village, hamlet, township in which he or they were quarantined, provided that when a person with a contagious disease quarantined in any county is a legal resident of some other county of that state and is unable to pay such expenses it shall be paid by the county in which he has a legal residence, if notice and a sworn statement of the amount of such expense are sent to the infirmary directors of said county within thirty days after the quarantine in such case are discharged."

That a pest house would be a saving project to the city is proven by comparing the cases of Lucy Thorn and Clarence Hall with that of Mrs. Prescott in the East End. The first two had the smallpox in Jefferson county. They were under the care of the pest house authorities. This county was rendered a bil of a little more than $300 for both of them. The Prescott case, which was attended at a private house, cost the city almost twice as much as both of the other cases.

It is thought that the board of health would have no trouble in getting the money to erect a pest house. The question would have to go before the people for their vote on it and on the belief that they would rather vote for an appropriation when by so doing they can save hundreds of dollars in a year and also pay for the building in a year, that there would be no trouble experienced in securing the required number of votes.

Officer Spoiled a Scrap.

John McMillan and Albert Newman were on the verge of having a fiercce fight last evening in the Diamond when Officer Morris happened on the scene. The two men, who are well known local characters, it is said, have had a grievance of long standing and when they met shortly after dark concluded to fight it out. They are possessors of extraordinary fistic ability and would have put up an interesting scrap. The officer waltzed them to the city hall, where they gave bail for their appearance before the mayor today.

Work on New Bridges.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—U. V. Gaskill, of Lisbon, a member of the Ohio Steel Erecting company, of Steubenville, which has the contract for building four of the five new bridges to be constructed in the county, says work will be commenced within two weeks on the bridge at East Palestine, which will be the first one built. Mr. Gaskill will superintend the construction of all the bridges his company has contracted for in the county.

End of Court Term Near.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The court assignments for next week will probably conclude the work of the September term here, as Judge Hole has been appointed by Judge Robinson, the presiding judge of the district, to sit the following week in the trial of the case of George H. and Robert Ford, the Burton (O.) bankers who are under indictment for obtaining money under false pretenses. The case will be heard in Warren on a change of venue from Geauga county.

Vasbinder Is Again Free.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—M. C. Vasbinder, the well known base ball player who was in jail here in default of a $10 fine imposed in the court of Justice S. E. McCormick in Washington township, for hunting without a permit, was released yesterday afternoon, his fine having been paid.

PROBATE MATTERS

The Barth Case Continued—Action Taken on Other Pending Suits.

Lisbon, December 5.—(Special.)—The case of William Anderson vs. Carl Barth et al. has been continued and leave given to file answer and cross petition instanter.

In the case of S. H. Maneval vs. the U. P. church of East Palestine, leave is given the defendant to file answer and cross petition instanter.

In the case of Margaret Moore, as guardian of Nellie and James L. Moore, minor heirs of James L. Moore, deceased, vs. Mrs. Mary Quinn, Thomas D. Quinn et al., partition of two tracts of 160 and 30 acres in Madison township is ordered. James B. McIntosh and William George and a third person to be named are to make the division, one-half of which will go to the plaintiff's wards.

The case of Joseph S. Faloon vs. Charles Matthews has been settled at the defendant's cost.

PLAY TO BE REPEATED

Those Who Were Unable to See "A Trip to the Moon" Will Have Another Chance.

Owing to the fact that many people who wished to witness the performance "A Trip to the Moon," could not be accommodated, either Thursday or Friday night, it has been arranged to give the play again on Monday evening. Friday night many persons were turned away after all the standing room had been sold. The prices for the Monday night performance have been reduced to 10, 20 and 30 cents.

Paying November Bills.

City Auditor Willis Davidson and Treasurer Horton were busy this afternoon paying November bills aggregating several thousand dollars. The most of the amount was distributed among the members of the police, fire and street departments.

MOTHER DISOWNS HER DAUGHTER

Birdie West Has Fallen On Evil Ways and Her Parent Wants Her Locked Up.

Disinherited by her mother, who is doing all in her power to get her sentenced to the penitentiary, Mrs. Birdie West, the woman who figured in the sensational shooting case at New Cumberland less than a year ago, when Marsh Hobbs came near receiving death wounds, and who was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, has undoubtedly the right to decide that the whole world is against her. This statement she has made numerous times of late and it is continuously ringing in the ears of her mother.

The mother, Mrs. Pugh, of West Market street, appeared at the city hall this afternoon and wanted a warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. West, charging her with stealing a dog worth $40. Mrs. Pugh acknowlegded that Mrs. West is her daughter but she said she had disowned her and it was her only desire to get the depraved woman into some penal institution. She said Mrs. West has been pestering her for two weeks, having been liberated from the Canton workhouse within the fortnight. It was learned that Mrs. Pugh's real reason for wanting her daughter arrested is to get rid of her, notwithstanding that she does care considerably for the dog.

"Drink has caused her to become so polluted," said Mrs. Pugh, "she has had a life of misery and it can all be credited to the cursed stuff. Sam West is her second husband. Her first husband was killed while drunk and in company with another woman. I tell you she has been mixed with an awful tribe and I will never own her as my daughter again. Just yesterday she hit me and knocked me out of the house and then picked up a big dish and tried to break her brother's head. She is a terror and I want her sent to the pen if possible."

The mayor was not at the city hall when the mother applied and she left stating she would be back again.

THE HIGH SCHOOL WANTS A PIANO

An Offer From Pittsburg of Which Advantage May Be Taken.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS

In the Schools Are Arousing Much Interest And Excellent Literary Exercises Will Be Held—Encouraging Educational Reports.

Announcement will be made in the public schools on Monday of the contest which the local high school will enter for obtaining the piano offered by the Pittsburg Dispatch for the individual, home, lodge, club, school or secret society or any other association obtaining the largest number of Dispatch coupons. Two pianos are offered, one an $800 Chickering baby grand, and the other a $450 W. F. Frederick upright.

For some time the high school has been in need of a good piano and it is desirous that if possible the $800 piano may be procured. The aid of all the public school children, along with the high school students, will be solicited in the collecting of coupons. The coupon of the Sunday Dispatch will count for three ordinary coupons from the Daily Dispatch. The contest will be open until the first of February, during which time the teachers of the different rooms will receive the coupons from the pupils of their schools, and turn them in at the principal's office of the building they belong to and each principal of the various buildings will present them in turn to Supt' Rayman's office.

It is believed that the children will enjoy working with a will for the winning of the contest. In case the high school students win the piano will be placed in the assembly room of the high school.

During the past week the school children and teachers have showed a desire in their work to accomplish much before the Christmas vacation.

All classes and schools are now quite advanced in the work of the year, which still maintains the same interest, with some new feature or departure from the old methods introduced, occasionally making school a pleasure to the teacher and those to be taught.

Last evening after school a number of girls and boys in different grades were eager to remain and do something in their rooms to aid their teachers in making the first arrangements for the Christmas literary exercises which will be an interesting day to all children just previous to the holiday vacation. Prof. Rayman has decided to have the literary exercises on Friday afternoon, December 18, and the schools will be dismissed on Wednesday evening, December 23.

In a number of the schools the recitations and essays are already being prepared, and with the small ones of the primary grades the teachers find it necessary to find short speeches and assign them early in the month in order that all may be ready to take part in the literary exercises of the third Friday in the month.

The pupils of some of the primary grades yesterday afternoon were given some time for the making of some special work for the decoration of their rooms at Christmas time. The time thus spent was very profitable.

In one fourth grade the pupils brought their needles, thread and scissors and with the direction of their teachers made pouches of light fabric, wherein will be found ruler, pens, slate and lead pencils. This will be tied to one side of the pupil's desk and when slates are taken out of the desk it will be impossible for ruler and pencils to make a noise by falling to the floor.

The idea is one which will teach order and quietness to pupils and the teacher using this simple method will find herself repaid for yesterday's sewing lesson.

The report for the month of November shows an increase of pupils in attendance and more regular and punctual attendance, with a noted decrease in tardiness over last month and many more on the honor roll.

The entire enrollment was: Males, 1,540; females, 1,560; the per cent of attendance for the males was 96 and for the females 94. The number of tardy marks by the males were 63 and 58 by the females; the total honor roll pupils, those that were neither absent or tardy during the month were 632 males and 701 females.

A number of the different schools had no tardiness at all. They were those taught by Misses Lizzie Griggs, Ethel Herbert, Emily Firth, Mary Pike, Carrie Gaver, Hattie Orin, Grace Morgan, Elizabeth Stevenson, Mary Smith, Drusie I. Creighton, Effie McKinnon and Mr. Johnson.

On Tuesday evening the younger teachers and substitutes met and discussed the first chapter in genetic psychology. Some of the topics made very interesting by Prof. Rayman were—First, the spirit of the teacher; second, what it means to be a progressive teacher; third, the great responsibility of the teacher in developing character.

Prof. Rayman yesterday received printed matter from the United States commissioner of education calling attention to the St. Louis exposition and urging that the states organize an exhibit for the exposition and that the public schools be well represented. It called attention to the fact that 200,000 square feet or four or five acres of land at the exposition would be given for educational purposes.

Adjacent to the school exhibit portion will be the space for the representation of musical, literary, medical, sanitary, medicine and surgery. At the exhibition the educational work will be divided as follows: First, presentation of public school work by states; second, presentation of academic work; third, presentation of normal school work; fourth, presentation of college and university work; fifth, special professional and technical school work. Prof. Rayman and the local corps of teachers have not taken any steps for the arrangement of exhibition work, because no directions or methods of procedure have been sent out as yet by our state school commissioner, L. D. Bonebrake. Prof. Rayman stated yesterday that the idea of preparing this kind of work would be well considered before being taken up in our city schools, as he would have nothing interfere with the learning or regular work of the children. However, it might be arranged for later on.

High School Notes.

In the chapel exercises of the high school held yesterday a number of seniors reflected credit upon their class when they delivered several very interesting orations. Miss Sue Wilson spoke on "A Trip Through the New England States." Mr. Shelton Overdorff followed with an oration on "A Trip Through the Sunny South." "A Trip Through the Southwest," by Mr. Herbert Miles was very interesting. Mr. Charles Stevenson took for his topic "A Trip Through the West," and Mr. Williams concluded the literary program with "A Trip on the Great Lakes." Special music added much of interest to the exercises.

In the senior literature class last week one day the seniors were notified that they would have discussions on any topic mentioned and that all class members would be compelled to get up and speak extemporaneously on that topic. If they could think of nothing to say on the subject they were supposed in a graceful and humorous manner to excuse themselves. This idea was excellently carried out and the literature hour was one of rare benefit and enjoyment. Some of the discussions brought up were "Trusts," "Manual Training in the High School," "River Improvements" and "Whether Latin Should Be Compulsory in the High School."

HEART DISEASE SOON CURED!

By the Great Specialist in Heart disease, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., Who Will Send $3.75 Worth of His Personal Treatment Free.

To demonstrate the remarkable curative powers of his new, complete personal treatments by mail for heart disease, short breath, pain in the side shoulder or left arm, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation smothering spells, puffing of the ankles, or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send $3.75 worth free as a trial, to all who mention this paper.

His treatments are the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research and remarkable success in treating the various ailments of the heart, stomach and nerves which so often complicate each case. So astonishing are the results of his complete personal treatments that he does not hesitate to offer all persons a trial free.

Nothing could be more liberal. Few physicians have such confidence in their remedies. There is no reason why all afflicted persons should not avail themselves of this exceedingly liberal offer, as they may never have another such opportunity. No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease.

Mrs. A. Kronck, of Huntington, Ind. was cured after thirty physicians had failed; Mrs. Flora Graetor, of Bristolville, O., aftew twenty-two; Jas. R. Waite, the noted actor, after a score had pronounced him incurable; Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, after five leading physicians had given her up Mrs. Julius Keister, of Chicago, after ten; Mrs. R. Parker, after sixteen failed. Col. N. G. Parker, ex-treasurer of South Carolina, says: "Dr Miles is a skillful physician in a field which requires the best qualities of head and heart."

A thousand references to, and testimonials from bishops, clergymen, bankers, farmers, and their wives will be sent free upon request.

Send at once for free examination chart, pamphlets and free treatment before it is too late. Address, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., 562 to 572 Main street, Elkhart, Ind.

ONLY ONE NEGRO EVER GOT TO HEAVEN

Startling Doctrine Promulgated By a Mormon Patriarch at a Colored Man's Funeral.

Salt Lake City, December 5.—Only one negro has ever entered heaven and hereafter the gates of heaven are closed against the members of the black race.

This is the latest doctrine promulgated by the Mormon church, and the declaration announcing the doom of the colored race was made in a highly sensational manner by a high Mormon church official during the funeral services of Eugene Burns, one of the most prominent colored men in Utah.

Rev. D. A. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church, had just finished his sermon eulogizing the dead negro when Patrick Miner, president of one of the quorums of the seventies of the Mormon church, walked up to his pulpit, and to the consternation of the mourners, began a highly sensational discourse. He declared that the dead man could not enter heaven. All that ever existed of him lay in the coffin before the altar.

He further said that an Ethiopian could not reach the state of exaltation necessary to entrance into heaven. His soul was doomed before his birth. The patriarch's remarks caused awe and consternation among the hearers, and precipitated an ecclesiastical scrimmage.

Rev. Mr. Brown replied to the remarks of the patriarch, referring to a quotation from the bible to prove his contention that any man can be saved on the condition of salvation laid down in the scriptures.

Burns was a grandson of Abel, the body-servant of Joseph Smith, the prophet of the Mormon church. Abel was a negro and, according to the remarks of Patriarch Miner, is the only one of his race who ever succeeded in gaining entrance within the pearly gates. The reason he was so successful in accomplishing that feat, according to the patriarch, was his loyalty and service to Joseph, the prophet, and his belief that the Mormon religion is the only one that ever happened.

Abel, the son of Ham and body-servant of Joseph, the prophet, died and was translated. The children whom he left in this world may never be exalted to that state according to the patriarch. The reason assigned by the patriarch for the non-admission of Ethiopians to the other side is the fact of their dusky skins. No man with black skin may enter the gates of heaven, said the patriarch.

Prompt trials and prompt punishment in case of conviction, are looked for in disposing of the forty-four indictments against thirty-one persons for postal frauds. A business of $140,000,000 a year is now carried on by the postoffice department in which the people are intimately concerned, and they feel confident that the bribers and bribed who have been unearthed will be dealt with according to their deeds and in a spirit of uncompromising justice.

The Zanesville boy who wrote a letter to a mill owner of that city, threatening to burn his property unless he forthwith deposited $900 in a certain designated spot, is probably doing some lusty thinking, with the iron bars of a jail as a reminder that the country has not yet reached that stage at which individuals distribute their wealth without vigorous protest. The bandit business is no longer safe nor profitable in this country.

Dr. Ogden, the health officer, utters a timely and sensible warning when he advises all who use East Liverpool city water to boil it before using. We should not forget that drainage from Butler, Pittsburg and other cities where typhoid fever prevails flows right into our own reservoir. It is a good deal of trouble to boil all water used in a household, but it won't make half the work one case of typhoid fever would.

Chicago is just now enjoying a lamentable prominence throughout the country because of the prevalence of crimes of violence. The one redeeming feature is that she seems determined to get rid of her reputation for lawlessness by making the guilty suffer.

Speaker Cannon is going to try to prod the senate into action. He will find it the largest job of prodding that he ever undertook, but more power to him.

American steel is selling in England for less than the figures quoted by British manufacturers. John Bull is wondering how it is done. He might come over here, establish a few mills and find out.

A New York man died of delirium tremens, although his wife insisted that he never took more than two modest drinks a day. This raises the query, what do they call a modest drink in New York?

The Woman's Relief corps proposes to furnish a room in the new hospital. There are other organizations abundantly able to do likewise. Let the good work go on.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Georgiana Scarlott.

Mrs. Georgiana Scarlott, aged 52 years, died last night at 8 o'clock, at the home of her brother, R. B. Stevenson, Sheridan avenue and May street. Death was due to cancer of the stomach and came after a long illness. Mrs. Scarlott was brought to this city five weeks ago from Cuyahoga Falls, where she had been in a hospital for treatment. She made her home in Minerva, where three of her sons reside. The funeral services will be held at the Stevenson home at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the body will be taken on Monday to Scroggsfield, where the interment will be made. Mrs. Scarlott was a most estimable lady, admired and respected by a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Edith F. Kirkwood.

Mrs. Edith F. Kirkwood died at 6 o'clock last evening, at her father's home, 137 Broadway. She was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Cooley. She leaves one child, two brothers and two sisters, of this city. The remains will be taken from the home Monday at 1:30. Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart will conduct services. The remains may be viewed from 3 to 5 p. m.

Miss Mary Hommel.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Miss Mary Hommel, which took place yesterday near Monongahela, Pa. Miss Hommel formerly lived on Main street in Wellsville, but several months ago went to live with relatives in Pennsylvania. A brother and sister survive her. The remains will be sent to Wellsville Monday and buried there. Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of East Liverpool, will conduct the services at the grave.

MISSION WORKERS' MEETING CLOSED

AN ABLE ADDRESS BY DR. COAN AN IMPORTANT FEATURE.

The Convention Attracted Large Audiences and Aroused Much Interest in This City.

A large attendance was present yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the district missionary convention of the Presbyterian churches held its second session in the First Presbyterian church. The interest of the afternoon was intent upon the addresses made by Mrs. Flora Palmer, a noted missionary of New York, and Rev. Frederick Coan, a returned missionary from Persia. "Home Missionary Work" was the topic handled in a scholarly manner by Mrs. Palmer. She told of the great work being accomplished by the large number of women in the country doing missionary work in their homes, and pointed out just what the great future of this missionary work will be.

Rev. Mr. Coan spoke in a masterly manner upon the work in "Foreign Fields," in which he has been engaged for many years. He spoke of the great work that had already been accomplished for the cause of humanity and civilization and told what might yet be done and what would be accomplished to enlighten the heathen people of the world.

The church in the evening was well filled with the missionary workers of different churches in the city, eager to listen to the noted divine and missionary enthusiast, Rev. Dr. Coan, who spoke on "Missionary Work in Persia." The address was one of the finest of its kind ever delivered in this city and many last evening felt much inspiration in their missionary work with the interesting facts told by Dr. Coan, who has been engaged in foreign missionary work for the past 18 years. The services were opened by Prof. H. F. Laughlin, who led the music. The scripture lesson for the evening was read by Rev. N. M. Crowe, of the Second Presbyterian church, in the East End. An earnest prayer by Rev. J. N. Swan, of the East End, was made, after which Dr. Coan followed with his interesting address. He spoke of the great importance of foreign missionary work in connection with the important problems of the nation. The most important questions and topics of discussion today are identical with the advancement of mission work. In fact, missionary work in the foreign lands among the ignorant classes is the first element in civilization and education.

The speaker told about the Persian people and their beliefs and what is being done by the followers of Jesus Christ or the Syrians and what is being done by the class which follows Mohamet.

The missionary has done much to better the conditions of Persia, and this is quite evident when these better conditions of Persia are compared with those of India and South Africa. Said he: "Persia is 14 times the size of Ohio and has a population of $9,000,000 people." Many missionaries are preaching the gospel among these people and over 90 schools have been established for the education of boys and girls. A girls' seminary is doing much for the cause of missionary work. Those who follow Mohamet live in horrible degradation and the missionaries are doing all in their power to change the believers in Mohamet to those having faith in Christ. The speaker said that greater work was yet to be accomplished before the country could be considered a Christian country.

Your Only Opportunity to Consult Him at the Low Fee—Doubters Awe-Stricken—Your Life an Open Book to Him.

To all who come for readings this week, he will tell you your name, occupation, and whom and when you will marry? "Ye skeptics, come forth?"

Known from ocean to ocean as the marvel of two hemispheres.

Attention

Lawyers, Speculators, Business men of all grades, and ladies from every walk in life, together sound his praise for the benefit they have received. So extraordinary are his marvelous tests of the wonders and powers of Clairvoyancy that they must be witnessed to be believed.

He May Be Consulted Daily on All Affairs of Life.

His work is entirely different from other mediums and self-styled clairvoyants. No darkened rooms or cabinets, but everything done in the broad open light of sober sense. He positively refuses to accept a fee in advance for readings or special work until he is through, and not then if you are not perfectly satisfied. He has thousands of written testimonials from leading citizens of the United States, but never publishes the names of any of his patrons, as he considers his business a sacred trust. If you doubt his ability, call and he will give you positive evidence in your own case absolutely.

It's not what he has done for others, but what he will do for you.

He is a living connection between the unseen existence and this world. He can read the innermost thoughts of souls, see the past, present and future as in a mirror, and by his mysterious power can tell how to avert an evil, how to succeed in business and obtain good fortune. He locates mines and buried treasures, minerals, old estates, lost friends, etc.

Assistance for Troubled or Unfortunate.

If you are in trouble of any kind, discontented or unhappy, or not satisfied in life, or have domestic or love or business troubles, you will be told how to overcome all trouble. Your wish and object in life can be obtained. A SECRET you should know. The power of control.

Every profession in the world has its imposters and black sheep; our profession is no exception.

If you have already made a mistake, thrown away your money and lost confidence through dealings with much advertised and self-styled palmists and clairvoyants and their cheap, clap-trap methods, start from the beginning and consult Mr Hobson. THE HIGH SCHOOL WANTS A PIANO

An Offer From Pittsburg of Which Advantage May Be Taken.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS

In the Schools Are Arousing Much Interest And Excellent Literary Exercises Will Be Held—Encouraging Educational Reports.

Announcement will be made in the public schools on Monday of the contest which the local high school will enter for obtaining the piano offered by the Pittsburg Dispatch for the individual, home, lodge, club, school or secret society or any other association obtaining the largest number of Dispatch coupons. Two pianos are offered, one an $800 Chickering baby grand, and the other a $450 W. F. Frederick upright.

For some time the high school has been in need of a good piano and it is desirous that if possible the $800 piano may be procured. The aid of all the public school children, along with the high school students, will be solicited in the collecting of coupons. The coupon of the Sunday Dispatch will count for three ordinary coupons from the Daily Dispatch. The contest will be open until the first of February, during which time the teachers of the different rooms will receive the coupons from the pupils of their schools, and turn them in at the principal's office of the building they belong to and each principal of the various buildings will present them in turn to Supt' Rayman's office.

It is believed that the children will enjoy working with a will for the winning of tne contest. In case the high school students win the piano will be placed in the assembly room of the high school.

During the past week the school children and teachers have showed a desire in their work to accomplish much before the Christmas vacation.

All classes and schools are now quite advanced in the work of the year, which still maintains the same interest, with some new feature or departure from the old methods introduced, occasionally making school a pleasure to the teacher and those to be taught.

Last evening after school a number of girls and boys in different grades were eager to remain and do something in their rooms to aid their teachers in making the first arrangements for the Christmas literary exercises which will be an interesting day to all children just previous to the holiday vacation. Prof. Rayman has decided to have the literary exercises on Friday afternoon, December 18, and the schools will be dismissed on Wednesday evening, December 23.

In a number of the schools the recitations and essays are already being prepared, and with the small ones of the primary grades the teachers find it necessary to find short speeches and assign them early in the month in order that all may be ready to take part in the literary exercises of the third Friday in the month.

The pupils of some of the primary grades yesterday afternoon were given some time for the making of some special work for the decoration of their rooms at Christmas time. The time thus spent was very profitable.

In one fourth grade the pupils brought their needles, thread and scissors and with the direction of their teachers made pouches of light fabric, wherein will be found ruler, pens, slate and lead pencils. This will be tied to one side of the pupil's desk and when slates are taken out of the desk it will be impossible for ruler and pencils to make a noise by falling to the floor.

The idea is one which will teach order and quietness to pupils and the teacher using this simple method will find herself repaid for yesterday's sewing lesson.

The report for the month of November shows an increase of pupils in attendance and more regular and punctual attendance, with a noted decrease in tardiness over last month and many more on the honor roll.

The entire enrollment was: Males, 1,540; females, 1,560; the per cent of attendance for the males was 96 and for the females 94. The number of tardy marks by the males were 63 and 58 by the females; the total honor roll pupils, those that were neither absent or tardy during the month were 632 males and 701 females.

A number of the different schools had no tardiness at all. They were those taught by Misses Lizzie Griggs, Ethel Herbert, Emily Firth, Mary Pike, Carrie Gaver, Hattie Orin, Grace Morgan, Elizabeth Stevenson, Mary Smith, Drusie I. Creighton, Effie McKinnon and Mr. Johnson.

On Tuesday evening the younger teachers and substitutes met and discussed the first chapter in genetic psychology. Some of the topics made very interesting by Prof. Rayman were—First, the spirit of the teacher; second, what it means to be a progressive teacher; third, the great responsibility of the teacher in developing character.

Prof. Rayman yesterday received printed matter from the United States commissioner of education calling attention to the St. Louis exposition and urging that the states organize an exhibit for the exposition and that the public schools be well represented. It called attention to the fact that 200,000 square feet or four or five acres of land at the exposition would be given for educational purposes.

Adjacent to the school exhibit portion will be the space for the representation of musical, literary, medical, sanitary, medicine and surgery. At the exhibition the educational work will be divided as follows: First, presentation of public school work by states; second, presentation of academic work; third, presentation of normal school work; fourth, presentation of college and university work; fifth, special professional and technical school work. Prof. Rayman and the local corps of teachers have not taken any steps for the arrangement of exhibition work, because no directions or methods of procedure have been sent out as yet by our state school commissioner, L. D. Bonebrake. Prof. Rayman stated yesterday that the idea of preparing this kind of work would be well considered before being taken up in our city schools, as he would have nothing interfere with the learning or regular work of the children. However, it might be arranged for later on.

High School Notes.

In the chapel exercises of the high school held yesterday a number of seniors reflected credit upon their class when they delivered several very interesting orations. Miss Sue Wilson spoke on "A Trip Through the New England States." Mr. Shelton Overdorff followed with an oration on "A Trip Through the Sunny South." "A Trip Through the Southwest," by Mr. Herbert Miles was very interesting. Mr. Charles Stevenson took for his topic "A Trip Through the West," and Mr. Williams concluded the literary program with "A Trip on the Great Lakes." Special music added much of interest to the exercises.

In the senior literature class last week one day the seniors were notified that they would have discussions on any topic mentioned and that all class members would be compelled to get up and speak extemporaneously on that topic. If they could think of nothing to say on the subject they were supposed in a graceful and humorous manner to excuse themselves. This idea was excellently carried out and the literature hour was one of rare benefit and enjoyment. Some of the discussions brought up were "Trusts," "Manual Training in the High School," "River Improvements" and "Whether Latin Should Be Compulsory in the High School."

HEART DISEASE SOON CURED!

By the Great Specialist in Heart disease, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., Who Will Send $3.75 Worth of His Personal Treatment Free.

To demonstrate the remarkable curative powers of his new, complete personal treatments by mail for heart disease, short breath, pain in the side shoulder or left arm, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation smothering spells, puffing of the ankles, or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send $3.75 worth free as a trial, to all who mention this paper.

His treatments are the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research and remarkable success in treating the various ailments of the heart, stomach and nerves which so often complicate each case. So astonishing are the results of his complete personal treatments that he does not hesitate to offer all persons a trial free.

Nothing could be more liberal. Few physicians have such confidence in their remedies. There is no reason why all afflicted persons should not avail themselves of this exceedingly liberal offer, as they may never have another such, opportunity. No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease.

Mrs. A. Kronck, of Huntington, Ind. was cured after thirty physicians had failed; Mrs. Flora Graetor, of Bristolville, O., aftew twenty-two; Jas. R. Waite, the noted actor, after a score had pronounced him incurable; Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, after five leading physicians had given her up Mrs. Julius Keister, of Chicago, after ten; Mrs. R. Parker, after sixteen failed. Col. N. G. Parker, ex-treasurer of South Carolina, says: "Dr Miles is a skillful physician in a field which requires the best qualities of head and heart."

A thousand references to, and testimonials from bishops, clergymen, bankers, farmers, and their wives will be sent free upon request.

Send at once for free examination chart, pamphlets and free treatment before it is too late. Address, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., 562 to 572 Main street, Elkhart, Ind.

ONLY ONE NEGRO EVER GOT TO HEAVEN

Startling Doctrine Promulgated By a Mormon Patriarch at a Colored Man's Funeral.

Salt Lake City, December 5.—Only one negro has ever entered heaven and hereafter the gates of heaven are closed against the members of the black race.

This is the latest doctrine promulgated by the Mormon church, and the declaration announcing the doom of the colored race was made in a highly sensational manner by a high Mormon church official during the funeral services of Eugene Burns, one of the most prominent colored men in Utah.

Rev. D. A. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church, had just finished his sermon eulogizing the dead negro when Patrick Miner, president of one of the quorums of the seventies of the Mormon church, walked up to his pulpit, and to the consternation of the mourners, began a highly sensational discourse. He declared that the dead man could not enter heaven. All that ever existed of him lay in the coffin before the altar.

He further said that an Ethiopian could not reach the state of exaltation necessary to entrance into heaven. His soul was doomed before his birth. The patriarch's remarks caused awe and consternation among the hearers, and precipitated an ecclesiastical scrimmage.

Rev. Mr. Brown replied to the remarks of the patriarch, referring to a quotation from the bible to prove his contention that any man can be saved on the condition of salvation laid down in the scriptures.

Burns was a grandson of Abel, the body-servant of Joseph Smith, the prophet of the Mormon church. Abel was a negro and, according to the remarks of Patriarch Miner, is the only one of his race who ever succeeded in gaining entrance within the pearly gates. The reason he was so successful in accomplishing that feat, according to the patriarch, was his loyalty and service to Joseph, the prophet, and his belief that the Mormon religion is the only one that ever happened.

Abel, the son of Ham and body-servant of Joseph, the prophet, died and was translated. The children whom he left in this world may never be exalted to that state according to the patriarch. The reason assigned by the patriarch for the non-admission of Ethiopians to the other side is the fact of their dusky skins. No man with black skin may enter the gates of heaven, said the patriarch.

M'LAUGHLIN BROTHERS ARE BUILDING STABLES

Will Quarter Many Horses Near Ralston's, Where They Have a Contract.

McLaughlin Bros., the well known railroad contractors, of this city, have commenced the erection of large stables on the property of George Phillips, along Pennsylvania avenue, just west of the Hargraves residence. The stable will be large enough to accommodate about 50 horses and mules which are to be used in the near vicinity this winter. It will be remembered that McLaughlin Bros. secured the contract recently for the grading necessary in changing the old state road to avoid the grade crossing at Ralston's.

The contractors are preparing to spend at least four months on the work as the job is one of the largest of the kind undertaken by the railroad in years. The work is to be commenced next Tuesday.

FISH ARE PLENTIFUL IN LITTLE BEAVER

Parties of East End Fishermen Are Bringing Home All They Care to Carry.

Since the first discovery of the fish in the shallow waters near the mouth of Little Beaver, it is estimated that 200 pounds have been taken out by the people of the East End and instead of diminishing the number of fishing parties is increasing. Success is so certain that the most timid Waltons are trying their hands. The shallow waters are literally alive with several specimens of the finny tribe, including carp, suckers, and perch, and they vary in size from a half pound to five and six.

Several of the fishermen caught all they could carry yesterday afternoon. Among the most successful were Will Terrence, Harry Herbert, Porter Herbert and Charley Herbert, Robert McArte and Harry McArter. Each came home with fine strings and they are going to try it again as soon as the supply on hand is exhausted.

Myler Given a Surprise.

A. P. Myler, the district deputy of the Tribe of Ben Hur, was tendered a surprise last night at his home on Maple street by quite a number of members of the Wellsville, Chester and East End tribes. The gentleman, while taken unawares, was equal to the occasion and all were soon enjoying his well known hospitality. Various games and social pleasantries sufficed to make the moments fly all too quickly and at a late hour all enjoyed an elegant repast.

Young Italian Hurt.

A young Italian employed as a section hand on the C. & P. railroad, was painfully hurt yesterday while at work near the Laughlin pottery. Some fellow workmen pushed a heavy truck against him, one of the wheels passing over and crushing two of his toes. He was taken to the office of Dr. R. J. Marshall, where the injury was attended to.

To Nominate Officers.

The Tribe of Ben Hur will hold an important meeting at its hall next Monday evening, at which time the nomination of officers for the ensuing term will be held. The election will take place one week later. There are several candidates for some of the offices and some lively contests will result.

Buckeye Castle Met.

Buckeye Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, held an interesting meeting last night, at which several candidates were advanced in the degrees. Nominations were opened for the various offices and the election will be held at the meeting December 18.

EAST END ARFFAIRS.

Robert Larkins' horse, injured yesterday in Helena, is not improved and may have to be killed.

Miss McGrew, of the Horace Mann school, left this morning for Beaver Falls to spend Sunday with relatives.

Mrs. William Terrence, who has been quite ill for the past week, is considerably improved today.

Dan Miller, Walter Owen and Al Heckathorn, jiggermen at the East End pottery, were laid off today owing to a shortage of boards.

Will Moore, of Laughlin No. 3, is unable to work owing to a sprained ankle, sustained yesterday while skating on Little Beaver creek.

Several people from the East End attended the social last night given by the Ladies of the Golden Eagle at their hall in the postoffice building.

Dr. M. W. Taylor, of Mulberry street, whose serious illness from nervous prostration was reported yesterday, is considerably improved today.

AT THE THEATER

The New York Sun recently took the cast of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a rural drama, which is to be seen here shortly, as a proof of its theory that the greatest success of a play was made by a competent cast of players who were not well known, rather than a cast of well known favorites. To quote the Sun it said: "An illustration in point is given in 'Quincy Adams Sawyer' at the Academy of Music. No more than two members of that company were known to the first audience." At the Grand Friday night.

"Tobe, take care of the baby," is a simple command, yet it means volumes when given by a dying mother, out on the great plains in the west, to her nine-year-old son, trusting him to care for her new born babe, his little sister. Yet "Young Tobe Hoxie" did it as a duty, even when that baby grew to be a woman and caused many heart aches by her willfulness in having her own way. This beautiful pastoral play will be at the Grand on Tuesday night.

The musical farce comedy, "Peck's Bad Boy," all re-written for this season, retaining all the old characters which have made the play the most successful farce comedy ever produced. He has added all new dialogue, new specialties and all of the latest popular music. At the Grand next Wednesday night.

Hear Charles A. (Karl) Gardner, the sweet singer with Lincoln J. Carter's great scenic comedy, "The Darkest Hour," at the Grand tonight. Mr. Gardner has many admirers in this city and a packed house is anticipated.

Miss Nina Williams will exhibit the Whitely Exerciser at J. J. Rose's store December 8 and 9. 285-i Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the overfed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite house hold remedy for all stomach troubles for over 35 years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. 1

IRON MARKET STEADY

Manufacturing Conditions Irregular---New Year Promises Revival of Business.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Reductions in Wages Brings Little Opposition from Labor—Holiday Goods in Excellent Demand—Eggs and Dairy Products Reach High Prices.

New York, Dec. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade is seasonably quiet except in the lines affected by weather and those embracing holiday goods, which are in good demand. Activity is especially conspicuous among footwear jobbers and retailers. Commodities are generally lower in price, although a few important articles such as cotton, eggs and dairy products have risen so sharply that Dun's index number on Dec. 1 was $98,223, against $97,825 a month previous. For the year there is a decline of about 2 per cent.

Manufacturing conditions are still irregular, the best symptom of the week being the steadiness of iron and steel. Textile mills still find it difficult to secure prices in proper ratio to the raw material, the violent advance in cotton adding to the embarrassment of spinners, who have only limited supplies on hand. Light stocks of hardwood maintain prices, but the demand is moderate. Railway earnings in three weeks of November were 4.8 per cent larger than a year previous.

Several encouraging reports are received regarding the iron and steel situation. In most cases the proposed reduction in wages have met with no opposition, and such business as comes forward is handled without interruption. Another good sign is that the past dullness has brought no reduction in prices. Mills have received several orders for structural shapes and railway supplies. These are all evidences of an end to the deadlock between buyers and sellers, while in the trade there is a growing confidence that the new year will bring a further revival. On the other hand, the market is decidedly quiet. The chief event in the export trade was a large sale of tin plates for shipment to Canada.

Failures this week number 331, against 258 last week, 249 the preceding week and 204 the corresponding week last year.

SILVER SERVICE FOR LIPTON.

Gift of American People Will Be Presented at a Dinner in London.

New York, Dec. 5.—A silver service, consisting of 20 pieces, the gift of the American people to Sir Thomas Lipton, will be forwarded by the Etruria to the United States ambassador in London under cover of instructions from the department of state. Linday Russell, of New York, goes to London by the same steamer as a representative of the national committee.

The presentation committee has been formed in London and a dinner at which Consul General Evans will preside has been arranged for Friday, Dec. 18, to which all prominent Americans abroad and Englishmen interested in Anglo-American relations will be invited.

The inscription on the centerpiece is "From the people of the United States to Sir Thomas Lipton, Baronet, K. C. V. O., who by his good tempered sportsmanship, his generosity to the families of American soldiers and his hospitality to Americans at home and abroad has contributed much to our Anglo-American friendship."

Insane Man Creates a Scene.

New York, Dec. 5.—Kalman Foldessy, who was arrested here during President Roosevelt's visit last week for writing threatening letters to the president, was committed to the Manhattan state hospital for the insane. Foldessy made a scene in court by suddenly drawing a penknife and exclaiming, "If I'm insane why did the doctors give me this?" He was quickly disarmed. How he became possessed of the weapon is unknown Doctors testified that he is hopelessly insane.

Time Saved on Foreign Mail.

New York, Dec. 5.—It is officially announced by the American line that beginning in January, 1904, its steamers from New York for Southamptoa will call at Plymouth and Cherbourg to land mails and passengers for London and Paris. This will enable the mails to reach Paris 12 hours sooner than under the present methods, while there will be a saving of several hours in reaching London.

Killing of Whales Forbidden.

Christiana, Dec. 5.—The Odelhthing unanimously passed a bill forbidding the killing of whales off the Norwegian coast for a period of 10 years. This measure is the outcome of agitation by the fishermen, who accuse the whaling companies of the reckless extermination of the whales. The fishermen argue that it is the whales that drive the fish in shoals to the coast.

Martial Law Proclaimed.

Denver, Dec. 5.—Governor Peabody has decided that a state of rebellion exists in the Cripple Creek district and declared modified martial law. All the people of that section are answerable to the military for their conduct.

"FOR ALL CATARRHAL COMPLAINTS

Pe-ru-na is Most Excellent," Writes Congressman John L. Sheppard.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN L. SHEPPARD.

Congressman John L. Sheppard, Member of Congress from Texas, writes:

Gentlemen:—"I have used Peruna in my family and find it a most excellent remedy for all catarrhal complaints."—Congressman John L. Sheppard.

THERE are two things that the whole medical profession agree about concerning catarrh. The first is that catarrh is the most prevalent and omnipresent disease to which the people in the United States are subject. All classes of people have it. Those who stay in doors much and those who go outdoors much. Working classes have it and sedentary classes have it.

The doctor finds catarrh to be his constant and ever-present foe. It complicates nearly every disease he is called upon to treat.

The second thing about catarrh on which all doctors agree, is that it is difficult to cure it. Local remedies may give relief but they fail to cure permanently. Sprays or snuffs amount to little or nothing except to give temporary relief.

Catarrh is frequently located in internal organs which cannot be reached by any sort of local treatment. All this is known by every physician.

To devise some systemic internal remedy which would reach catarrh at its source, to eradicate it permanently from the system—this has been the desire of the medical profession for a long time. Forty years ago Dr. Hartman confronted this problem. He believed then that he had solved it. He still believes he has solved it. He cures thousands of people annually. During all these years Peruna has been the remedy upon which he has relied.

It was at first a private prescription, afterwards manufactured expressly for him in large quantities. This remedy, Peruna, is now to be found in every drug store and nearly every home in the land. It is the only reliable internal remedy ever devised to cure any case of catarrh, however long the case may have been standing.

A Case of Nasal Catarrh of Five Years' Standing Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Hon. Rudolph M. Patterson, a well-known lawyer, of Chicago, Ill., writes "I have been a sufferer from nasal catarrh for the past five years and at the earnest solicitation of a friend I tried Peruna and am glad to say it has afforded a complete cure. It is with pleasure I recommend it to others."—Rudolph M. Patterson.

A course of Peruna never fails to bring relief. There is no other remedy like Peruna. Its cures are prompt and permanent.

Mr. Camillus Senne, 257 West 129th street, New York, writes:

"I have fully recovered from my catarrhal troubles. I suffered for three years with catarrh of the head, nose and throat. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief, but at last I have been cured by the wonderful remedy called Peruna.

Mr. Camillus Senne.

"I read of Peruna in your almanac, and wrote you for advice, which I followed. After taking one and one-half bottles of Peruna I am entirely cured, and can recommend Peruna to anyone as the best and surest remedy for any catarrhal troubles."—Camillus Senne.

Hearing Lost by Catarrh---Restored by Peruna.

Mr. William Bauer, Burton, Texas, a Ginner and Miller, writes:

"Some years ago I lost the hearing in my left ear, and upon examination by a specialist, catarrh was decided to be the cause. I took a course of treatment and regained my hearing for a time but I soon lost it completely. I commenced to take Peruna according to directions and have taken eight bottles in all, and my hearing is completely restored, and I shall sing the praises of Peruna whenever an opportunity occurs.—Wm. Bauer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

SNAP SHOTS OF TEN DOLLAR BILLS

George White, Roving Photographer, Alleged to Have Engaged in Counterfeiting.

Wheeling, December 5. — George White, a roving photographer temporarily employed at the Jarvis Engraving company, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Special Agent Michael Sneehan, of the United States treasury department, on a serious charge.

White came to this city a short time ago and hired out at odd jobs at the Jarvis Engraving company. While so engaged he undertook the photographing of ten dollar bills on plates, and was detected in the act by other employes of the company. He was taken before United States Commissioner Boyd and bound over for a hearing at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

White has a number of aliases and it is intimated by the officials that he is wanted for some similar acts in other parts of the United States. He claims that he had no ill purpose in view and will be given a chance to explain himself along these lines.

When his operations became known to the engraving company it created general consternation, because of the very unusual character, and the company is very much relieved to know that the matter was nipped in the bud.

SALINEVILLE

Salineville, December 5.—Miss Eva Lewton, of Main street, was the recipient last Monday of a beautiful writing desk as a premium for a soap order of $10.

The funeral of James Gallagher, the saloonist, of the East End, took place last Thursday from St. Patrick's chapel at 10 o'clock. A large procession followed the remains to St. Patrick's cemetery, east of town.

Alexander W. George, an aged and well known citizen of Mooretown, Jefferson county, died last Tuesday, and was laid to rest Thursday in Mooretown cemetery. Mr. George was the last one of the large family of Judge Thomas George and was about 76 years of age. He leaves an aged wife and several married children.

The remains of Mrs. Margaret Connelly, who died last September in this village, were disinterred by J. C. McQuilkin, shipped to her former home in Pennsylvania, and laid to rest beside her husband, who had died several years ago.

Harvey Haverfield, the bookkeeper of the the Citizens' Banking company, after a two weeks' sickness with grip, was out last Tuesday for the first since his late sickness.

Miss Williams will show you the benefits derived from the Whitely Exerciser if you will call on her at Rose's store December 8 and 9. 285-i

WELLSVILLE

CONTAMINATED WATER

From Butler, Pa., Not Only Endangers Wellsville, But All Ohio River Towns.

A prominent Wellsville physician made a statement the other day which may be of interest to other towns along the river besides Wellsville. He called attention to the fact that the Ohio river ultimately received the drainage of the sewers of Butler, Pa., where the awful typhoid fever epidemic is now raging. When asked if the distance over which the water runs after leaving Butler does not destroy all danger of disease in the water, he replied that it did not. Although it does to some extent, the germ of typhoid is exceedingly tenacious of life in water and there are probably enough of them floating down the river from Butler to cause many deaths.

Butler is situated on the banks of the Connoquenessing, which empties into the Beaver and the Ohio receives it from the Beaver. Butler received her scourge from a contaminated water supply and unless remarkable precautions are taken there for the disposal of the sewerage, she will send it onto other parts of the world. The cities along the banks of the Ohio and Beaver, always in some danger of the disease, are now doubly in danger. Wellsville gets her water from the Ohio. There is but one remedy for the case—that is to boil all drinking water taken from the river. If that is done there is practically no danger.

THE FIREMEN'S SHOW

Will Be Elaborate and Interesting and Will Probably Attract Crowds.

Wellsville volunteer firemen are preparing to give one of the biggest popular entertainments held in this city for a long time. It will be given by the firemen in conjunction with the Chicago Novel Show company. The main feature of the program will be a moving picture of the department in action. A picture of the department was taken some time ago by a special picture machine sent here for the occasion. Members of the department met last night at headquarters in the city building to complete arrangements for the show and make preparations for thoroughly canvassing the town for a sale of tickets. Every member of the company will have tickets for sale.

The show will be held in Cooper's opera house on the night before Christmas and a record breaking crowd is expected. The proceeds of the entertainment are for the benefit of the department.

BEACOM RESIGNS

Member of Board of Public Safety Tenders His Resignation to the Mayor.

B. D. Beacom, member of the board of public safety, has resigned his position. He handed in his resignation to Mayor Fogo yesterday and the mayor says it will be accepted.

The mayor will not discuss the matter, but it is commonly reported that the cause was a wrangle at a meeting of the board on Thursday night. It is claimed that there has been ill-feeling among members of the board for some time. The board consists of B. D. Beacom, E. S. Martin, with Mayor Fogo president.

The trouble culminated Thursday night when Beacom and Martin got into a dispute over the merits of fire hose which was to be ordered for the city. Five hundred feet were to be ordered and several companies competed for the sale. Martin and Beacom were unable to agree as to which firm should get the contract and finally Mayor Fogo sided with Martin and intimated that Beacom's resignation would be acceptable.

Beacom says that the other two members have always opposed him and he has intended resigning for some time. The salary of the members of the safety board is but $50 per year. The resignation of Mr. Beacom is to take effect December 7.

Going to Florida.

Dr. C. E. Holland and family will spend the winter in Florida. Dr. Holland has just got over a long and severe attack of pneumonia and is still weak, so that it is imperative that he seek a milder climate for the winter. Dr. Holland's family will leave on next Tuesday morning and go to Crescent City, a quiet place in the northeastern part of the state. They will be gone until next April.

To Attend a Funeral.

Queen City Lodge, the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias, will go to Steubenville tomorrow to attend the funeral of Charles Brown, a member of the order who recently died at that place. About 15 or 20 members will make the trip.

WELLSVILLE SHORT STORIES.

Miss Edna Morris, Hill street, is ill with an attack of bilious fever.

Miss Annie Thompson is suffering from a severe attack of tonsilitis.

'Squire McKenzie was able to resume his duties at his office today.

There is at present not a single case of contagious disease in Wellsville.

Miss Theo Gilmore, Clark avenue, is suffering from an attack of catarrhal fever.

Harold Davidson, of Fourteenth street, sprained his ankle while skating Thursday.

An unknown tramp was arrested last night near the shops in the West End by Officer Thornton. He spent the night in the city jail charged with drunkenness.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Morgan, of Main street, are the parents of a baby boy who arrived yesterday.

Miss Morrison, trimmer in Miss Sexton's millinery establishment, went home ill with an attack of grip yesterday.

City Solicitor Boyd is engaged on the coming trial of Jacob Koontz and a Butler (Pa.) oil company over a well down the river.

The funeral of Luther Moore, who died Thursday night at his home on Short street, took place this afternoon at 1:50 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Beck conducted the services at the home. The interment was made at Spring Hill cemetery.

A stroke of business enterprise unequaled in the history of the city was executed last evening in the grand opening of the mammoth establishment popularly known to the public as Newman's Bazaar. This store is one of the largest of its kind in this section, and its owners had spared neither pains nor expense in making this event one long to be remembered. That the exertions of the management was appreciated was shown by the large crowds which thronged the store from early in the evening until a late hour.

One feature of the opening that could not escape the eye of every visitor was the gorgeous decorations. Maurice Newman, the junior member of the firm, arranged every detail of this work, and the arrangement of the stock, the dressing of the windows and the general decorative scheme was perfection itself.

The firm presented each visitor a beautiful glass toothpick holder with a neat gold band as a souvenir, and though a very large supply had been laid in, the demand was so great that the stock was barely adequate. Newman's Bazaar will be a popular store during the holidays. 285-h

The Mammoth Cave Rat.

The cavern rat, found in the Mammoth cave of Kentucky, is of a soft, bluish color, with white neck and feet. It has enormous eyes, black as night, but quite unprovided with an iris. These eyes are perfectly insensible to light, and when the experiment has been made of catching a cavern rat and turning it loose in bright sunlight it blunders about, striking itself against everything, is unable to provide itself with food and finally falls down and dies. In its native depths, however, it is able to lead a comfortable enough existence, as its enormously long whiskers are so extremely sensitive that they enable it to find its way rapidly through the darkness. The principal food of the cavern rat consists of a kind of large cricket of a pale yellow color and, like most other cave dwellers, itself perfectly blind.

Matrimonial Promotion.

The extent to which the lingo of the navy is used as slang in the families of naval officers, particularly among the women, is instanced by a little story now going the rounds in Washington.

The youngest daughter of a prominent naval officer was entertaining a friend who had called to congratulate the eldest daughter, who lately had become engaged to a captain in the same service as her father. The friend, remarking upon the engagement, suggested that the youngest daughter doubtless would miss her big sister, whereupon the girl addressed quickly replied:

"Oh, dear, yes! But just think of it—I am advanced a number!"

A BRIEF SESSION OF TOWN COUNCIL

Location of Fire Plugs Soon to Be Decided—Fairview Street Improvement.

The meeting of Chester council last night was brief and unimportant. The committee appointed to look after the location of fire plugs had been unable to make a decision for several reasons, and at the suggestion of Mr. Hobbs the council will go over the ground in a body. The members will meet at the corner of First street and Caroline avenue Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, from which point they will work east and locate plugs wherever in their judgment they are needed.

Now that the improvement of Fairview street has been completed, council believes it is time the property owners along that thoroughfare deeded over the tracts promised. Henry Riley was reported to have already given the city a deed for his allotment.

The council selected Enoch Riley to receive the names of candidates for municipal offices and to collect entry fees with which to defray the expenses of the coming election. Candidates can hand in their names up to 7 o'clock in the evening of December 18. The assessments will amount to $2 each on councilmanic candidates and $3 on each candidate for mayor and recorder.

PIG WAS FRIGHTENED AND DROPPED DEAD

Remarkable Occurrence at New Cumberland a Few Days Ago.

A remarkable happenning occurred in New Cumberland on Thanksgiving day. Butchering was in progress at James Patterson's, at the lower end of town. Two fat porkers were in the same pen, and one was shot with a rifle and killed. The other big porker instantly dropped dead from sheer fright. The hog which was shot dressed about 300 pounds. The one which dropped dead, it is said, would have dressed about the same.

No attempt was made to dress the latter and it was buried near by. It was quite a loss. It is said to be a mistake to undertake to kill two hogs in the same pen as they are easily frightened and such things have occurred before, says the Independent.

MASK SOCIAL

Unique and Enjoyable Entertainment to Be Given By Chester Jr. O. U. A. M.

A mask social will be given at Mercer hall, Chester, by the Jr. O. U. A. M. of Chester, W. Va., Monday evening, December 7. This social will be one of the best ever given in Chester by any organization. All persons are requested to come masked to represent some historical or other character.

One of the special features of the entertainment will be a book guessing contest, conducted by the superintendent and teachers of the Chester public schools. The teachers and their friends to the number of 25 will each be disguised in such a way as to represent the title of a book. Each visitor will be allowed to guess what book is represented by the person disguised. A pencil and card will be furnished so that each may record his guess.

The person making the largest number of correct guesses will be awarded a handsome prize. Refreshments will be served. All persons will unmask before supper. It is the intention of the committee to give an entertainment of such a nature that all can come, bringing their wives, sisters, or children and after an evening of genuine enjoyment go away feeling that the promotion of liberty, patriotism and Christianity is indeed the real object of the Jr. O. U. A. M.; that it is the real purpose to teach the young people of Chester that it is possible to have a genuine good time without indulging in questionable amusements.

MATTERS ARRANGED SATISFACTORILY

Chester Mill Will Resume at the Reduced Wages in a Very Short Time.

The outcome of the meeting held by the hot mill men employed at the Chester plant of the American Tin Plate company was not different from that expected, and will ultimately result in the resumption of work the first of the year at the reduction proposed by the company.

More than 200 interested employes of the mill were present and reports were made from the general committee. They made a complete and comprehensive statement of the conditions as they actually exist and as the members of the committee would like to see them.

Though no information was given out, because of an agreement to that effect made by all present, it is understood the report was in every way satisfactory. It had been ascertained that the cut would be heavier in the cases of men receiving the highest rate of wages, those employed at laborers' wages being but slightly affected. The findings of the committee were gratifying, and the feeling created thereby will go a long way toward coming to an amicable understanding with the company.

The sentiment was nearly unanimous in favor of an acceptance of the terms proposed by the corporation, and it is thought when the time limit expires they will return to work with but few exceptions. There may be a few single men who have nothing to keep them in Chester, and in these instances there is a possibility of their quitting, but of the workmen owning or buying property here, it is not likely any will leave town.

STRUCK THE SAND

Hadley Farm Well Will Be Drilled in Some Time This Afternoon.

Drillers at the oil well on the Hadley farm struck the sand at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after inspecting its quality stopped the drills and notified the owners in Chester. This morning John Webster and several other members of the company went to the field and witnessed the drilling in process.

The Chester parties left town early in the morning and upon reaching the Hadley place proposed to start the drills immediately. It was expected something definite would be known concerning the extent of the find this afternoon.

Home from Convention.

W. C. Mahan, R. H. Brown, H. C. Brenneman, Alexander Mahan and W. F. Brown, all of Chester and Hancock county, have returned from the annual meeting of the West Virginia Horticultural society held at Wheeling during the week. The gentlemen report a very interesting and profitable session and assert there ought to be a large representation from this section of the state at the next meeting.

A Popular Waltz.

Mrs. Jennie Ward, the accomplished wife of James Ward, of New Cumberland, has composed a beautiful waltz entitled "Rock Springs Waltz." The piece of music is very pretty and though it has been out of the publisher's hands but a short time is having a phenomenal sale. The selection is destined to have a protracted run in Chester, New Cumberland and East Liverpool.

CHESTER NOTES.

The Ohio Valley Gas company has been petitioned to extend its mains to Lawrenceville.

Robert Dunn, of Dunn street, announces that he is a candidate for reelection to the position of councilman.

Wo Young, the Carolina avenue laundryman, was robbed of a box said to have contained $5 last evening. Though an investigation was made, no clue to the identity of the thief could be found.

John Burr, a colored man employed by Contractor McLaughlin at Rock Springs, froze his feet badly while at work yesterday.

Mrs. J. S. Haugh and daughter, Miss Ruth, have returned to Chester after a visit at the home of R. H. Brown, at New Cumberland.

Jack McLaughlin, contractor on the new lake at Rock Springs, announced yesterday that he would wager $10,000 that he could pull more stakes in a given time than any other man in America.

An Engineer Ill.

J. H. Atkinson has returned to his home in New Cumberland and is confined to the house by a severe attack of grip which threatens to develop into pneumonia. Mr. Atkinson is a civil engineer and contracted a severe cold while working in Chester a short time ago. His condition is said to be serious.

Notice of Meeting.

A meeting of all residents of Chester who are interested in the formation of a volunteer fire department will be held at the town hall Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. A full attendance is desired. 283-r

M'LAUGHLIN BROTHERS ARE BUILDING STABLES

Will Quarter Many Horses Near Ralston's, Where They Have a Contract.

McLaughlin Bros., the well known railroad contractors, of this city, have commenced the erection of large stables on the property of George Phillips, along Pennsylvania avenue, just west of the Hargraves residence. The stable will be large enough to accommodate about 50 horses and mules which are to be used in the near vicinity this winter. It will be remembered that McLaughlin Bros. secured the contract recently for the grading necessary in changing the old state road to avoid the grade crossing at Ralston's.

The contractors are preparing to spend at least four months on the work as the job is one of the largest of the kind undertaken by the railroad in years. The work is to be commenced next Tuesday.

FISH ARE PLENTIFUL IN LITTLE BEAVER

Parties of East End Fishermen Are Bringing Home All They Care to Carry.

Since the first discovery of the fish in the shallow waters near the mouth of Little Beaver, it is estimated that 200 pounds have been taken out by the people of the East End and instead of diminishing the number of fishing parties is increasing. Success is so certain that the most timid Waltons are trying their hands. The shallow waters are literally alive with several specimens of the finny tribe, including carp, suckers, and perch, and they vary in size from a half pound to five and six.

Several of the fishermen caught all they could carry yesterday afternoon. Among the most successful were Will Terrence, Harry Herbert, Porter Herbert and Charley Herbert, Robert McArte and Harry McArter. Each came home with fine strings and they are going to try it again as soon as the supply on hand is exhausted.

Myler Given a Surprise.

A. P. Myler, the district deputy of the Tribe of Ben Hur, was tendered a surprise last night at his home on Maple street by quite a number of members of the Wellsville, Chester and East End tribes. The gentleman, while taken unawares, was equal to the occasion and all were soon enjoying his well known hospitality. Various games and social pleasantries sufficed to make the moments fly all too quickly and at a late hour all enjoyed an elegant repast.

Young Italian Hurt.

A young Italian employed as a section hand on the C. & P. railroad, was painfully hurt yesterday while at work near the Laughlin pottery. Some fellow workmen pushed a heavy truck against him, one of the wheels passing over and crushing two of his toes. He was taken to the office of Dr. R. J. Marshall, where the injury was attended to.

To Nominate Officers.

The Tribe of Ben Hur will hold an important meeting at its hall next Monday evening, at which time the nomination of officers for the ensuing term will be held. The election will take place one week later. There are several candidates for some of the offices and some lively contests will result.

Buckeye Castle Met.

Buckeye Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, held an interesting meeting last night, at which several candidates were advanced in the degrees. Nominations were opened for the various offices and the election will be held at the meeting December 18.

EAST END ARFFAIRS.

Robert Larkins' horse, injured yesterday in Helena, is not improved and may have to be killed.

Miss McGrew, of the Horace Mann school, left this morning for Beaver Falls to spend Sunday with relatives.

Mrs. William Terrence, who has been quite ill for the past week, is considerably improved today.

Dan Miller, Walter Owen and Al Heckathorn, jiggermen at the East End pottery, were laid off today owing to a shortage of boards.

Will Moore, of Laughlin No. 3, is unable to work owing to a sprained ankle, sustained yesterday while skating on Little Beaver creek.

Several people from the East End attended the social last night given by the Ladies of the Golden Eagle at their hall in the postoffice building.

Dr. M. W. Taylor, of Mulberry street, whose serious illness from nervous prostration was reported yesterday, is considerably improved today.

AT THE THEATER

The New York Sun recently took the cast of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a rural drama, which is to be seen here shortly, as a proof of its theory that the greatest success of a play was made by a competent cast of players who were not well known, rather than a cast of well known favorites. To quote the Sun it said: "An illustration in point is given in 'Quincy Adams Sawyer' at the Academy of Music. No more than two members of that company were known to the first audience." At the Grand Friday night.

"Tobe, take care of the baby," is a simple command, yet it means volumes when given by a dying mother, out on the great plains in the west, to her nine-year-old son, trusting him to care for her new born babe, his little sister. Yet "Young Tobe Hoxie" did it as a duty, even when that baby grew to be a woman and caused many heart aches by her willfulness in having her own way. This beautiful pastoral play will be at the Grand on Tuesday night.

The musical farce comedy, "Peck's Bad Boy," all re-written for this season, retaining all the old characters which have made the play the most successful farce comedy ever produced. He has added all new dialogue, new specialties and all of the latest popular music. At the Grand next Wednesday night.

Hear Charles A. (Karl) Gardner, the sweet singer with Lincoln J. Carter's great scenic comedy, "The Darkest Hour," at the Grand tonight. Mr. Gardner has many admirers in this city and a packed house is anticipated.

Miss Nina Williams will exhibit the Whitely Exerciser at J. J. Rose's store December 8 and 9. 285-1

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the overfed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite house hold remedy for all stomach troubles for over 35 years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. IRON MARKET STEADY

Manufacturing Conditions Irregular---New Year Promises Revival of Business.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Reductions in Wages Brings Little Opposition from Labor—Holiday Goods in Excellent Demand—Eggs and Dairy Products Reach High Prices.

New York, Dec. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade is seasonably quiet except in the lines affected by weather and those embracing holiday goods, which are in good demand. Activity is especially conspicuous among footwear jobbers and retailers. Commodities are generally lower in price, although a few important articles such as cotton, eggs and dairy products have risen so sharply that Dun's index number on Dec. 1 was $98,223, against $97,825 a month previous. For the year there is a decline of about 2 per cent.

Manufacturing conditions are still irregular, the best symptom of the week being the steadiness of iron and steel. Textile mills still find it difficult to secure prices in proper ratio to the raw material, the violent advance in cotton adding to the embarrassment of spinners, who have only limited supplies on hand. Light stocks of hardwood maintain prices, but the demand is moderate. Railway earnings in three weeks of November were 4.8 per cent larger than a year previous.

Several encouraging reports are received regarding the iron and steel situation. In most cases the proposed reduction in wages have met with no opposition, and such business as comes forward is handled without interruption. Another good sign is that the past dullness has brought no reduction in prices. Mills have received several orders for structural shapes and railway supplies. These are all evidences of an end to the deadlock between buyers and sellers, while in the trade there is a growing confidence that the new year will bring a further revival. On the other hand, the market is decidedly quiet. The chief event in the export trade was a large sale of tin plates for shipment to Canada.

Failures this week number 331, against 258 last week, 249 the preceding week and 204 the corresponding week last year.

SILVER SERVICE FOR LIPTON.

Gift of American People Will Be Presented at a Dinner in London.

New York, Dec. 5.—A silver service, consisting of 20 pieces, the gift of the American people to Sir Thomas Lipton, will be forwarded by the Etruria to the United States ambassador in London under cover of instructions from the department of state. Lindsay Russell, of New York, goes to London by the same steamer as a representative of the national committee.

The presentation committee has been formed in London and a dinner at which Consul General Evans will preside has been arranged for Friday, Dec. 18, to which all prominent Americans abroad and Englishmen interested in Anglo-American relations will be invited.

The inscription on the centerpiece is "From the people of the United States to Sir Thomas Lipton, Baronet, K. C. V. O., who by his good tempered sportsmanship, his generosity to the families of American soldiers and his hospitality to Americans at home and abroad has contributed much to our Anglo-American friendship."

Insane Man Creates a Scene.

New York, Dec. 5.—Kalman Foldessy, who was arrested here during President Roosevelt's visit last week for writing threatening letters to the president, was committed to the Manhattan state hospital for the insane. Foldessy made a scene in court by suddenly drawing a penknife and exclaiming, "If I'm insane why did the doctors give me this?" He was quickly disarmed. How he became possessed of the weapon is unknown. Doctors testified that he is hopelessly insane.

Time Saved on Foreign Mail.

New York, Dec. 5.—It is officially announced by the American line that beginning in January, 1904, its steamers from New York for Southampton will call at Plymouth and Cherbourg to land mails and passengers for London and Paris. This will enable the mails to reach Paris 12 hours sooner than under the present methods, while there will be a saving of several hours in reaching London.

Killing of Whales Forbidden.

Christiana, Dec. 5.—The Odelhthing unanimously passed a bill forbidding the killing of whales off the Norwegian coast for a period of 10 years. This measure is the outcome of agitation by the fishermen, who accuse the whaling companies of the reckless extermination of the whales. The fishermen argue that it is the whales that drive the fish in shoals to the coast.

Martial Law Proclaimed.

Denver, Dec. 5.—Governor Peabody has decided that a state of rebellion exists in the Cripple Creek district and declared modified martial law. All the people of that section are answerable to the military for their conduct.

"FOR ALL CATARRHAL COMPLAINTS

Pe-ru-na is Most Excellent," Writes Congressman John L. Sheppard.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN L. SHEPPARD.

Congressman John L. Sheppard, Member of Congress from Texas, writes:

Gentlemen:—"I have used Peruna in my family and find it a most excellent remedy for all catarrhal complaints."—Congressman John L. Sheppard.

THERE are two things that the whole medical profession agree about concerning catarrh. The first is that catarrh is the most prevalent and omnipresent disease to which the people in the United States are subject. All classes of people have it. Those who stay in doors much and those who go outdoors much. Working classes have it and sedentary classes have it.

The doctor finds catarrh to be his constant and ever-present foe. It complicates nearly every disease he is called upon to treat.

The second thing about catarrh on which all doctors agree, is that it is difficult to cure it. Local remedies may give relief but they fail to cure permanently. Sprays or snuffs amount to little or nothing except to give temporary relief.

Catarrh is frequently located in internal organs which cannot be reached by any sort of local treatment. All this is known by every physician.

To devise some systemic internal remedy which would reach catarrh at its source, to eradicate it permanently from the system—this has been the desire of the medical profession for a long time. Forty years ago Dr. Hartman confronted this problem. He believed then that he had solved it. He still believes he has solved it. He cures thousands of people annually. During all these years Peruna has been the remedy upon which he has relied.

It was at first a private prescription, afterwards manufactured expressly for him in large quantities. This remedy, Peruna, is now to be found in every drug store and nearly every home in the land. It is the only reliable internal remedy ever devised to cure any case of catarrh, however long the case may have been standing.

A Case of Nasal Catarrh of Five Years' Standing Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Hon. Rudolph M. Patterson, a well-known lawyer, of Chicago, Ill., writes

"I have been a sufferer from nasal catarrh for the past five yeaas and at the earnest solicitation of a friend I tried Peruna and am glad to say it has afforded a complete cure. It is with pleasure I recommend it to others."—Rudolph M. Patterson.

A course of Peruna never fails to bring relief. There is no other remedy like Peruna. Its cures are prompt and permanent.

Mr. Camillus Senne, 257 West 129th street, New York, writes:

"I have fully recovered from my catarrhal troubles. I suffered for three years with catarrh of the head, nose and throat. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief, but at last I have been cured by the wonderful remedy called Peruna.

Mr. Camillus Senne.

"I read of Peruna in your almanac, and wrote you for advice, which I followed. After taking one and one-half bottles of Peruna I am entirely cured, and can recommend Peruna to anyone as the best and surest remedy for any catarrhal troubles."—Camillus Senne.

Hearing Lost by Catarrh---Restored by Peruna.

Mr. William Bauer, Burton, Texas, a Ginner and Miller, writes:

"Some years ago I lost the hearing in my left ear, and upon examination by a specialist, catarrh was decided to be the cause. I took a course of treatment and regained my hearing for a time but I soon lost it completely. I commenced to take Peruna according to directions and have taken eight bottles in all, and my hearing is completely restored, and I shall sing the praises of Peruna whenever an opportunity occurs.—Wm. Bauer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

SNAP SHOTS OF TEN DOLLAR BILLS

George White, Roving Photographer, Alleged to Have Engaged in Counterfeiting.

Wheeling, December 5. — George White, a roving photographer temporarily employed at the Jarvis Engraving company, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Special Agent Michael Sneehan, of the United States treasury department, on a serious charge.

White came to this city a short time ago and hired out at odd jobs at the Jarvis Engraving company. While so engaged he undertook the photographing of ten dollar bills on plates, and was detected in the act by other employes of the company. He was taken before United States Commissioner Boyd and bound over for a hearing at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

White has a number of aliases and it is intimated by the officials that he is wanted for some similar acts in other parts of the United States. He claims that he had no ill purpose in view and will be given a chance to explain himself along these lines.

When his operations became known to the engraving company it created general consternation, because of the very unusual character, and the company is very much relieved to know that the matter was nipped in the bud.

SALINEVILLE

Salineville, December 5.—Miss Eva Lewton, of Main street, was the recipient last Monday of a beautiful writing desk as a premium for a soap order of $10.

The funeral of James Gallagher, the saloonist, of the East End, took place last Thursday from St. Patrick's chapel at 10 o'clock. A large procession followed the remains to St. Patrick's cemetery, east of town.

Alexander W. George, an aged and well known citizen of Mooretown, Jefferson county, died last Tuesday, and was laid to rest Thursday in Mooretown cemetery. Mr. George was the last one of the large family of Judge Thomas George and was about 76 years of age. He leaves an aged wife and several married children.

The remains of Mrs. Margaret Connelly, who died last September in this village, were disinterred by J. C. McQuilkin, shipped to her former home in Pennsylvania, and laid to rest beside her husband, who had died several years ago.

Harvey Haverfield, the bookkeeper of the the Citizens' Banking company, after a two weeks' sickness with grip, was out last Tuesday for the first since his late sickness.

Miss Williams will show you the benefits derived from the Whitely Exerciser if you will call on her at Rose's store December 8 and 9. 285-1

Prompt trials and prompt punishment in case of conviction, are looked for in disposing of the forty-four indictments against thirty-one persons for postal frauds. A business of $140,000,000 a year is now carried on by the postoffice department in which the people are intimately concerned, and they feel confident that the bribers and bribed who have been unearthed will be dealt with according to their deeds and in a spirit of uncompromising justice.

The Zanesville boy who wrote a letter to a mill owner of that city, threatening to burn his property unless he forthwith deposited $900 in a certain designated spot, is probably doing some lusty thinking, with the iron bars of a jail as a reminder that the country has not yet reached that stage at which individuals distribute their wealth without vigorous protest. The bandit business is no longer safe nor profitable in this country.

Dr. Ogden, the health officer, utters a timely and sensible warning when he advises all who use East Liverpool city water to boil it before using. We should not forget that drainage from Butler, Pittsburg and other cities where typhoid fever prevails flows right into our own reservoir. It is a good deal of trouble to boil all water used in a household, but it won't make half the work one case of typhoid fever would.

Chicago is just now enjoying a lamentable prominence throughout the country because of the prevalence of crimes of violence. The one redeeming feature is that she seems determined to get rid of her reputation for lawlessness by making the guilty suffer.

Speaker Cannon is going to try to prod the senate into action. He will find it the largest job of prodding that he ever undertook, but more power to him.

American steel is selling in England for less than the figures quoted by British manufacturers. John Bull is wondering how it is done. He might come over here, establish a few mills and find out.

A New York man died of delirium tremens, although his wife insisted that he never took more than two modest drinks a day. This raises the query, what do they call a modest drink in New York?

The Woman's Relief corps proposes to furnish a room in the new hospital. There are other organizations abundantly able to do likewise. Let the good work go on.

The health board succeeds vastly better in discussing nuisances than in putting in motion the machinery that shall put a stop to them.

New rich gold fields have been discovered in Mexico. There's no use talking. That country will have to be Anglo-Saxonized.

The extra session of congress has accomplished little, even in the way of talk. Not one good speech has been made.

Mrs. Georgiana Scarlott.

Mrs. Georgiana Scarlott, aged 52 years, died last night at 8 o'clock, at the home of her brother, R. B. Stevenson, Sheridan avenue and May street. Death was due to cancer of the stomach and came after a long illness. Mrs. Scarlott was brought to this city five weeks ago from Cuyahoga Falls, where she had been in a hospital for treatment. She made her home in Minerva, where three of her sons reside. The funeral services will be held at the Stevenson home at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the body will be taken on Monday to Scroggsfield, where the interment will be made. Mrs. Scarlott was a most estimable lady, admired and respected by a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Edith F. Kirkwood.

Mrs. Edith F. Kirkwood died at 6 o'clock last evening, at her father's home, 137 Broadway. She was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Cooley. She leaves one child, two brothers and two sisters, of this city. The remains will be taken from the home Monday at 1:30. Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart will conduct services. The remains may be viewed from 3 to 5 p. m.

Miss Mary Hommel.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Miss Mary Hommel, which took place yesterday near Monongahela, Pa. Miss Hommel formerly lived on Main street in Wellsville, but several months ago went to live with relatives in Pennsylvania. A brother and sister survive her. The remains will be sent to Wellsville Monday and buried there. Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of East Liverpool, will conduct the services at the grave.

MISSION WORKERS' MEETING CLOSED

AN ABLE ADDRESS BY DR. COAN AN IMPORTANT FEATURE.

The Convention Attracted Large Audiences and Aroused Much Interest in This City.

A large attendance was present yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the district missionary convention of the Presbyterian churches held its second session in the First Presbyterian church. The interest of the afternoon was intent upon the addresses made by Mrs. Flora Palmer, a noted missionary of New York, and Rev. Frederick Coan, a returned missionary from Persia. "Home Missionary Work" was the topic handled in a scholarly manner by Mrs. Palmer. She told of the great work being accomplished by the large number of women in the country doing missionary work in their homes, and pointed out just what the great future of this missionary work will be.

Rev. Mr. Coan spoke in a masterly manner upon the work in "Foreign Fields," in which he has been engaged for many years. He spoke of the great work that had already been accomplished for the cause of humanity and civilization and told what might yet be done and what would be accomplished to enlighten the heathen people of the world.

The church in the evening was well filled with the missionary workers of different churches in the city, eager to listen to the noted divine and missionary enthusiast, Rev. Dr. Coan, who spoke on "Missionary Work in Persia." The address was one of the finest of its kind ever delivered in this city and many last evening felt much inspiration in their missionary work with the interesting facts told by Dr. Coan, who has been engaged in foreign missionary work for the past 18 years. The services were opened by Prof. H. F. Laughlin, who led the music. The scripture lesson for the evening was read by Rev. N. M. Crowe, of the Second Presbyterian church, in the East End. An earnest prayer by Rev. J. N. Swan, of the East End, was made, after which Dr. Coan followed with his interesting address. He spoke of the great importance of foreign missionary work in connection with the important problems of the nation. The most important questions and topics of discussion today are identical with the advancement of mission work. In fact, missionary work in the foreign lands among the ignorant classes is the first element in civilization and education.

The speaker told about the Persian people and their beliefs and what is being done by the followers of Jesus Christ or the Syrians and what is being done by the class which follows Mohamet.

The missionary has done much to better the conditions of Persia, and this is quite evident when these better conditions of Persia are compared with those of India and South Africa. Said he: "Persia is 14 times the size of Ohio and has a population of $9,000,000 people." Many missionaries are preaching the gospel among these people and over 90 schools have been established for the education of boys and girls. A girls' seminary is doing much for the cause of missionary work. Those who follow Mohamet live in horrible degradation and the missionaries are doing all in their power to change the believers in Mohamet to those having faith in Christ. The speaker said that greater work was yet to be accomplished before the country could be considered a Christian country.

To all who come for readings this week, he will tell you your name, occupation, and whom and when you will marry? "Ye skeptics, come forth?"

Known from ocean to ocean as the marvel of two hemispheres.

Attention

Lawyers, Speculators, Business men of all grades, and ladies from every walk in life, together sound his praise for the benefit they have received. So extraordinary are his marvelous tests of the wonders and powers of Clairvoyancy that they must be witnessed to be believed.

He May Be Consulted Daily on All Affairs of Life.

His work is entirely different from other mediums and self-styled clairvoyants. No darkened rooms or cabinets, but everything done in the broad open light of sober sense. He positively refuses to accept a fee in advance for readings or special work until he is through, and not then if you are not perfectly satisfied. He has thousands of written testimonials from leading citizens of the United States, but never publishes the names of any of his patrons, as he considers his business a sacred trust. If you doubt his ability, call and he will give you positive evidence in your own case absolutely.

It's not what he has done for others, but what he will do for you.

He is a living connection between the unseen existence and this world. He can read the innermost thoughts of souls, see the past, present and future as in a mirror, and by his mysterious power can tell how to avert an evil, how to succeed in business and obtain good fortune. He locates mines and buried treasures, minerals, old estates, lost friends, etc.

Assistance for Troubled or Unfortunate.

If you are in trouble of any kind, discontented or unhappy, or not satisfied in life, or have domestic or love or business troubles, you will be told how to overcome all trouble. Your wish and object in life can be obtained. A SECRET you should know. The power of control.

Every profession in the world has its imposters and black sheep; our profession is no exception.

If you have already made a mistake, thrown away your money and lost confidence through dealings with much advertised and self-styled palmists and clairvoyants and their cheap, clap-trap methods, start from the beginning and consult Mr. Hobson. If nothing can be done for you he will not take one cent of your money.

REALM OF SPORTS

HOLLENDENS WON A GREAT VICTORY

Belmont Rivals Taken Into Camp 12 to 0, In a Strenuous Game.

SECOND HALF DISASTROUS

Belmonts Held Well in the First Half But in the Second Their Line Was Pushed Back Until a Hollenden Got a Touchdown.

In one of the hardest fought games ever known here the Hollendens won yesterday from the Belmonts by a score of 12 to 0. After a see-saw first half, in which honors were easy, the Hollendens rushed the ball from the Belmont's 30 yard line to their goal. Mountford going over with the ball. The second touchdown came a few minutes later when Smith, after Orr's punt had been blocked, seized the ball and sped away to the posts. "Cracker" Davidson made both goal kicks. Time was up in the second half with the ball at the Belmont goal line and in possession of the enemy. For the second time Orr's punt had been blocked and Little fell on it.

The game was not well played, owing for the most part to the general lack of practice, but at times individual players done good work. With an extra heavy man or two the Hollendens aggregated in weight almost as much as their opponents, but most of the players were light. The lighter players were the best ground gainers and taking it all around played a better game.

Too much credit cannot be given Smith, of the high school eleven, who played left half. He cross bucked through tackles for nice gains and played a great defensive game. Mountford played well at times but was weak on punting, hitherto his strongest point. Two of the punts went out of bounds and for the first time this year he had a punt blocked on him. This happened a second time in the game. The two punts that went out of bounds were carried by the wind. Mountford's bucking and defensive play was great. Little, after the first few minutes of play, during which he failed to gain, took a brace and proved a great ground gainer.

When the Belmonts got a peep at Hill, the Hollenden right tackle, there was consternation. Six foot two and weighing over 200, the stranger, for not a Belmont had seen him before, looked most formidable and he did play well at making or breaking up interference. Averill, another stranger, who played right end in the first half, forgot to get in the game. He stayed out of every scrimmage and the Belmont's noting his tactics, tried to run his end. He was taken out in the second half.

Metsch did the best end work, several of his tackles being spectacular. The good work of the line is apparent from the way the Belmonts were held for downs.

On the Belmont side Louthan and Dawson were perhaps the best ground gainers, although Orr and Firth carried the ball for a number of gains. Dawson got away around right end in one scrimmage and had a clear field for a touchdown, but bumped into a spectator and fell. Gardner played hard at right end, but several times in his eagerness to get in the thick of a scrimmage, failed to guard his end properly. In justice to Orr, who missed one throw from center and had two kicks blocked, it must be said that in all three cases the ball was poorly snapped. He had little chance in either case. The Belmont line, after holding well in the first half, was pushed back in the second by the terrific bucking.

First Half.

Orr kicked off and the Belmonts followed up the ball and nailed it. The Belmonts failed to gain and the ball went to the Hollendens. Smith made the first nice gain when he went through center for 5 yards. Tatgenhorst was hurt and Carnahan went in. Orr nailed Little for a loss when he tried around left end and Mountford had to punt. The ball went 30 yards before leaving fair territory. On two downs the Belmonts failed to gain, but Firth carried for 8 on the third. There was a 10-yard loss on a fumble and Orr punted to Mountford. Little failed to gain on the first down and Mountford punted again, the ball going out of bounds. Louthan made 5 yards around right end, but Metsch nailed Dawson for no gain and when Firth failed to gain the ball went to the Hollendens on downs.

Little lost 3 yards, but Mountford burrowed through right tackle for 10. Smith failed to gain and Orr nailed Davidson on a quarterback attempt. Mountford stepped back for a punt, which Orr blocked. Orr made a desperate try to get away with the ball, but Mountford downed him. Orr gained 3 yards through center, but Davidson nailed Minehart for a loss on a quarterback run, and the ball again went to the Hollendens on downs. The Hollendens failed to gain in two scrimmages and time was up with the ball in the center of the field.

Second Half.

Mountford kicked off to the Belmonts' 15-yard line and Dawson fumbled and was downed in his tracks. Gardner gained 2 through center and Orr hit the same spot for 3. Dawson went around left end for 3 and Louthan skirted left end for 5. Smith tackled Dawson for a loss and the ball was the Hollendens again on Belmonts' 35-yard line. Without a break the Hollendens pushed the Belmonts' line back until the goal was reached. Smith started it with a 7-yard gain and Mountford added 5. Little made 4 and Mountford carried again for 7. Little gained 5 around right end and Smith got through left tackles for 8. Little gained 2 through center. With the ball on the line the Belmonts prepared to stop Mountford on a hurdle, but instead he dodged past right tackle and over. Davidson kicked goal.

After several minutes of hot fighting in the center of the field, Orr was forced to punt to save on downs. The kick was blocked and Smith got the ball and with a clear field made a touchdown. Davidson again made the goal kick.

With but a few minutes to play the Belmonts realized they could not win, but did not diminish their efforts. They attempted several trick plays, but none of them went through. Time was called with the ball on their goal line, where Little fell on it after another blocked punt.

RECORD BROKEN BY CAPT. CLARK

Local Bowler Averages 266 in One Game and Averages 209 in 10 Games—Contest Tonight.

Some of the finest bowling ever witnessed in this city was in evidence on the Imperial alleys last evening, when Capt. Clark's team played Capt. Rigby's bunch. Capt. Clark did the greatest bowling stunt of his life and was instrumental in carrying his team to victory in two of the three games. The phenomenal manner in which Clark sent them down the alley was an enjoyable surprise. In the match game he broke the record of the alleys by making 266 in the second game and he sent the record sailing in the air again by averaging 209 in about 10 games playing during the entire evening.

Considerable interest has centered on this sport and many thrilling contests are assured for the winter. The accommodating proprietors of the alleys are arranging to secure teams from all surrounding towns and tonight Beaver Falls will give the local boys a fight for the victory. The individual scores made last evening follow:

Rigby's team—Rigby, 176, 175, 177; Wells, 178, 154, 103; Gipner, 140, 134, 175; Stroud, 145, 146, 144; Evanitcka, 149, 150, 148.

BILLY GILBERT'S SIGNAL SUCCESS

A Baseball Player of Note Whom Many East Liverpool People Know.

The signal success of Billy Gilbert, the crack second baseman of the New York Giants, on the diamond, is a source of much pride to his legion of friends. Billy's home is in Trenton, N. J., where he received his training as a ball player. He is known personally to perhaps the majority of former Trentonians now residing in East Liverpool. To them he is known as "Gimpy," a nickname bestowed upon him when he was yet an urchin of less than ten years. The writer played ball with Billy almost 20 years ago, on "Bummer's hill" and on the back lots in Trenton, and lived but a few doors from him. He showed cleverness as a player then, and when the "big boys" had a game to play "Gimp" was the only one of the kids to get a place on the team. He was usually put at short, a position he played with snap and vim. He would sooner play ball than eat, and little wonder it is he has achieved such success in the game.

Billy was always popular, and now he is the idol of the "bleacherites." He has just signed a contract with New York for next year and the fans are happy. As a fielder he excells and as a batter is away up. He plays a fast consistent game. He has been playing professional ball for some years, and has been in the big leagues several seasons. He is 29 years old, has good health, a splendid physique and bids fair to put in many years in fast company on the diamond.

ENROLLING MEMBERS

Books of Citizens Industrial Associations Open to Bodies Wishing to Affiliate.

CHAMPIONS INDEPENDENT LABOR

Blames Acts of Lawlessness on Organized Workmen and in Defense Form Counter Organizations—Believes in Open Shop.

Dayton, O., Dec. 5.—Before adjournment the executive committee of the Citizens Industrial association resolved against members placing the union label on articles of their own manufacture. They also took ground in opposition to the eight-hour bill now pending in congress. They provided for the formation of a labor information bureau for the use of members. The following platform was adopted as an open letter to the public and affiliated associations:

Resolved, By the executive committee of the Citizens Industrial Association of America, That the present industrial conditions have become so deplorable by reason of the indefensible methods and claims of organized labor, that the time has come when the employing interests and good citizenship of the country must take immediate and effective measures to reaffirm and enforce those fundamental principles of American government guaranteeing free, competitive conditions.

Country's Prosperity Threatened.

In its demand for the closed shop organized labor is seeking to overthrow individual liberty and property rights, the principal prop of our government. Its methods for securing this revolutionary and socialistic change in our institutions are also those of physical warfare. Because of this warfare the industrial interests of the nation during the last years have been injured to an irreparable degree. Many firms have been driven into bankruptcy and the cases are innumerable in which workingmen have been disabled and even murdered, while numerous families have been rendered destitute by reason of the tyranny and seditious attacks upon society by the strike organizations. A condition of anarchy has existed continuously in some states for months past, and, in fact, the acts of lawlessness committed under the sacred name of labor are of such frequent recurrence that the public sense of their enormity has become blunted. The period of great prosperity brought about by the unrestricted operation of the law of supply and demand is also being destroyed by the acts of violence of organized labor, and as a result we are now confronted with the possibility of a period of depression.

While we most emphatically object to being classed as enemies of organizations of labor that are conducted upon lawful and beneficent lines, yet we are unalterably opposed to the present program of violence, boycotting and tyranny now being carried out by the majority of labor unions.

Forming Counter Organizations.

We therefore urge the rapid organization of those who believe in the maintenance of law and order and the perpetuation of our free institutions to the end that they may wield their full and proper influence upon the destinies of the nation. Since organizations exist for the apparent purpose of defying law and common sense and are able to intimidate and influence public men and municipal authorities, there is no alternative left to those who desire to preserve bearable conditions in our body politic than that of forming counter organizations. It is only through the machinery of organization that we can hope to exercise a potent and salutary influence over public thought and the conduct of public officials, to the end that the rights of American citizenship can be assured to free and independent labor, the rights of property protected and legislation of a socialistic nature prevented from being enacted into law.

We invite all associations, local, state and national, that sympathize with the purpose of the Citizens Industrial Association of America to enter into affiliation with us at the earliest practicable time, and we urge the immediate formation of local branches of the national organization in all the cities and towns where no organizations now exist that are eligible for membership in this association.

The committee herewith instructs the secretary of the association to open the books of the organization and to enroll in its membership all associations that desire to affiliate with it.

Secretary Started Sugar Factory.

Detroit, Dec. 5.—Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson left for Washington, having spent several days visiting sugar beet factories in this state. At Owosso Secretary Wilson, in the presence of a large crowd of spectators, pulled a cord that set in motion for the first time the machinery of a new beet sugar factory.

Destructive Fire in Salina, Kan.

Salina, Kan., Dec. 5.—Fire destroyed the four-story building occupied by the H. D. Lee Wholesale Grocery company, damaged the building and contents of the H. D. Lee Hardware company and burned several smaller buildings, causing an aggregate loss estimated at $500,000. The insurance is about $250,000.

IOWA BANKER SUICIDES.

Domestic Troubles Given as Cause—Worth Quarter of a Million.

Des Moines, Dec. 5.—George D. Wood, president of the bank of Colfax and director of other banks in Iowa, committed suicide at his home in Colfax by shooting himself through the head. Wood was 44 years of age. He was married a year ago to a nurse who attended a former wife during her last illness. Domestic trouble is supposed to have caused the suicide. Wood was worth over $250,000 and his accounts were straight.

Ex-County Treasurer Layman had $2,000 Polk county money deposited in Wood's bank at Colfax. Much anxiety over the safety of the county funds is expressed. The state bank at Baxter, another of the Wood's series, closed its doors temporarily to await developments. It was given out that the institution was financially sound and the action was taken merely to determine what course was to pursue. The banks at Mitchellville, Ira and Mingo, of which Wood was a director, are operating.

English Companies Consolidated.

London, Dec. 5.—Amalgamation was announced of the Weardal Steel, Coal and Coke company and the South Durham Iron and Steel company, two of the most important concerns in the north of England steel trade. In Lanarkshire steel centers representatives of United States firms offered steel billets and slabs at $5 per ton under the minimum home quotation. Iron merchants are arranging for an extensive importation of Canadian iron to the Clyde Overcome by Sewer Gas.

Pittsburg, Dec. 5.—By the accumulation of sewer gas in the drug store of Walter and Edward May, on Market street, and the Louvre adjoining, near Fifth avenue, 15 persons were injured. Most of them revived within an hour after they had been overcome by the gas, but three are still in a serious condition.

Vessel and Cargo Burned.

Buffalo, Dec. 5.—The propeller Emery was burned in the Niagara river near Tonawanda. The crew escaped. The flames broke out in the forward hold and spread so rapidly that Captain Dacurran was forced to beach his vessel on Grand island. The Emery was owned by W. L. Martin, of Cheboygan, Mich. The vessel and cargo of lumber were valued at about $50,000.

Far Eastern Squabble Settled.

London, Dec. 5.—Telegrams received from Pekin say there are persistent rumors that a settlement of the far eastern situation has been reached by the governments of Japan and Russia.

Cats Fond of Olives.

"I have often wondered if all cats like olives," remarked a Germantown woman who is very fond of the feline tribe. "All mine do, and I have six. Olives are usually an acquired taste with the human race, but cats seem to take to them naturally; at least mine do. An olive will set any one of them into paroxysms of joy. They will leave milk or fish or any other article of food for it, purring and rolling over it much as though it might have the intoxicating effect of catnip before they finally eat it. I have often tried olives on other cats in the houses of friends and have found them equally appreciative, only they prefer their olives cut up into pieces."—Philadelphia Record.

The Struggle.

An athlete is not made in an hour and the giant oak is only a specimen of endurance after its hardy conflict with the elements. So it is with the character of a man and of a woman. It is the struggle of the years that makes the heart heroic.—Schoolmaster.

BLIND-FOLD.

Blindfold a woman and she loses all confidence in herself. Her step is slow, hesitating and uncertain. Her hands are raised to ward the imaginary blows which threaten her. When a sick woman seeks the means of health she is often like a woman blindfold. She has no confidence. She cannot tell what her effort will lead to. She turns now to this side and then to the other in uncertainty and doubt.

The sick woman who uses Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may do so with absolute confidence. It invites open-eyed investigation. There need be no hesitation in following the hundreds of thousands of women who have found a perfect cure for womanly ills in the use of this medicine.

"Favorite Prescription" cures irregularity and dries weakening drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"With a heart full of gratitude to you for sending out over the land your wonderful medicine I send these few lines, hoping that some poor suffering women will try Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Cora L. Root, of Greenspring Furnace, Washington Co., Maryland. "I had suffered severly from female weakness and had to be in bed a great deal of the time. Had headache, backache, and pain in left side when lying down. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and had not taken two bottles when I was able to be around again and do my work with but little pain. Can now eat anything and it never hurts me any more. Have taken seven bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and one of his 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' Feeling better every day. My husband says I look better every day."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

Married Women
Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

TWELVE PAGES.

Prompt trials and prompt punishment in case of conviction, are looked for in disposing of the forty-four indictments against thirty-one persons for postal frauds. A business of $140,000,000 a year is now carried on by the postoffice department in which the people are intimately concerned, and they feel confident that the bribers and bribed who have been unearthed will be dealt with according to their deeds and in a spirit of uncompromising justice.

The Zanesville boy who wrote a letter to a mill owner of that city, threatening to burn his property unless he forthwith deposited $900 in a certain designated spot, is probably doing some lusty thinking, with the iron bars of a jail as a reminder that the country has not yet reached that stage at which individuals distribute their wealth without vigorous protest. The bandit business is no longer safe nor profitable in this country.

Dr. Ogden, the health officer, utters a timely and sensible warning when he advises all who use East Liverpool city water to boil it before using. We should not forget that drainage from Butler, Pittsburg and other cities where typhoid fever prevails flows right into our own reservoir. It is a good deal of trouble to boil all water used in a household, but it won't make half the work one case of typhoid fever would.

Chicago is just now enjoying a lamentable prominence throughout the country because of the prevalence of crimes of violence. The one redeeming feature is that she seems determined to get rid of her reputation for lawlessness by making the guilty suffer.

Speaker Cannon is going to try to prod the senate into action. He will find it the largest job of prodding that he ever undertook, but more power to him.

American steel is selling in England for less than the figures quoted by British manufacturers. John Bull is wondering how it is done. He might come over here, establish a few mills and find out.

A New York man died of delirium tremens, although his wife insisted that he never took more than two modest drinks a day. This raises the query, what do they call a modest drink in New York?

The Woman's Relief corps proposes to furnish a room in the new hospital. There are other organizations abundantly able to do likewise. Let the good work go on.

The health board succeeds vastly better in discussing nuisances than in putting in motion the machinery that shall put a stop to them.

New rich gold fields have been discovered in Mexico. There's no use talking. That country will have to be Anglo-Saxonized.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Georgiana Scarlott.

Mrs. Georgiana Scarlott, aged 52 years, died last night at 8 o'clock, at the home of her brother, R. B. Stevenson, Sheridan avenue and May street. Death was due to cancer of the stomach and came after a long illness. Mrs. Scarlott was brought to this city five weeks ago from Cuyahoga Falls, where she had been in a hospital for treatment. She made her home in Minerva, where three of her sons reside. The funeral services will be held at the Stevenson home at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the body will be taken on Monday to Scroggsfield, where the interment will be made. Mrs. Scarlott was a most estimable lady, admired and respected by a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Edith F. Kirkwood.

Mrs. Edith F. Kirkwood died at 6 o'clock last evening, at her father's home, 137 Broadway. She was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Cooley. She leaves one child, two brothers and two sisters, of this city. The remains will be taken from the home Monday at 1:30. Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart will conduct services. The remains may be viewed from 3 to 5 p. m.

Miss Mary Hommel.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Miss Mary Hommel, which took place yesterday near Monongahela, Pa. Miss Hommel formerly lived on Main street in Wellsville, but several months ago went to live with relatives in Pennsylvania. A brother and sister survive her. The remains will be sent to Wellsville Monday and buried there. Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of East Liverpool, will conduct the services at the grave.

MISSION WORKERS' MEETING CLOSED

AN ABLE ADDRESS BY DR. COAN AN IMPORTANT FEATURE.

The Convention Attracted Large Audiences and Aroused Much Interest in This City.

A large attendance was present yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the district missionary convention of the Presbyterian churches held its second session in the First Presbyterian church. The interest of the afternoon was intent upon the addresses made by Mrs. Flora Palmer, a noted missionary of New York, and Rev. Frederick Coan, a returned missionary from Persia. "Home Missionary Work" was the topic handled in a scholarly manner by Mrs. Palmer. She told of the great work being accomplished by the large number of women in the country doing missionary work in their homes, and pointed out just what the great future of this missionary work will be.

Rev. Mr. Coan spoke in a masterly manner upon the work in "Foreign Fields," in which he has been engaged for many years. He spoke of the great work that had already been accomplished for the cause of humanity and civilization and told what might yet be done and what would be accomplished to enlighten the heathen people of the world.

The church in the evening was well filled with the missionary workers of different churches in the city, eager to listen to the noted divine and missionary enthusiast, Rev. Dr. Coan, who spoke on "Missionary Work in Persia." The address was one of the finest of its kind ever delivered in this city and many last evening felt much inspiration in their missionary work with the interesting facts told by Dr. Coan, who has been engaged in foreign missionary work for the past 18 years. The services were opened by Prof. H. F. Laughlin, who led the music. The scripture lesson for the evening was read by Rev. N. M. Crowe, of the Second Presbyterian church, in the East End. An earnest prayer by Rev. J. N. Swan, of the East End, was made, after which Dr. Coan followed with his interesting address. He spoke of the great importance of foreign missionary work in connection with the important problems of the nation. The most important questions and topics of discussion today are identical with the advancement of mission work. In fact, missionary work in the foreign lands among the ignorant classes is the first element in civilization and education.

The speaker told about the Persian people and their beliefs and what is being done by the followers of Jesus Christ or the Syrians and what is being done by the class which follows Mohamet.

The missionary has done much to better the conditions of Persia, and this is quite evident when these better conditions of Persia are compared with those of India and South Africa. Said he: "Persia is 14 times the size of Ohio and has a population of $9,000,000 people." Many missionaries are preaching the gospel among these people and over 90 schools have been established for the education of boys and girls. A girls' seminary is doing much for the cause of missionary work. Those who follow Mohamet live in horrible degradation and the missionaries are doing all in their power to change the believers in Mohamet to those having faith in Christ. The speaker said that greater work was yet to be accomplished before the country could be considered a Christian country.

PALMIST.

Your Future can be Told. A True Clairvoyant.

$2 Reading For 50c

for next week only then fee will be higher.

Your Only Opportunity to Consult Him at the Low Fee—Doubters Awe-Stricken—Your Life an Open Book to Him.

To all who come for readings this week, he will tell you your name, occupation, and whom and when you will marry? "Ye skeptics, come forth?"

Known from ocean to ocean as the marvel of two hemispheres.

Attention

Lawyers, Speculators, Business men of all grades, and ladies from every walk in life, together sound his praise for the benefit they have received. So extraordinary are his marvelous tests of the wonders and powers of Clairvoyancy that they must be witnessed to be believed.

He May Be Consulted Daily on All Affairs of Life.

His work is entirely different from other mediums and self-styled clairvoyants. No darkened rooms or cabinets, but everything done in the broad open light of sober sense. He positively refuses to accept a fee in advance for readings or special work until he is through, and not then if you are not perfectly satisfied. He has thousands of written testimonials from leading citizens of the United States, but never publishes the names of any of his patrons, as he considers his business a sacred trust. If you doubt his ability, call and he will give you positive evidence in your own case absolutely.

It's not what he has done for others, but what he will do for you.

He is a living connection between the unseen existence and this world. He can read the innermost thoughts of souls, see the past, present and future as in a mirror, and by his mysterious power can tell how to avert an evil, how to succeed in business and obtain good fortune. He locates mines and buried treasures, minerals, old estates, lost friends, etc.

Assistance for Troubled or Unfortunate.

If you are in trouble of any kind, discontented or unhappy, or not satisfied in life, or have domestic or love or business troubles, you will be told how to overcome all trouble. Your wish and object in life can be obtained. A SECRET you should know. The power of control.

Every profession in the world has its imposters and black sheep; our profession is no exception.

If you have already made a mistake, thrown away your money and lost confidence through dealings with much advertised and self-styled palmists and clairvoyants and their cheap, clap-trap methods, start from the beginning and consult Mr. Hobson. If nothing can be done for you he will not take one cent of your money.

WELLSVILLE

CONTAMINATED WATER

From Butler, Pa., Not Only Endangers Wellsville, But All Ohio River Towns.

A prominent Wellsville physician made a statement the other day which may be of interest to other towns along the river besides Wellsville. He called attention to the fact that the Ohio river ultimately received the drainage of the sewers of Butler, Pa., where the awful typhoid fever epidemic is now raging. When asked if the distance over which the water runs after leaving Butler does not destroy all danger of disease in the water, he replied that it did not. Although it does to some extent, the germ of typhoid is exceedingly tenacious of life in water and there are probably enough of them floating down the river from Butler to cause many deaths.

Butler is situated on the banks of the Connoquenessing, which empties into the Beaver and the Ohio receives it from the Beaver. Butler received her scourge from a contaminated water supply and unless remarkable precautions are taken there for the disposal of the sewerage, she will send it onto other parts of the world. The cities along the banks of the Ohio and Beaver, always in some danger of the disease, are now doubly in danger. Wellsville gets her water from the Ohio. There is but one remedy for the case—that is to boil all drinking water taken from the river. If that is done there is practically no danger.

THE FIREMEN'S SHOW

Will Be Elaborate and Interesting and Will Probably Attract Crowds.

Wellsville volunteer firemen are preparing to give one of the biggest popular entertainments held in this city for a long time. It will be given by the firemen in conjunction with the Chicago Novel Show company. The main feature of the program will be a moving picture of the department in action. A picture of the department was taken some time ago by a special picture machine sent here for the occasion. Members of the department met last night at headquarters in the city building to complete arrangements for the show and make preparations for thoroughly canvassing the town for a sale of tickets. Every member of the company will have tickets for sale.

The show will be held in Cooper's opera house on the night before Christmas and a record breaking crowd is expected. The proceeds of the entertainment are for the benefit of the department.

BEACOM RESIGNS

Member of Board of Public Safety Tenders His Resignation to the Mayor.

B. D. Beacom, member of the board of public safety, has resigned his position. He handed in his resignation to Mayor Fogo yesterday and the mayor says it will be accepted.

The mayor will not discuss the matter, but it is commonly reported that the cause was a wrangle at a meeting of the board on Thursday night. It is claimed that there has been ill-feeling among members of the board for some time. The board consists of B. D. Beacom, E. S. Martin, with Mayor Fogo president.

The trouble culminated Thursday night when Beacom and Martin got into a dispute over the merits of fire hose which was to be ordered for the city. Five hundred feet were to be ordered and several companies competed for the sale. Martin and Beacom were unable to agree as to which firm should get the contract and finally Mayor Fogo sided with Martin and intimated that Beacom's resignation would be acceptable.

Beacom says that the other two members have always opposed him and he has intended resigning for some time. The salary of the members of the safety board is but $50 per year. The resignation of Mr. Beacom is to take effect December 7.

Going to Florida.

Dr. C. E. Holland and family will spend the winter in Florida. Dr. Holland has just got over a long and severe attack of pneumonia and is still weak, so that it is imperative that he seek a milder climate for the winter. Dr. Holland's family will leave on next Tuesday morning and go to Crescent City, a quiet place in the northeastern part of the state. They will be gone until next April.

To Attend a Funeral.

Queen City Lodge, the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias, will go to Steubenville tomorrow to attend the funeral of Charles Brown, a member of the order who recently died at that place. About 15 or 20 members will make the trip.

The funeral of Luther Moore, who died Thursday night at his home on Short street, took place this afternoon at 1:50 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Beck conducted the services at the home. The interment was made at Spring Hill cemetery.

A stroke of business enterprise unequaled in the history of the city was executed last evening in the grand opening of the mammoth establishment popularly known to the public as Newman's Bazaar. This store is one of the largest of its kind in this section, and its owners had spared neither pains nor expense in making this event one long to be remembered. That the exertions of the management was appreciated was shown by the large crowds which thronged the store from early in the evening until a late hour.

One feature of the opening that could not escape the eye of every visitor was the gorgeous decorations. Maurice Newman, the junior member of the firm, arranged every detail of this work, and the arrangement of the stock, the dressing of the windows and the general decorative scheme was perfection itself.

The firm presented each visitor a beautiful glass toothpick holder with a neat gold band as a souvenir, and though a very large supply had been laid in, the demand was so great that the stock was barely adequate. Newman's Bazaar will be a popular store during the holidays. 285-h

The Mammoth Cave Rat.

The cavern rat, found in the Mammoth cave of Kentucky, is of a soft, bluish color, with white neck and feet. It has enormous eyes, black as night, but quite unprovided with an iris. These eyes are perfectly insensible to light, and when the experiment has been made of catching a cavern rat and turning it loose in bright sunlight it blunders about, striking itself against everything, is unable to provide itself with food and finally falls down and dies. In its native depths, however, it is able to lead a comfortable enough existence, as its enormously long whiskers are so extremely sensitive that they enable it to find its way rapidly through the darkness. The principal food of the cavern rat consists of a kind of large cricket of a pale yellow color and, like most other cave dwellers, itself perfectly blind.

Matrimonial Promotion.

The extent to which the lingo of the navy is used as slang in the families of naval officers, particularly among the women, is instanced by a little story now going the rounds in Washington.

The youngest daughter of a prominent naval officer was entertaining a friend who had called to congratulate the eldest daughter, who lately had become engaged to a captain in the same service as her father. The friend, remarking upon the engagement, suggested that the youngest daughter doubtless would miss her big sister, whereupon the girl addressed quickly replied:

"Oh, dear, yes! But just think of it—I am advanced a number!"

SOUTH SIDE

Location of Fire Plugs Soon to Be Decided—Fairview Street Improvement.

The meeting of Chester council last night was brief and unimportant. The committee appointed to look after the location of fire plugs had been unable to make a decision for several reasons, and at the suggestion of Mr. Hobbs the council will go over the ground in a body. The members will meet at the corner of First street and Caroline avenue Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, from which point they will work east and locate plugs wherever in their judgment they are needed.

Now that the improvement of Fairview street has been completed, council believes it is time the property owners along that thoroughfare deeded over the tracts promised. Henry Riley was reported to have already given the city a deed for his allotment.

The council selected Enoch Riley to receive the names of candidates for municipal offices and to collect entry fees with which to defray the expenses of the coming election. Candidates can hand in their names up to 7 o'clock in the evening of December 18. The assessments will amount to $2 each on councilmanic candidates and $3 on each candidate for mayor and recorder.

PIG WAS FRIGHTENED AND DROPPED DEAD

Remarkable Occurrence at New Cumberland a Few Days Ago.

A remarkable happenning occurred in New Cumberland on Thanksgiving day. Butchering was in progress at James Patterson's, at the lower end of town. Two fat porkers were in the same pen, and one was shot with a rifle and killed. The other big porker instantly dropped dead from sheer fright. The hog which was shot dressed about 300 pounds. The one which dropped dead, it is said, would have dressed about the same.

No attempt was made to dress the latter and it was buried near by. It was quite a loss. It is said to be a mistake to undertake to kill two hogs in the same pen as they are easily frightened and such things have occurred before, says the Independent.

MASK SOCIAL

Unique and Enjoyable Entertainment to Be Given By Chester Jr. O. U. A. M.

A mask social will be given at Mercer hall, Chester, by the Jr. O. U. A. M. of Chester, W. Va., Monday evening, December 7. This social will be one of the best ever given in Chester by any organization. All persons are requested to come masked to represent some historical or other character.

One of the special features of the entertainment will be a book guessing contest, conducted by the superintendent and teachers of the Chester public schools. The teachers and their friends to the number of 25 will each be disguised in such a way as to represent the title of a book. Each visitor will be allowed to guess what book is represented by the person disguised. A pencil and card will be furnished so that each may record his guess.

The person making the largest number of correct guesses will be awarded a handsome prize. Refreshments will be served. All persons will unmask before supper. It is the intention of the committee to give an entertainment of such a nature that all can come, bringing their wives, sisters, or children and after an evening of genuine enjoyment go away feeling that the promotion of liberty, patriotism and Christianity is indeed the real object of the Jr. O. U. A. M.; that it is the real purpose to teach the young people of Chester that it is possible to have a genuine good time without indulging in questionable amusements.

MATTERS ARRANGED SATISFACTORILY

Chester Mill Will Resume at the Reduced Wages in a Very Short Time.

The outcome of the meeting held by the hot mill men employed at the Chester plant of the American Tin Plate company was not different from that expected, and will ultimately result in the resumption of work the first of the year at the reduction proposed by the company.

More than 200 interested employes of the mill were present and reports were made from the general committee. They made a complete and comprehensive statement of the conditions as they actually exist and as the members of the committee would like to see them.

Though no information was given out, because of an agreement to that effect made by all present, it is understood the report was in every way satisfactory. It had been ascertained that the cut would be heavier in the cases of men receiving the highest rate of wages, those employed at laborers' wages being but slightly affected. The findings of the committee were gratifying, and the feeling created thereby will go a long way toward coming to an amicable understanding with the company.

The sentiment was nearly unanimous in favor of an acceptance of the terms proposed by the corporation, and it is thought when the time limit expires they will return to work with but few exceptions. There may be a few single men who have nothing to keep them in Chester, and in these instances there is a possibility of their quitting, but of the workmen owning or buying property here, it is not likely any will leave town.

STRUCK THE SAND

Hadley Farm Well Will Be Drilled in Some Time This Afternoon.

Drillers at the oil well on the Hadley farm struck the sand at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after inspecting its quality stopped the drills and notified the owners in Chester. This morning John Webster and several other members of the company went to the field and witnessed the drilling in process.

The Chester parties left town early in the morning and upon reaching the Hadley place proposed to start the drills immediately. It was expected something definite would be known concerning the extent of the find this afternoon.

Home from Convention.

W. C. Mahan, R. H. Brown, H. C. Brenneman, Alexander Mahan and W. F. Brown, all of Chester and Hancock county, have returned from the annual meeting of the West Virginia Horticultural society held at Wheeling during the week. The gentlemen report a very interesting and profitable session and assert there ought to be a large representation from this section of the state at the next meeting.

A Popular Waltz.

Mrs. Jennie Ward, the accomplished wife of James Ward, of New Cumberland, has composed a beautiful waltz entitled "Rock Springs Waltz." The piece of music is very pretty and though it has been out of the publisher's hands but a short time is having a phenomenal sale. The selection is destined to have a protracted run in Chester, New Cumberland and East Liverpool.

CHESTER NOTES.

The Ohio Valley Gas company has been petitioned to extend its mains to Lawrenceville.

Robert Dunn, of Dunn street, announces that he is a candidate for reelection to the position of councilman.

Wo Young, the Carolina avenue laundryman, was robbed of a box said to have contained $5 last evening. Though an investigation was made, no clue to the identity of the thief could be found.

John Burr, a colored man employed by Contractor McLaughlin at Rock Springs, froze his feet badly while at work yesterday.

Mrs. J. S. Haugh and daughter, Miss Ruth, have returned to Chester after a visit at the home of R. H. Brown, at New Cumberland.

Jack McLaughlin, contractor on the new lake at Rock Springs, announced yesterday that he would wager $10,000 that he could pull more stakes in a given time than any other man in America.

An Engineer Ill.

J. H. Atkinson has returned to his home in New Cumberland and is confined to the house by a severe attack of grip which threatens to develop into pneumonia. Mr. Atkinson is a civil engineer and contracted a severe cold while working in Chester a short time ago. His condition is said to be serious.

Notice of Meeting.

A meeting of all residents of Chester who are interested in the formation of a volunteer fire department will be held at the town hall Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. A full attendance is desired. 283-r

Whiskey and Beer Habit

PERMANENTLY CURED BY

"ORRINE,"

A SAFE, SURE AND HARMLESS SPECIFIC.

Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system, creating a morbid craving for a stimulant. Continued indulgence in whiskey, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and stupefies the digestive organs, thus destroying the digestion and ruining the health. No "will power" can heal the inflamed stomach membranes.

"ORRINE" permanently removes the craving for liquor by acting directly on the affected nerves, restoring the stomach and digestive organs to normal conditions, improving the appetite and restoring the health. No sanitarium treatment necessary. "ORRINE" can be taken at your own home without publicity. Can be given secretly if desired.

CURE GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Mr. E. T. Sims, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "Use my name as a twenty-year drunkard restored to manhood and health by four boxes of 'ORRINE.' It is a wonderful and marvelous cure for the drink habit."

Mrs. E. Wycliff, New York City, writes: "'ORRINE' cured my husband, who was a steady drunkard for many years. He now has no desire for stimulants, his health is good and he is fully restored to manhood. He used only five boxes of 'ORRINE.'"

Mrs. W. L. D., Helena, Mont., writes: "I have waited one year before writing you of the permanent cure of my son. He took sanitarium treatment, as well as other advertised cures, but they all failed until we gave him 'ORRINE.' He is now fully restored to health and has no desire for drink."

Mr. H. L. R., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I am satisfied that drunkenness is a disease and the worst in the world. 'ORRINE,' in my opinion, will cure any case if taken as you direct. I was a common drunkard for twenty years, but to-day I am free of any desire for liquor. You have found the specific. God bless you!"

Mr. A. E. L., Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I was born with a love of whiskey and drank it for thirty-two years. It finally brought me to the gutter, homeless and friendless. I was powerless to resist the craving and would steal and lie to get whiskey. Four boxes of 'ORRINE' cured me of all desire and I now hate the smell of liquor."

Price $1 per box, 6 boxes for $5. Mailed in plain, sealed wrapper by Orrine Company, 817 14th street, Washington, D. C. Interesting booklet (sealed) free on request.

BEYOND DOUBT

These Facts Must Convince Every East Liverpool Reader.

The statement which follows tells the experience of a resident of East Liverpool. Incredulity cannot long exist about this testimony because it can easily be investigated.

Mr. William Terrence, fireman at engine house No. 1, says: "For some time I was annoyed with symptoms of either weakened or over-excited kidneys. I had noticed more than one recommendation made by people living in East Liverpool about Doan's Kidney Pills, and thinking that if the medicine performed half what it promised it might help me. I bought a box at Lambins' drug store. The treatment cured me."

BRIGHTS DISEASE AND DIABETES NEWS

San Francisco, Nov. 26, 1903.
To Will Reed's Pharmacy.
Dear Sirs:

There are daily occurrences in this city that ought to be known all over the world. A guileless old gentleman, an octogenarian, a distant relative of Robert Fulton of first steamship fame, saved the lives of hundreds (probably thousands) after they were believed to be beyond human aid. His discovery is undoubtedly the long-sought cure of Bright's disease and diabetes.

This is not easy of belief and it is the purpose of a number of business and professional men of this city (of whom I am one) to tell the people. You are hereby authorized to tell all those in your city who have either Bright's Disease or Diabetes that nearly nine-tenths of them can recover. Among the business men who are giving moral and financial support and who would give neither if the above was not strictly true are Hon. D. M. Burns, President Candelaria Mining Company; Edward Mills, President Bullock & Jones Company; Captain Roberts, President Boca and Loyalton R. R. Co.; Thos. Kirpatrick, Capitalist; D. E. Bender, Capitalist; Wm. Sharp, Capitalist; W. C. Price, Capitalist, and many others. The pamphlets herewith are to be given to all inquirers without charge. They give the complete history of our long and exhaustive investigation.

Yours truly,
A. E. SHATTUCK,
President Pacific States Type Foundry.

HERE HE IS AGAIN!

Once more the Romoc man expounds the Theories of Health. This is What He Says:

SEE here, good people, I have only a few words to say in making my appearance again this year. If you need my advice, you probably need it badly, and it is simply this: start in with Romoc, the sooner the better, and fortify yourself against the ills that are bound to come during the next few months.

Remember that Romoc is the medicine made from a rock. There is nothing in this whole, wide world that I have ever found in my travels, or that any of you have ever seen or heard of, that will so effectually cure Rheumatism, Indigestion, Nervousness, and all Blood Troubles, and besides curing these ills, that will absolutely make you well of any of the many derangements that are a result of such affections.

I want to remind you of another fact relating to Romoc, and that is, Romoc is Nature's own remedy. It combines all the virtues found in every one of the great mineral springs of the world. There is not a single drop of alcohol in Romoc, nor are there any poisons or other deleterious substances, that you find the ingenuity of man adds to many so-called health-giving medicines to their detriment, and the danger of the people who use them.

Ask for ROMOC LAXATIVE TABLETS—SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION.

We have investigated Romoc. We know that all that is said by the Romoc man pertaining to this wonderful remedy is true, and we will refund to anyone the price of the remedy not satisfied with the results obtained. Remember, Romoc is guaranteed and sold by

Murderer Armstrong Will Hang.

Tuskegee, Ala., Dec. 5.—Ralph Armstrong was convicted of the murder of his cousin, Miss Allie Armstrong, and was sentenced to be hanged on Jan. 8. The case will be appealed. Armstrong shot his cousin, with whom he was in love, in Natasulga, Ala. The defense attempted to show that Armstrong was irresponsible by reason of prolonged drinking. The state proved that Armstrong the day before the murder had written a note to his mother announcing his intention of killing his cousin and himself. Armstrong is a son of the late H. Clay Armstrong, once United States consul at Rio Janiero and twice speaker of the Alabama house of representatives.

Gold Hunters Fight Over Claims.

Rincon, N. M., Dec. 5.—Three men, badly wounded, were brought here from the new gold fields at Apache canyon for treatment. They had been shot in conflicts over claims. It is reported that several other men have been shot. No names are given. A mining expert who was sent to Apache canyon to investigate returned, reporting that the field is very rich, but limited in extent. There are now 2,500 men on the ground and more are arriving daily.

Blair in Depressed Condition.

St. Louis, Dec. 5.—James L. Blair, who was indicted by the grand jury on two counts charging forgery, is in a very depressed condition, according to what can be learned at the hospital. The attending physician said he feared the result of the shock on Mr. Blair, but would make no further statement. It is expected that the date for the trial of Blair will be set in a few days.

Fast Mail Has Accident.

Peru, Ind., Dec. 5.—Wabash fast mail train No. 9, running rapidly because behind time, jumped the rails at the Baltimore and Ohio crossing at St. Joe, on the Butler-New Haven branch, and a bad accident was prevented by Engineman Higgins, of Peoria. The baggage and combination cars were on the ties when the train was brought to a halt. No one was injured.

OFFER NO WITNESSES.

Counsel for McGregor and Upton Says Government Failed to Make Case.

Baltimore, Dec. 5.—Pinning confidence in their belief that the prosecution has failed to make a prima facie case against former Postal Clerks Thomas W. McGregor and Columbus E. Upton, counsel for the defense in the now widely-known trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the government by selling leather pouches at exorbitant prices decided to close the case without putting a single witness on the stand to testify for their clients.

When United States District Attorney John C. Rose announced to Judge Morris and the jury in the United States circuit court that the government had produced all its testimony it was generally thought that witnesses for the defense would be called immediately. William S. Bryan, of counsel for the accused, sprung a decided surprise when he arose and said:

"We do not think the government has made out a prima facie case and, therefore, we will offer no witnesses."

Mr. Bryan then announced that prayers will be prepared and exchanged between counsel. Argument on the prayers will be offered Monday. The court will not sit on the case today. General argument on the entire case will begin after the prayers are argued upon.

FEVER FATALITIES.

Death List of Butler's Typhoid Epidemic Now Numbers Forty-Three.

Butler, Pa., Dec. 5.—Eleven new cases of typhoid fever were reported to the board of health Friday and more deaths occurred than in any previous day since the epidemic commenced, the number being six, which makes the total 43. The dead of the day are:

WELLSVILLE

CONTAMINATED WATER

From Butler, Pa., Not Only Endangers Wellsville, But All Ohio River Towns.

A prominent Wellsville physician made a statement the other day which may be of interest to other towns along the river besides Wellsville. He called attention to the fact that the Ohio river ultimately received the drainage of the sewers of Butler, Pa., where the awful typhoid fever epidemic is now raging. When asked if the distance over which the water runs after leaving Butler does not destroy all danger of disease in the water, he replied that it did not. Although it does to some extent, the germ of typhoid is exceedingly tenacious of life in water and there are probably enough of them floating down the river from Butler to cause many deaths.

Butler is situated on the banks of the Connoquenessing, which empties into the Beaver and the Ohio receives it from the Beaver. Butler received her scourge from a contaminated water supply and unless remarkable precautions are taken there for the disposal of the sewerage, she will send it onto other parts of the world. The cities along the banks of the Ohio and Beaver, always in some danger of the disease, are now doubly in danger. Wellsville gets her water from the Ohio. There is but one remedy for the case—that is to boil all drinking water taken from the river. If that is done there is practically no danger.

THE FIREMEN'S SHOW

Will Be Elaborate and Interesting and Will Probably Attract Crowds.

Wellsville volunteer firemen are preparing to give one of the biggest popular entertainments held in this city for a long time. It will be given by the firemen in conjunction with the Chicago Novel Show company. The main feature of the program will be a moving picture of the department in action. A picture of the department was taken some time ago by a special picture machine sent here for the occasion. Members of the department met last night at headquarters in the city building to complete arrangements for the show and make preparations for thoroughly canvassing the town for a sale of tickets. Every member of the company will have tickets for sale.

The show will be held in Cooper's opera house on the night before Christmas and a record breaking crowd is expected. The proceeds of the entertainment are for the benefit of the department.

BEACOM RESIGNS

Member of Board of Public Safety Tenders His Resignation to the Mayor.

B. D. Beacom, member of the board of public safety, has resigned his position. He handed in his resignation to Mayor Fogo yesterday and the mayor says it will be accepted.

The mayor will not discuss the matter, but it is commonly reported that the cause was a wrangle at a meeting of the board on Thursday night. It is claimed that there has been ill-feeling among members of the board for some time. The board consists of B. D. Beacom, E. S. Martin, with Mayor Fogo president.

The trouble culminated Thursday night when Beacom and Martin got into a dispute over the merits of fire hose which was to be ordered for the city. Five hundred feet were to be ordered and several companies competed for the sale. Martin and Beacom were unable to agree as to which firm should get the contract and finally Mayor Fogo sided with Martin and intimated that Beacom's resignation would be acceptable.

Beacom says that the other two members have always opposed him and he has intended resigning for some time. The salary of the members of the safety board is but $50 per year. The resignation of Mr. Beacom is to take effect December 7.

Going to Florida.

Dr. C. E. Holland and family will spend the winter in Florida. Dr. Holland has just got over a long and severe attack of pneumonia and is still weak, so that it is imperative that he seek a milder climate for the winter. Dr. Holland's family will leave on next Tuesday morning and go to Crescent City, a quiet place in the northeastern part of the state. They will be gone until next April.

To Attend a Funeral.

Queen City Lodge, the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias, will go to Steubenville tomorrow to attend the funeral of Charles Brown, a member of the order who recently died at that place. About 15 or 20 members will make the trip.

WELLSVILLE SHORT STORIES.

Miss Edna Morris, Hill street, is ill with an attack of bilious fever.

Miss Annie Thompson is suffering from a severe attack of tonsilitis.

'Squire McKenzie was able to resume his duties at his office today.

There is at present not a single case of contagious disease in Wellsville.

Miss Theo Gilmore, Clark avenue, is suffering from an attack of catarrhal fever.

Harold Davidson, of Fourteenth street, sprained his ankle while skating Thursday.

An unknown tramp was arrested last night near the shops in the West End by Officer Thornton. He spent the night in the city jail charged with drunkenness.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Morgan, of Main street, are the parents of a baby boy who arrived yesterday.

Miss Morrison, trimmer in Miss Sexton's millinery establishment, went home ill with an attack of grip yesterday.

City Solicitor Boyd is engaged on the coming trial of Jacob Koontz and a Butler (Pa.) oil company over a well down the river.

The funeral of Luther Moore, who died Thursday night at his home on Short street, took place this afternoon at 1:50 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Beck conducted the services at the home. The interment was made at Spring Hill cemetery.

A stroke of business enterprise unequaled in the history of the city was executed last evening in the grand opening of the mammoth establishment popularly known to the public as Newman's Bazaar. This store is one of the largest of its kind in this section, and its owners had spared neither pains nor expense in making this event one long to be remembered. That the exertions of the management was appreciated was shown by the large crowds which thronged the store from early in the evening until a late hour.

One feature of the opening that could not escape the eye of every visitor was the gorgeous decorations. Maurice Newman, the junior member of the firm, arranged every detail of this work, and the arrangement of the stock, the dressing of the windows and the general decorative scheme was perfection itself.

The firm presented each visitor a beautiful glass toothpick holder with a neat gold band as a souvenir, and though a very large supply had been laid in, the demand was so great that the stock was barely adequate. Newman's Bazaar will be a popular store during the holidays. 285-h

The Mammoth Cave Rat.

The cavern rat, found in the Mammoth cave of Kentucky, is of a soft, bluish color, with white neck and feet. It has enormous eyes, black as night, but quite unprovided with an iris. These eyes are perfectly insensible to light, and when the experiment has been made of catching a cavern rat and turning it loose in bright sunlight it blunders about, striking itself against everything, is unable to provide itself with food and finally falls down and dies. In its native depths, however, it is able to lead a comfortable enough existence, as its enormously long whiskers are so extremely sensitive that they enable it to find its way rapidly through the darkness. The principal food of the cavern rat consists of a kind of large cricket of a pale yellow color and, like most other cave dwellers, itself perfectly blind.

Matrimonial Promotion.

The extent to which the lingo of the navy is used as slang in the families of naval officers, particularly among the women, is instanced by a little story now going the rounds in Washington.

The youngest daughter of a prominent naval officer was entertaining a friend who had called to congratulate the eldest daughter, who lately had become engaged to a captain in the same service as her father. The friend, remarking upon the engagement, suggested that the youngest daughter doubtless would miss her big sister, whereupon the girl addressed quickly replied:

"Oh, dear, yes! But just think of it—I am advanced a number!"

A BRIEF SESSION OF TOWN COUNCIL

Location of Fire Plugs Soon to Be Decided—Fairview Street Improvement.

The meeting of Chester council last night was brief and unimportant. The committee appointed to look after the location of fire plugs had been unable to make a decision for several reasons, and at the suggestion of Mr. Hobbs the council will go over the ground in a body. The members will meet at the corner of First street and Caroline avenue Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, from which point they will work east and locate plugs wherever in their judgment they are needed.

Now that the improvement of Fairview street has been completed, council believes it is time the property owners along that thoroughfare deeded over the tracts promised. Henry Riley was reported to have already given the city a deed for his allotment.

The council selected Enoch Riley to receive the names of candidates for municipal offices and to collect entry fees with which to defray the expenses of the coming election. Candidates can hand in their names up to 7 o'clock in the evening of December 18. The assessments will amount to $2 each on councilmanic candidates and $3 on each candidate for mayor and recorder.

PIG WAS FRIGHTENED AND DROPPED DEAD

Remarkable Occurrence at New Cumberland a Few Days Ago.

A remarkable happenning occurred in New Cumberland on Thanksgiving day. Butchering was in progress at James Patterson's, at the lower end of town. Two fat porkers were in the same pen, and one was shot with a rifle and killed. The other big porker instantly dropped dead from sheer fright. The hog which was shot dressed about 300 pounds. The one which dropped dead, it is said, would have dressed about the same.

No attempt was made to dress the latter and it was buried near by. It was quite a loss. It is said to be a mistake to undertake to kill two hogs in the same pen as they are easily frightened and such things have occurred before, says the Independent.

MASK SOCIAL

Unique and Enjoyable Entertainment to Be Given By Chester Jr. O. U. A. M.

A mask social will be given at Mercer hall, Chester, by the Jr. O. U. A. M. of Chester, W. Va., Monday evening, December 7. This social will be one of the best ever given in Chester by any organization. All persons are requested to come masked to represent some historical or other character.

One of the special features of the entertainment will be a book guessing contest, conducted by the superintendent and teachers of the Chester public schools. The teachers and their friends to the number of 25 will each be disguised in such a way as to represent the title of a book. Each visitor will be allowed to guess what book is represented by the person disguised. A pencil and card will be furnished so that each may record his guess.

The person making the largest number of correct guesses will be awarded a handsome prize. Refreshments will be served. All persons will unmask before supper. It is the intention of the committee to give an entertainment of such a nature that all can come, bringing their wives, sisters, or children and after an evening of genuine enjoyment go away feeling that the promotion of liberty, patriotism and Christianity is indeed the real object of the Jr. O. U. A. M.; that it is the real purpose to teach the young people of Chester that it is possible to have a genuine good time without indulging in questionable amusements.

MATTERS ARRANGED SATISFACTORILY

Chester Mill Will Resume at the Reduced Wages in a Very Short Time.

The outcome of the meeting held by the hot mill men employed at the Chester plant of the American Tin Plate company was not different from that expected, and will ultimately result in the resumption of work the first of the year at the reduction proposed by the company.

More than 200 interested employes of the mill were present and reports were made from the general committee. They made a complete and comprehensive statement of the conditions as they actually exist and as the members of the committee would like to see them.

Though no information was given out, because of an agreement to that effect made by all present, it is understood the report was in every way satisfactory. It had been ascertained that the cut would be heavier in the cases of men receiving the highest rate of wages, those employed at laborers' wages being but slightly affected. The findings of the committee were gratifying, and the feeling created thereby will go a long way toward coming to an amicable understanding with the company.

The sentiment was nearly unanimous in favor of an acceptance of the terms proposed by the corporation, and it is thought when the time limit expires they will return to work with but few exceptions. There may be a few single men who have nothing to keep them in Chester, and in these instances there is a possibility of their quitting, but of the workmen owning or buying property here, it is not likely any will leave town.

STRUCK THE SAND

Hadley Farm Well Will Be Drilled in Some Time This Afternoon.

Drillers at the oil well on the Hadley farm struck the sand at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after inspecting its quality stopped the drills and notified the owners in Chester. This morning John Webster and several other members of the company went to the field and witnessed the drilling in process.

The Chester parties left town early in the morning and upon reaching the Hadley place proposed to start the drills immediately. It was expected something definite would be known concerning the extent of the find this afternoon.

Home from Convention.

W. C. Mahan, R. H. Brown, H. C. Brenneman, Alexander Mahan and W. F. Brown, all of Chester and Hancock county, have returned from the annual meeting of the West Virginia Horticultural society held at Wheeling during the week. The gentlemen report a very interesting and profitable session and assert there ought to be a large representation from this section of the state at the next meeting.

A Popular Waltz.

Mrs. Jennie Ward, the accomplished wife of James Ward, of New Cumberland, has composed a beautiful waltz entitled "Rock Springs Waltz." The piece of music is very pretty and though it has been out of the publisher's hands but a short time is having a phenomenal sale. The selection is destined to have a protracted run in Chester, New Cumberland and East Liverpool.

CHESTER NOTES.

The Ohio Valley Gas company has been petitioned to extend its mains to Lawrenceville.

Robert Dunn, of Dunn street, announces that he is a candidate for re-election to the position of councilman.

Wo Young, the Carolina avenue laundryman, was robbed of a box said to have contained $5 last evening. Though an investigation was made, no clue to the identity of the thief could be found.

John Burr, a colored man employed by Contractor McLaughlin at Rock Springs, froze his feet badly while at work yesterday.

Mrs. J. S. Haugh and daughter, Miss Ruth, have returned to Chester after a visit at the home of R. H. Brown, at New Cumberland.

Jack McLaughlin, contractor on the new lake at Rock Springs, announced yesterday that he would wager $10,000 that he could pull more stakes in a given time than any other man in America.

REALM OF SPORTS

HOLLENDENS WON A GREAT VICTORY

Belmont Rivals Taken Into Camp 12 to 0, In a Strenuous Game.

Belmonts Held Well in the First Half But in the Second Their Line Was Pushed Back Until a Hollenden Got a Touchdown.

In one of the hardest fought games ever known here the Hollendens won yesterday from the Belmonts by a score of 12 to 0. After a see-saw first half, in which honors were easy, the Hollendens rushed the ball from the Belmont's 30 yard line to their goal, Mountford going over with the ball. The second touchdown came a few minutes later when Smith, after Orr's punt had been blocked, seized the ball and sped away to the posts. "Cracker" Davidson made both goal kicks. Time was up in the second half with the ball at the Belmont goal line and in possession of the enemy. For the second time Orr's punt had been blocked and Little fell on it.

The game was not well played, owing for the most part to the general lack of practice, but at times individual players done good work. With an extra heavy man or two the Hollendens aggregated in weight almost as much as their opponents, but most of the players were light. The lighter players were the best ground gainers and taking it all around played a better game.

Too much credit cannot be given Smith, of the high school eleven, who played left half. He cross bucked through tackles for nice gains and played a great defensive game. Mountford played well at times but was weak on punting, hitherto his strongest point. Two of the punts went out of bounds and for the first time this year he had a punt blocked on him. This happened a second time in the game. The two punts that went out of bounds were carried by the wind. Mountford's bucking and defensive play was great. Little, after the first few minutes of play, during which he failed to gain, took a brace and proved a great ground gainer.

When the Belmonts got a peep at Hill, the Hollenden right tackle, there was consternation. Six foot two and weighing over 200, the stranger, for not a Belmont had seen him before, looked most formidable and he did play well at making or breaking up interference. Averill, another stranger, who played right end in the first half, forgot to get in the game. He stayed out of every scrimmage and the Belmont's noting his tactics, tried to run his end. He was taken out in the second half.

Metsch did the best end work, several of his tackles being spectacular. The good work of the line is apparent from the way the Belmonts were held for downs.

On the Belmont side Louthan and Dawson were perhaps the best ground gainers, although Orr and Firth carried the ball for a number of gains. Dawson got away around right end in one scrimmage and had a clear field for a touchdown, but bumped into a spectator and fell. Gardner played hard at right end, but several times in his eagerness to get in the thick of a scrimmage, failed to guard his end properly. In justice to Orr, who missed one throw from center and had two kicks blocked, it must be said that in all three cases the ball was poorly snapped. He had little chance in either case. The Belmont line, after holding well in the first half, was pushed back in the second by the terrific bucking.

First Half.

Orr kicked off and the Belmonts followed up the ball and nailed it. The Belmonts failed to gain and the ball went to the Hollendens. Smith made the first nice gain when he went through center for 5 yards. Tatgenhorst was hurt and Carnahan went in. Orr nailed Little for a loss when he tried around left end and Mountford had to punt. The ball went 30 yards before leaving fair territory. On two downs the Belmonts failed to gain, but Firth carried for 8 on the third. There was a 10-yard loss on a fumble and Orr punted to Mountford. Little failed to gain on the first down and Mountford punted again, the ball going out of bounds. Louthan made 5 yards around right end, but Metsch nailed Dawson for no gain and when Firth failed to gain the ball went to the Hollendens on downs.

Little lost 3 yards, but Mountford burrowed through right tackle for 10. Smith failed to gain and Orr nailed Davidson on a quarterback attempt. Mountford stepped back for a punt, which Orr blocked. Orr made a desperate try to get away with the ball, but Mountford downed him. Orr gained 3 yards through center, but Davidson nailed Minehart for a loss on a quarterback run, and the ball again went to the Hollendens on downs. The Hollendens failed to gain in two scrimmages and time was up with the ball in the center of the field.

Second Half.

Mountford kicked off to the Belmonts' 15-yard line and Dawson fumbled and was downed in his tracks. Gardner gained 2 through center and Orr hit the same spot for 3. Dawson went around left end for 3 and Louthan skirted left end for 5. Smith tackled Dawson for a loss and the ball was the Hollendens again on Belmonts' 35-yard line. Without a break the Hollendens pushed the Belmonts' line back until the goal was reached. Smith started it with a 7-yard gain and Mountford added 5. Little made 4 and Mountford carried again for 7. Little gained 5 around right end and Smith got through left tackles for 8. Little gained 2 through center. With the ball on the line the Belmonts prepared to stop Mountford on a hurdle, but instead he dodged past right tackle and over. Davidson kicked goal.

After several minutes of hot fighting in the center of the field, Orr was forced to punt to save on downs. The kick was blocked and Smith got the ball and with a clear field made a touchdown. Davidson again made the goal kick.

With but a few minutes to play the Belmonts realized they could not win, but did not diminish their efforts. They attempted several trick plays, but none of them went through. Time was called with the ball on their goal line, where Little fell on it after another blocked punt.

RECORD BROKEN BY CAPT. CLARK

Local Bowler Averages 266 in One Game and Averages 209 in 10 Games—Contest Tonight.

Some of the finest bowling ever witnessed in this city was in evidence on the Imperial alleys last evening, when Capt. Clark's team played Capt. Rigby's bunch. Capt. Clark did the greatest bowling stunt of his life and was instrumental in carrying his team to victory in two of the three games. The phenomenal manner in which Clark sent them down the alley was an enjoyable surprise. In the match game he broke the record of the alleys by making 266 in the second game and he sent the record sailing in the air again by averaging 209 in about 10 games playing during the entire evening.

Considerable interest has centered on this sport and many thrilling contests are assured for the winter. The accommodating proprietors of the alleys are arranging to secure teams from all surrounding towns and tonight Beaver Falls will give the local boys a fight for the victory. The individual scores made last evening follow:

Clark's team—Clark, 193, 266, 169; Shultz, 152, 177, 127; Brunt, 161, 152, 203; Bowers, 126, 144, 148; Pusey, 145, 144, 146.

Rigby's team—Rigby, 176, 175, 177; Wells, 178, 154, 103; Gipner, 140, 134, 175; Stroud, 145, 146, 144; Evanitcka, 149, 150, 148.

BILLY GILBERT'S SIGNAL SUCCESS

A Baseball Player of Note Whom Many East Liverpool People Know.

The signal success of Billy Gilbert, the crack second baseman of the New York Giants, on the diamond, is a source of much pride to his legion of friends. Billy's home is in Trenton, N. J., where he received his training as a ball player. He is known personally to perhaps the majority of former Trentonians now residing in East Liverpool. To them he is known as "Gimpy," a nickname bestowed upon him when he was yet an urchin of less than ten years. The writer played ball with Billy almost 20 years ago, on "Bummer's hill" and on the back lots in Trenton, and lived but a few doors from him. He showed cleverness as a player then, and when the "big boys" had a game to play "Gimp" was the only one of the kids to get a place on the team. He was usually put at short, a position he played with snap and vim. He would sooner play ball than eat, and little wonder it is he has achieved such success in the game.

Billy was always popular, and now he is the idol of the "bleacherites." He has just signed a contract with New York for next year and the fans are happy. As a fielder he excells and as a batter is away up. He plays a fast consistent game. He has been playing professional ball for some years, and has been in the big leagues several seasons. He is 29 years old, has good health, a splendid physique and bids fair to put in many years in fast company on the diamond.

Fight Results in Draw.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 5.—Jack McClelland, of Pittsburg, and Charles Neary, of Milwaukee, fought six rounds to a draw.

Blindfold a woman and she loses all confidence in herself. Her step is slow, hesitating and uncertain. Her hands are raised to ward the imaginary blows which threaten her. When a sick woman seeks the means of health she is often like a woman blindfold. She has no confidence. She cannot tell what her effort will lead to. She turns now to this side and then to the other in uncertainty and doubt.

The sick woman who uses Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may do so with absolute confidence. It invites open-eyed investigation. There need be no hesitation in following the hundreds of thousands of women who have found a perfect cure for womanly ills in the use of this medicine.

"Favorite Prescription" cures irregularity and dries weakening drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"With a heart full of gratitude to you for sending out over the land your wonderful medicine I send these few lines, hoping that some poor suffering women will try Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Cora L. Root, of Greenspring Furnace, Washington Co., Maryland. "I had suffered severly from female weakness and had to be in bed a great deal of the time. Had headache, backache, and pain in left side when lying down. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and had not taken two bottles when I was able to be around again and do my work with but little pain. Can now eat anything and it never hurts me any more. Have taken seven bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and one of his 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' Feeling better every day. My husband says I look better every day."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

Blames Acts of Lawlessness on Organized Workmen and in Defense Form Counter Organizations—Believes in Open Shop.

Dayton, O., Dec. 5.—Before adjournment the executive committee of the Citizens Industrial association resolved against members placing the union label on articles of their own manufacture. They also took ground in opposition to the eight-hour bill now pending in congress. They provided for the formation of a labor information bureau for the use of members. The following platform was adopted as an open letter to the public and affiliated associations:

Resolved, By the executive committee of the Citizens Industrial Association of America, That the present industrial conditions have become so deplorable by reason of the indefensible methods and claims of organized labor, that the time has come when the employing interests and good citizenship of the country must take immediate and effective measures to reaffirm and enforce those fundamental principles of American government guaranteeing free, competitive conditions.

Country's Prosperity Threatened.

In its demand for the closed shop organized labor is seeking to overthrow individual liberty and property rights, the principal prop of our government. Its methods for securing this revolutionary and socialistic change in our institutions are also those of physical warfare. Because of this warfare the industrial interests of the nation during the last years have been injured to an irreparable degree. Many firms have been driven into bankruptcy and the cases are innumerable in which workingmen have been disabled and even murdered, while numerous families have been rendered destitute by reason of the tyranny and seditious attacks upon society by the strike organizations. A condition of anarchy has existed continuously in some states for months past, and, in fact, the acts of lawlessness committed under the sacred name of labor are of such frequent recurrence that the public sense of their enormity has become blunted. The period of great prosperity brought about by the unrestricted operation of the law of supply and demand is also being destroyed by the acts of violence of organized labor, and as a result we are now confronted with the possibility of a period of depression.

While we most emphatically object to being classed as enemies of organizations of labor that are conducted upon lawful and beneficent lines, yet we are unalterably opposed to the present program of violence, boycotting and tyranny now being carried out by the majority of labor unions.

Forming Counter Organizations.

We therefore urge the rapid organization of those who believe in the maintenance of law and order and the perpetuation of our free institutions to the end that they may wield their full and proper influence upon the destinies of the nation. Since organizations exist for the apparent purpose of defying law and common sense and are able to intimidate and influence public men and municipal authorities, there is no alternative left to those who desire to preserve bearable conditions in our body politic than that of forming counter organizations. It is only through the machinery of organization that we can hope to exercise a potent and salutary influence over public thought and the conduct of public officials, to the end that the rights of American citizenship can be assured to free and independent labor, the rights of property protected and legislation of a socialistic nature prevented from being enacted into law.

We invite all associations, local, state and national, that sympathize with the purpose of the Citizens Industrial Association of America to enter into affiliation with us at the earliest practicable time, and we urge the immediate formation of local branches of the national organization in all the cities and towns where no organizations now exist that are eligible for membership in this association.

The committee herewith instructs the secretary of the association to open the books of the organization and to enroll in its membership all associations that desire to affiliate with it.

IOWA BANKER SUICIDES.

Domestic Troubles Given as Cause—Worth Quarter of a Million.

Des Moines, Dec. 5.—George D. Wood, president of the bank of Colfax and director of other banks in Iowa, committed suicide at his home in Colfax by shooting himself through the head. Wood was 44 years of age. He was married a year ago to a nurse who attended a former wife during her last illness. Domestic trouble is supposed to have caused the suicide. Wood was worth over $250,000 and his accounts were straight.

Ex-County Treasurer Layman had $2,000 Polk county money deposited in Wood's bank at Colfax. Much anxiety over the safety of the county funds is expressed. The state bank at Baxter, another of the Wood's series, closed its doors temporarily to await developments. It was given out that the institution was financially sound and the action was taken merely to determine what course was to pursue. The banks at Mitchellville, Ira and Mingo, of which Wood was a director, are operating.

English Companies Consolidated.

London, Dec. 5.—Amalgamation was announced of the Weardal Steel, Coal and Coke company and the South Durham Iron and Steel company, two of the most important concerns in the north of England steel trade. In Lanarkshire steel centers representatives of United States firms offered steel billets and slabs at $5 per ton under the minimum home quotation. Iron merchants are arranging for an extensive importation of Canadian iron to the Clyde Overcome by Sewer Gas.

Pittsburg, Dec. 5.—By the accumulation of sewer gas in the drug store of Walter and Edward May, on Market street, and the Louvre adjoining, near Fifth avenue, 15 persons were injured. Most of them revived within an hour after they had been overcome by the gas, but three are still in a serious condition.

Chanler Marries Well-Known Actress.

New York, Dec. 5.—Miss Minnie Ashley, a well-known actress, was married to former Congressman William Astor Chanler at the rectory of St. George's Protestant Episcopal church. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Chanler left for Palm Beach, Fla., where they will spend their honeymoon.

ness, and it is thought the city will be free in a short time from the numerous violators.

Mrs. Huffman, of Second street, had the same complaint as of yore. She is up in arms over the condition of the street in front of her residence and asks the board to repair the gutter and sidewalk. The street commissioner reported that an open gutter only could bring about the desired results and it is possible such a gutter will be laid in the near future.

Michael McClure was present and asked for information relative to his duties as wharfmaster. He was told to wait until a decision is received from the solicitor. The wharves are in a poor condition in many places and the board feels that they should be repaired before the bad weather sets in. The opinion of the solicitor will effect the conditions materially and will be awaited with considerable anxiety.

An Enjoyable Social.

The ladies of the Golden Eagle held a very enjoyable social in their hall last night. A large crowd was present, and the evening was delightfully spent in dancing and other forms of amusement.

HOME AFFAIRS

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

A Mayor to Speak—Mayor T. Cairns Anderson, of Tarentum, Pa., will be the speaker at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 4 p. m. Sunday. Subject, "Diamond Drilling."

Dr. Ogden's Advice—Dr. C. B. Ogden, city health officer, left for Butler, Pa., today to study the typhoid fever situation there. He advises all users of East Liverpool city water to boil it.

Poultry Show Premiums—John Pollock has received his premiums from the awarding committee of the Erie (Pa.) poultry exhibition held in that city recently. Mr. Pollock received a special prize for a game cock, four first prizes on hens and a first and second on Wyandot stock. The local man has won numerous prizes all over this section of the country and is said by experts to have the best stock to be found anywhere.

Young Peoples' Society—The Young Peoples' Society of the First Presbyterian church expect to give their companions in the same work a rare treat Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in their church, when Rev. C. H. Hubble, secretary of Christian Endeavor for Ohio, will talk about the organization of a union of Young Peoples' societies in this city. Rev. Mr. Hubble comes highly recommended. A cordial invitation is extended to all young people and friends of the movement to attend the meeting.

IT IS UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE IN THE LAND

An Establishment That Reflects Credit on the City Now Open to the Public.

Evidences multiply that East Liverpool is becoming metropolitan. In certain lines of effort the city has few equals and no superiors. In art, industry and features that make life attractive it is steadily progressing.

The latest proof that the city is up to date and in advance of its neighbors and competitors is the opening of one of the finest and best fitted billiard parlors and pool rooms in the country. The establishment known as the Diamond Billiard Parlors, on Diamond street, Joseph W. Geon, proprietor, opening Saturday, is certainly without a superior in this city and would be hard to excel for beauty and attractiveness in any city in the land.

Externally as well as internally it is certainly a place that is bound to attract attention. Those who are devotees of the gentlemen's game, billiards or pool, will find that every provision has been made here for their convenience, comfort and enjoyment.

Entering the attractive parlor on the ground floor, one finds himself in a palatial room, finished in onyx tile and moulded ceiling with the walls of a handsome maroon color. Here are the pool tables, four in number, all of the finest make of the Brunswick-Balke company, and around the walls are arranged comfortable seats for those who desire to watch the game.

On the floor above, reached by a superb ornamental stairway, one finds the billiard tables, of the latest, most attractive and best design. These are also Brunswick tables. This room is finished in cherry mahogany waintscoting, surmounted by walls of rich olive, the floor beautifully carpeted in a harmonious color. The rooms are large, well lighted, well ventilated and airy—cool in summer and warm in winter.

Every lover of pool or billiards will find it worth his while to visit these rooms which are now open for inspection and use. 284-r

Crowds at the Play.

The "Trip to the Moon," played for the benefit of the hospital, attracted an even larger crowd to the Grand last night than on the first night. The production went splendidly and a neat sum will be realized for a worthy cause.

two terms the former served as treasurer of Columbiana county, going to Lisbon from East Liverpool, where he resided with his mother, who came to that city from Salineville. Mr. Green was office boy and later bookkeeper at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company at East Liverpool for several years, but at the time of his promotion to a deputyship in Mr. Cameron's office at Lisbon, he was employed as bookkeeper at the Boyce foundry, that city.

His personal integrity is such that it would almost be a reflection to allude to it even in laudatory terms. His is a career of brightest promise. His advancement is largely due to his sound business judgment, untiring zeal, high character and affability.

Captain J. W. Barnaby is a citizen of Canton, but formerly resided at Alliance. He is a veteran of the civil war and a former recorder of Stark county. He is a pleasant gentleman and is universally esteemed.

A. H. Griffith, of Windsor, Ashtabula county, is one of the most enthusiastic Republicans of the state, enjoying the confidence and esteem of the party leaders. He is painstaking and exact as an official, and is happiest when he is doing you a favor. It is needless to add he is of high character.

James S. Hughes, of Salem, was appoint guard last spring to succeed Charles Gore, of that city, resigned. His re-appointment will be especially pleasing to union labor with which he has been identified for years. Mr. Hughes has been here long enough to demonstrate his worth and fitness and his many friends will rejoice over his good fortune.

Zachariah S. Jackson, of Springfield, is the representative of the colored race in the department. He is grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, colored, having been elevated to that office at the grand lodge meting of the organization at Steubenville last year. He was chosen to succeed himself at this year's session. He is one of the best colored orators in Ohio and has made a record for trustworthiness. He is a checker player of more than ordinary ability. He defeated the champion of the world in a tournament at the Y. M. C. A. in this city once.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Next Meeting in This City.

Rev. J. G. Reinartz and Mrs. Frank Buxton have returned from Freedom, Pa., where as representatives of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of this city they attended the sixteenth convention of the Central Mission League of the Pittsburg synod of the Lutheran church. The sessions were of much interest and were held in St. John's church at Freedom, and Rev. Loci, the pastor, delivered the address of welcome. To this address Rev. Mr. Reinartz made a fitting response. In the evening session Rev. Mr. Gongaware and Rev. Mr. Reinartz addressed the convention on the subject, "A Missionary Work." The next convention will be held in this city next summer, when for two days an interesting program and delightful entertainment will make the convention one of note for the many missionary workers of Ohio and Beaver valleys who will attend.

A Charming Party.

An Erie, Pa., paper gives the following account of a charming party given by Mrs. E. S. Taylor, of French street, in that city, formerly of East Liverpool: "The house was beautifully decorated in Japanese fans, parasols, palms, etc., and the floral decorations were chrysanthemums. All the guests wore the Japanese national costume. At 11 p. m. the guests were invited to an upper room, which was fitted up as a tea garden, where a fine lunch was served. The amusements consisted of ping pong, games, dancing, etc., and it was a late hour before the guests bethought themselves to hie away home, so well pleased were they with the pleasant time prepared by the hostess."

GEN. LYON POST

Elects Officers Who Will Be Installed at the First Meeting in January.

An interesting meeting of Gen. Lyon Post, G. A. R., was held last evening. After the routine business was disposed of the following officers were elected: J. Harvey Martin, commander; W. H. Gaston, senior vice president; W. J. Allen, junior vice president; M. H. Thomas, chaplain; H. J. Abrams, quartermaster; Mack Anderson, officer of the day; W. P. Cooper, officer of the guard; James McKenna, inside guard; J. N. Rose, trustee for three years; Fred G. Croxall, alternate; N. A. Frederick, delegate to department encampment.

The newly elected officers will be installed on the evening of the first meeting in January.

REALM OF SPORTS

HOLLENDENS WON A GREAT VICTORY

Belmont Rivals Taken Into Camp 12 to 0, In a Strenuous Game.

Belmonts Held Well in the First Half But in the Second Their Line Was Pushed Back Until a Hollenden Got a Touchdown.

In one of the hardest fought games ever known here the Hollendens won yesterday from the Belmonts by a score of 12 to 0. After a see-saw first half, in which honors were easy, the Hollendens rushed the ball from the Belmont's 30 yard line to their goal, Mountford going over with the ball. The second touchdown came a few minutes later when Smith, after Orr's punt had been blocked, seized the ball and sped away to the posts. "Cracker" Davidson made both goal kicks. Time was up in the second half with the ball at the Belmont goal line and in possession of the enemy. For the second time Orr's punt had been blocked and Little fell on it.

The game was not well played, owing for the most part to the general lack of practice, but at times individual players done good work. With an extra heavy man or two the Hollendens aggregated in weight almost as much as their opponents, but most of the players were light. The lighter players were the best ground gainers and taking it all around played a better game.

Too much credit cannot be given Smith, of the high school eleven, who played left half. He cross bucked through tackles for nice gains and played a great defensive game. Mountford played well at times but was weak on punting, hitherto his strongest point. Two of the punts went out of bounds and for the first time this year he had a punt blocked on him. This happened a second time in the game. The two punts that went out of bounds were carried by the wind. Mountford's bucking and defensive play was great. Little, after the first few minutes of play, during which he failed to gain, took a brace and proved a great ground gainer.

When the Belmonts got a peep at Hill, the Hollenden right tackle, there was consternation. Six foot two and weighing over 200, the stranger, for not a Belmont had seen him before, looked most formidable and he did play well at making or breaking up interference. Averill, another stranger, who played right end in the first half, forgot to get in the game. He stayed out of every scrimmage and the Belmont's noting his tactics, tried to run his end. He was taken out in the second half.

Metsch did the best end work, several of his tackles being spectacular. The good work of the line is apparent from the way the Belmonts were held for downs.

On the Belmont side Louthan and Dawson were perhaps the best ground gainers, although Orr and Firth carried the ball for a number of gains. Dawson got away around right end in one scrimmage and had a clear field for a touchdown, but bumped into a spectator and fell. Gardner played hard at right end, but several times in his eagerness to get in the thick of a scrimmage, failed to guard his end properly. In justice to Orr, who missed one throw from center and had two kicks blocked, it must be said that in all three cases the ball was poorly snapped. He had little chance in either case. The Belmont line, after holding well in the first half, was pushed back in the second by the terrific bucking.

First Half.

Orr kicked off and the Belmonts followed up the ball and nailed it. The Belmonts failed to gain and the ball went to the Hollendens. Smith made the first nice gain when he went through center for 5 yards. Tatgenhorst was hurt and Carnahan went in. Orr nailed Little for a loss when he tried around left end and Mountford had to punt. The ball went 30 yards before leaving fair territory. On two downs the Belmonts failed to gain, but Firth carried for 8 on the third. There was a 10-yard loss on a fumble and Orr punted to Mountford. Little failed to gain on the first down and Mountford punted again, the ball going out of bounds. Louthan made 5 yards around right end, but Metsch nailed Dawson for no gain and when Firth failed to gain the ball went to the Hollendens on downs.

Little lost 3 yards, but Mountford burrowed through right tackle for 10. Smith failed to gain and Orr nailed Davidson on a quarterback attempt. Mountford stepped back for a punt, which Orr blocked. Orr made a desperate try to get away with the ball, but Mountford downed him. Orr gained 3 yards through center, but Davidson nailed Minehart for a loss on a quarterback run, and the ball again went to the Hollendens on downs. The Hollendens failed to gain in two scrimmages and time was up with the ball in the center of the field.

Second Half.

Mountford kicked off to the Belmonts' 15-yard line and Dawson fumbled and was downed in his tracks. Gardner gained 2 through center and Orr hit the same spot for 3. Dawson went around left end for 3 and Louthan skirted left end for 5. Smith tackled Dawson for a loss and the ball was the Hollendens again on Belmonts' 35-yard line. Without a break the Hollendens pushed the Belmonts' line back until the goal was reached. Smith started it with a 7-yard gain and Mountford added 5. Little made 4 and Mountford carried again for 7. Little gained 5 around right end and Smith got through a left tackles for 8. Little gained 2 through center. With the ball on the line the Belmonts prepared to stop Mountford on a hurdle, but instead he dodged past right tackle and over. Davidson kicked goal.

After several minutes of hot fighting in the center of the field, Orr was forced to punt to save on downs. The kick was blocked and Smith got the ball and with a clear field made a touchdown. Davidson again made the goal kick.

With but a few minutes to play the Belmonts realized they could not win, but did not diminish their efforts. They attempted several trick plays, but none of them went through. Time was called with the ball on their goal line, where Little fell on it after another blocked punt.

RECORD BROKEN BY CAPT. CLARK

Local Bowler Averages 266 in One Game and Averages 209 in 10 Games—Contest Tonight.

Some of the finest bowling ever witnessed in this city was in evidence on the Imperial alleys last evening, when Capt. Clark's team played Capt. Rigby's bunch. Capt. Clark did the greatest bowling stunt of his life and was instrumental in carrying his team to victory in two of the three games. The phenomenal manner in which Clark sent them down the alley was an enjoyable surprise. In the match game he broke the record of the alleys by making 266 in the second game and he sent the record sailing in the air again by averaging 209 in about 10 games playing during the entire evening.

Considerable interest has centered on this sport and many thrilling contests are assured for the winter. The accommodating proprietors of the alleys are arranging to secure teams from all surrounding towns and tonight Beaver Falls will give the local boys a fight for the victory. The individual scores made last evening follow:

Clark's team—Clark, 193, 266, 169; Shultz, 152, 177, 127; Brunt, 161, 152, 203; Bowers, 126, 144, 148; Pusey, 145, 144, 146.

Rigby's team—Rigby, 176, 175, 177; Wells, 178, 154, 103; Gipner, 140, 134, 175; Stroud, 145, 146, 144; Evanitcka, 149, 150, 148.

BILLY GILBERT'S SIGNAL SUCCESS

A Baseball Player of Note Whom Many East Liverpool People Know.

The signal success of Billy Gilbert, the crack second baseman of the New York Giants, on the diamond, is a source of much pride to his legion of friends. Billy's home is in Trenton, N. J., where he received his training as a ball player. He is known personally to perhaps the majority of former Trentonians now residing in East Liverpool. To them he is known as "Gimpy," a nickname bestowed upon him when he was yet an urchin of less than ten years. The writer played ball with Billy almost 20 years ago, on "Bummer's hill" and on the back lots in Trenton, and lived but a few doors from him. He showed cleverness as a player then, and when the "big boys" had a game to play "Gimp" was the only one of the kids to get a place on the team. He was usually put at short, a position he played with snap and vim. He would sooner play ball than eat, and little wonder it is he has achieved such success in the game.

Billy was always popular, and now he is the idol of the "bleacherites." He has just signed a contract with New York for next year and the fans are happy. As a fielder he excells and as a batter is away up. He plays a fast consistent game. He has been playing professional ball for some years, and has been in the big leagues several seasons. He is 29 years old, has good health, a splendid physique and bids fair to put in many years in fast company on the diamond.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

Jack Munroe and Al. Limerick have been matched to do battle December 15.

Lou Dillon, the champion trotter, has been shipped to Memphis for the winter. She will be jogged regularly and will go after new records in the spring.

Sam Langford, the New England lightweight, is out with a challenge to Joe Gans. He will post a side bet of $1,000 and allow the winner to take all the receipts.

All details have been arranged for the transfer of the Detroit franchise to new hands, and an effort will be made by the owners to secure the strongest team ever seen in the Michigan city.

COUNTY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

The Sebring M. E. church has arranged for paying off its $12,000 debt.

Jefferson county has gave a banquet to Frank Stokes, who retires after serving nine years as clerk of courts.

In an Italian boarding house in Steubenville Camille Pace shot Pietro Dibacco, aged 22, in the mouth, killing him instantly.

Rev. J. M. Potter, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Brilliant, has received a call from the Vance Memorial church at Wheeling.

The exodus of foreigners from Youngstown and vicinity has been so great that 30 saloons have closed. It is estimated that 2,000 aliens have returned to Europe.

Engineer George Fletcher, of Allegheny, was fatally injured and his fireman, Bricker, who resided in Freedoom, was instantly killed in a rear-end collision near New Galilee.

The Steubenville police have asked the Pittsburg authorities to look for Mary Cluber and Mabel Thompson, of Steubenville, who are said to have ran away from home. Both are young and of dark complexion.

Lucius E. Mayo, of Steubenville, who stabbed Miss Olive O'Neal one month since, nearly causing her death, because she refused to accompany him to church, was captured in Zena, Wis., and will be brought home for trial.

Henry Cole, a well dressed stranger, entered Ferry's furniture store in Steubenville and purchased a lot of furniture, tendering a check for $265 in payment. He was given the difference, $18 in cash, and decamped and the police are looking for him.

Herbert Spencer Seriously Ill.

London, Dec. 5.—The condition of Herbert Spencer, the famous writer, who has been ill for some time, is causing grave anxiety.

Fight Results in Draw.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 5.—Jack McClelland, of Pittsburg, and Charles Neary, of Milwaukee, fought six rounds to a draw.

Blindfold a woman and she loses all confidence in herself. Her step is slow, hesitating and uncertain. Her hands are raised to ward the imaginary blows which threaten her. When a sick woman seeks the means of health she is often like a woman blindfold. She has no confidence. She cannot tell what her effort will lead to. She turns now to this side and then to the other in uncertainty and doubt.

The sick woman who uses Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may do so with absolute confidence. It invites open-eyed investigation. There need be no hesitation in following the hundreds of thousands of women who have found a perfect cure for womanly ills in the use of this medicine.

"Favorite Prescription" cures irregularity and dries weakening drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"With a heart full of gratitude to you for sending out over the land your wonderful medicine I send these few lines, hoping that some poor suffering women will try Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Cora L. Root, of Greenspring Furnace, Washington Co., Maryland. "I had suffered severly from female weakness and had to be in bed a great deal of the time. Had headache, backache, and pain in left side when lying down. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and had not taken two bottles when I was able to be around again and do my work with but little pain. Can now eat anything and it never hurts me any more. Have taken seven bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and one of his 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' Feeling better every day. My husband says I look better every day."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

Blames Acts of Lawlessness on Organized Workmen and in Defense Form Counter Organizations—Believes in Open Shop.

Dayton, O., Dec. 5.—Before adjournment the executive committee of the Citizens Industrial association resolved against members placing the union label on articles of their own manufacture. They also took ground in opposition to the eight-hour bill now pending in congress. They provided for the formation of a labor information bureau for the use of members. The following platform was adopted as an open letter to the public and affiliated associations:

Resolved, By the executive committee of the Citizens Industrial Association of America, That the present industrial conditions have become so deplorable by reason of the indefensible methods and claims of organized labor, that the time has come when the employing interests and good citizenship of the country must take immediate and effective measures to reaffirm and enforce those fundamental principles of American government guaranteeing free, competitive conditions.

Country's Prosperity Threatened.

In its demand for the closed shop organized labor is seeking to overthrow individual liberty and property rights, the principal prop of our government. Its methods for securing this revolutionary and socialistic change in our institutions are also those of physical warfare. Because of this warfare the industrial interests of the nation during the last years have been injured to an irreparable degree. Many firms have been driven into bankruptcy and the cases are innumerable in which workingmen have been disabled and even murdered, while numerous families have been rendered destitute by reason of the tyranny and seditious attacks upon society by the strike organizations. A condition of anarchy has existed continuously in some states for months past, and, in fact, the acts of lawlessness committed under the sacred name of labor are of such frequent recurrence that the public sense of their enormity has become blunted. The period of great prosperity brought about by the unrestricted operation of the law of supply and demand is also being destroyed by the acts of violence of organized labor, and as a result we are now confronted with the possibility of a period of depression.

While we most emphatically object to being classed as enemies of organizations of labor that are conducted upon lawful and beneficent lines, yet we are unalterably opposed to the present program of violence, boycotting and tyranny now being carried out by the majority of labor unions.

Forming Counter Organizations.

We therefore urge the rapid organization of those who believe in the maintenance of law and order and the perpetuation of our free institutions to the end that they may wield their full and proper influence upon the destinies of the nation. Since organizations exist for the apparent purpose of defying law and common sense and are able to intimidate and influence public men and municipal authorities, there is no alternative left to those who desire to preserve bearable conditions in our body politic than that of forming counter organizations. It is only through the machinery of organization that we can hope to exercise a potent and salutary influence over public thought and the conduct of public officials, to the end that the rights of American citizenship can be assured to free and independent labor the rights of property protected and legislation of a socialistic nature prevented from being enacted into law.

We invite all associations, local, state and national, that sympathize with the purpose of the Citizens Industrial Association of America to enter into affiliation with us at the earliest practicable time, and we urge the immediate formation of local branches of the national organization in all the cities and towns where no organizations now exist that are eligible for membership in this association.

The committee herewith instructs the secretary of the association to open the books of the organization and to enroll in its membership all associations that desire to affiliate with it.

Secretary Started Sugar Factory.

Detroit, Dec. 5.—Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson left for Washington, having spent several days visiting sugar beet factories in this state. At Owosso Secretary Wilson, in the presence of a large crowd of spectators, pulled a cord that set in motion for the first time the machinery of a new beet sugar factory.

Destructive Fire in Salina, Kan.

Salina, Kan., Dec. 5.—Fire destroyed the four-story building occupied by the H. D. Lee Wholesale Grocery company, damaged the building and contents of the H. D. Lee Hardware company and burned several smaller buildings, causing an aggregate loss estimated at $500,000. The insurance is about $250,000.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

IOWA BANKER SUICIDES.

Domestic Troubles Given as Cause—Worth Quarter of a Million.

Des Moines, Dec. 5.—George D. Wood, president of the bank of Colfax and director of other banks in Iowa, committed suicide at his home in Colfax by shooting himself through the head. Wood was 44 years of age. He was married a year ago to a nurse who attended a former wife during her last illness. Domestic trouble is supposed to have caused the suicide. Wood was worth over $250,000 and his accounts were straight.

Ex-County Treasurer Layman had $2,000 Polk county money deposited in Wood's bank at Colfax. Much anxiety over the safety of the county funds is expressed. The state bank at Baxter, another of the Wood's series, closed its doors temporarily to await developments. It was given out that the institution was financially sound and the action was taken merely to determine what course was to pursue. The banks at Mitchellville, Ira and Mingo, of which Wood was a director, are operating.

English Companies Consolidated.

London, Dec. 5.—Amalgamation was announced of the Weardal Steel, Coal and Coke company and the South Durham Iron and Steel company, two of the most important concerns in the north of England steel trade. In Lanarkshire steel centers representatives of United States firms offered steel billets and slabs at $5 per ton under the minimum home quotation. Iron merchants are arranging for an extensive importation of Canadian iron to the Clyde Overcome by Sewer Gas.

Pittsburg, Dec. 5.—By the accumulation of sewer gas in the drug store of Walter and Edward May, on Market street, and the Louvre adjoining, near Fifth avenue, 15 persons were injured. Most of them revived within an hour after they had been overcome by the gas, but three are still in a serious condition.

Chanler Marries Well-Known Actress.

Brave Indian Fighter Dead.

Breckinridge, Mo., Dec. 5.—Captain D. E. Bronson is dead at St. Francis hospital, aged 68 years. He fought many battles against the Indians in the early '60s and was noted for his bravery.

South African Bank Robbed.

Johannesburg, Dec. 5.—The Rabins bank at Randfontein was attacked by a gang of masked men, who, after gagging the manager and his assistants, secured $15,000. The robbers escaped.

Four Chinamen Drowned.

Buffalo, Dec. 5.—A wagon load of Chinamen who were being smuggled into this country was overturned and fell into the Erie canal. Four were drowned.

Ice Gorge in Ohio River.

Wheeling, Dec. 5.—The Ohio river is closed by an ice gorge which has formed at Lipton's landing, 34 miles south of Wheeling. Traffic is entirely suspended.

Vessel and Cargo Burned.

Buffalo, Dec. 5.—The propellor Embury was burned in the Niagara river near Tonawanda. The crew escaped. The flames broke out in the forward hold and spread so rapidly that Captain Dacurran was forced to beach his vessel on Grand Island. The Embury was owned by W. L. Martin, of Cheboygan, Mich. The vessel and cargo of lumber were valued at about $50,000.

Far Eastern Squabble Settled.

London, Dec. 5.—Telegrams received from Pekin say there are persistent rumors that a settlement of the far eastern situation has been reached by the governments of Japan and Russia.

Cats Fond of Olives.

"I have often wondered if all cats like olives," remarked a Germantown woman who is very fond of the feline tribe. "All mine do, and I have six. Olives are usually an acquired taste with the human race, but cats seem to take to them naturally; at least mine do. An olive will set any one of them into paroxysms of joy. They will leave milk or fish or any other article of food for it, purring and rolling over it much as though it might have the intoxicating effect of catnip before they finally eat it. I have often tried olives on other cats in the houses of friends and have found them equally appreciative, only they prefer their olives cut up into pieces."—Philadelphia Record.

Whiskey and Beer Habit

PERMANENTLY CURED BY

"ORRINE,"

A SAFE, SURE AND HARMLESS SPECIFIC.

Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system, creating a morbid craving for a stimulant. Continued indulgence in whiskey, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and stupefies the digestive organs, thus destroying the digestion and ruining the health. No "will power" can heal the inflamed stomach membranes. "ORRINE" permanently removes the craving for liquor by acting directly on the affected nerves, restoring the stomach and digestive organs to normal conditions, improving the appetite and restoring the health. No sanitarium treatment necessary. "ORRINE" can be taken at your own home without publicity. Can be given secretly if desired.

CURE GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Mr. E. T. Sims, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "Use my name as a twenty-year drunkard restored to manhood and health by four boxes of 'ORRINE.' It is a wonderful and marvelous cure for the drink habit."

Mrs. E. Wycliff, New York City, writes: "'ORRINE' cured my husband, who was a steady drunkard for many years. He now has no desire for stimulants, his health is good and he is fully restored to manhood. He used only five boxes of 'ORRINE.'"

Mrs. W. L. D., Helena, Mont., writes: "I have waited one year before writing you of the permanent cure of my son. He took sanitarium treatment, as well as other advertised cures, but they all failed until we gave him 'ORRINE.' He is now fully restored to health and has no desire for drink."

Mr. H. L. R., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I am satisfied that drunkenness is a disease and the worst in the world. 'ORRINE,' in my opinion, will cure any case if taken as you direct. I was a common drunkard for twenty years, but to-day I am free of any desire for liquor. You have found the specific. God bless you!"

Mr. A. E. L., Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I was born with a love of whiskey and drank it for thirty-two years. It finally brought me to the gutter, homeless and friendless. I was powerless to resist the craving and would steal and lie to get whiskey. Four boxes of 'ORRINE' cured me of all desire and I now hate the smell of liquor."

Price $1 per box, 6 boxes for $5. Mailed in plain, sealed wrapper by Orrine Company, 817 14th street, Washington, D. C. Interesting booklet (sealed) free on request.

BEYOND DOUBT

These Facts Must Convince Every East Liverpool Reader.

The statement which follows tells the experience of a resident of East Liverpool. Incredulity cannot long exist about this testimony because it can easily be investigated.

Mr. William Terrence, fireman at engine house No. 1, says: "For some time I was annoyed with symptoms of either weakened or over-excited kidneys. I had noticed more than one recommendation made by people living in East Liverpool about Doan's Kidney Pills, and thinking that if the medicine performed half what it promised it might help me. I bought a box at Larkins' drug store. The treatment cured me."

BRIGHTS DISEASE AND DIABETES NEWS

San Francisco, Nov. 26, 1903.
To Will Reed's Pharmacy.
Dear Sirs:

There are daily occurrences in this city that ought to be known all over the world. A guileless old gentleman, an octogenarian, a distant relative of Robert Fulton of first steamship fame, saved the lives of hundreds (probably thousands) after they were believed to be beyond human aid. His discovery is undoubtedly the long-sought cure of Bright's disease and diabetes.

This is not easy of belief and it is the purpose of a number of business and professional men of this city (of whom I am one) to tell the people. You are hereby authorized to tell all those in your city who have either Bright's Disease or Diabetes that nearly nine-tenths of them can recover. Among the business men who are giving moral and financial support and who would give neither if the above was not strictly true are Hon. D. M. Burns, President Candelaria Mining Company; Edward Mills, President Bullock & Jones Company; Captain Roberts, President Boca and Loyalton R. R. Co.; Thos. Kirpatrick, Capitalist; D. E. Bender, Capitalist; Wm. Sharp, Capitalist; W. C. Price, Capitalist, and many others. The pamphlets herewith are to be given to all inquirers without charge. They give the complete history of our long and exhaustive investigation.

Yours truly,
A. E. SHATTUCK,
President Pacific States Type Foundry.

Murderer Armstrong Will Hang.

Tuskegee, Ala., Dec. 5.—Ralph Armstrong was convicted of the murder of his cousin, Miss Allie Armstrong, and was sentenced to be hanged on Jan. 8. The case will be appealed. Armstrong shot his cousin, with whom he was in love, in Natasulga, Ala. The defense attempted to show that Armstrong was irresponsible by reason of prolonged drinking. The state proved that Armstrong the day before the murder had written a note to his mother announcing his intention of killing his cousin and himself. Armstrong is a son of the late H. Clay Armstrong, once United States consul at Rio Janiero and twice speaker of the Alabama house of representatives.

Gold Hunters Fight Over Claims.

Rincon, N. M., Dec. 5.—Three men, badly wounded, were brought here from the new gold fields at Apache canyon for treatment. They had been shot in conflicts over claims. It is reported that several other men have been shot. No names are given. A mining expert who was sent to Apache canyon to investigate returned, reporting that the field is very rich, but limited in extent. There are now 2,500 men on the ground and more are arriving daily.

Blair in Depressed Condition.

St. Louis, Dec. 5.—James L. Blair, who was indicted by the grand jury on two counts charging forgery, is in a very depressed condition, according to what can be learned at the hospital. The attending physician said he feared the result of the shock on Mr. Blair, but would make no further statement. It is expected that the date for the trial of Blair will be set in a few days.

Fast Mail Has Accident.

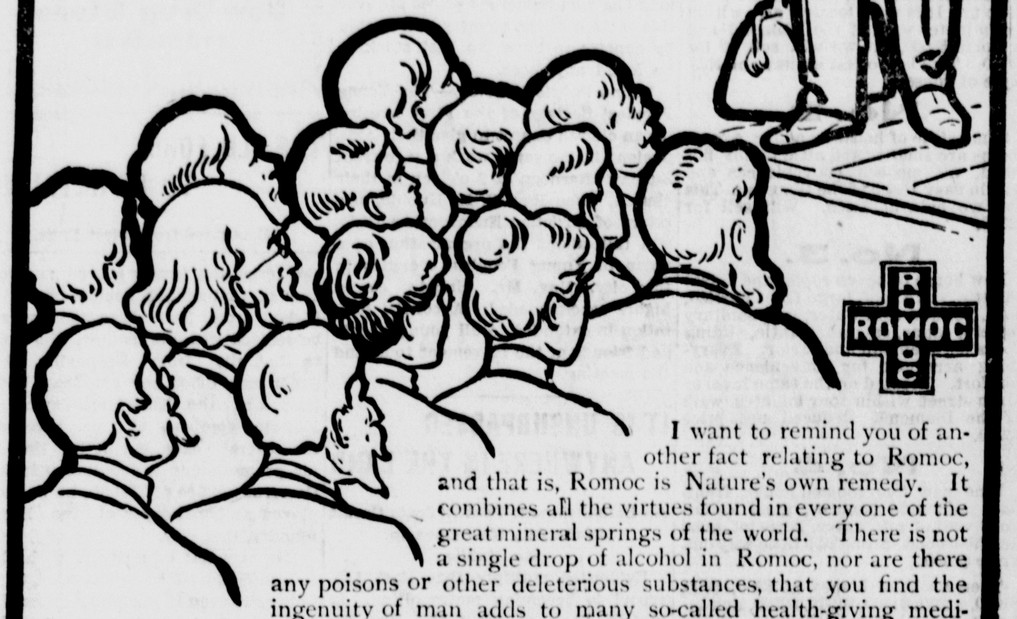
Peru, Ind., Dec. 5.—Wabash fast mail train No. 9, running rapidly because behind time, jumped the rails at the Baltimore and Ohio crossing at St. Joe, on the Butler-New Haven branch, and a bad accident was prevented by Engineman Higgins, of Peoria. The baggage and combination cars were on the ties when the train was brought to a halt. No one was injured.

HERE HE IS AGAIN!

Once more the Romoc man expounds the Theories of Health. This is What He Says:

SEE here, good people, I have only a few words to say in making my appearance again this year. If you need my advice, you probably need it badly, and it is simply this: start in with Romoc, the sooner the better, and fortify yourself against the ills that are bound to come during the next few months.

Remember that Romoc is the medicine made from a rock. There is nothing in this whole, wide world that I have ever found in my travels, or that any of you have ever seen or heard of, that will so effectually cure Rheumatism, Indigestion, Nervousness, and all Blood Troubles, and besides curing these ills, that will absolutely make you well of any of the many derangements that are a result of such affections.



I want to remind you of another fact relating to Romoc, and that is, Romoc is Nature's own remedy. It combines all the virtues found in every one of the great mineral springs of the world. There is not a single drop of alcohol in Romoc, nor are there any poisons or other deleterious substances, that you find the ingenuity of man adds to many so-called health-giving medicines to their detriment, and the danger of the people who use them.

Ask for ROMOC LAXATIVE TABLETS—SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION.

We have investigated Romoc. We know that all that is said by the Romoc man pertaining to this wonderful remedy is true, and we will refund to anyone the price of the remedy not satisfied with the results obtained. Remember, Romoc is guaranteed and sold by

OFFER NO WITNESSES.

Counsel for McGregor and Upton Says Government Failed to Make Case.

Baltimore, Dec. 5.—Pinning confidence in their belief that the prosecution has failed to make a prima facie case against former Postal Clerks Thomas W. McGregor and Columbus E. Upton, counsel for the defense in the now widely-known trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the government by selling leather pouches at exorbitant prices decided to close the case without putting a single witness on the stand to testify for their clients.

When United States District Attorney John C. Rose announced to Judge Morris and the jury in the United States circuit court that the government had produced all its testimony it was generally thought that witnesses for the defense would be called immediately. William S. Bryan, of counsel for the accused, sprung a decided surprise when he arose and said:

"We do not think the government has made out a prima facie case and, therefore, we will offer no witnesses."

Mr. Bryan then announced that prayers will be prepared and exchanged between counsel. Argument on the prayers will be offered Monday. The court will not sit on the case today. General argument on the entire case will begin after the prayers are argued upon.

FEVER FATALITIES.

Death List of Butler's Typhoid Epidemic Now Numbers Forty-Three.

Butler, Pa., Dec. 5.—Eleven new cases of typhoid fever were reported to the board of health Friday and more deaths occurred than in any previous day since the epidemic commenced, the number being six, which makes the total 43. The dead of the day are:

Annie Vargo, aged 9, of West End.
Edith Bayors, aged 17, daughter of Francis J. Bayors, who died of fever last week.
Mrs. Sophie Davis, aged 39.
Emma Helen Stone, aged 12, daughter of Reading Stone.
Helen R. Maxwell, aged 3, daughter of ex-Tax Collector James M. Maxwell.
Mrs. Martha Thompson Lowry, aged 40.

THE MODERATE USE OF STRONG DRINK

As Dangerous as Intemperance, According to a Recent Revelation.

THE DELIRIUM TREMENS

Overtook a Man Who Never Used Liquor to Excess And Who Took But Two Drinks a Day—A Warning Lesson.

The case of George Turner, dying in Bellevue hospital, New York, from what physicians declare were the direct effects of alcohol, is sure to cause no little discussion and attract wide attention. It is asserted by those who ought to know that he had never used intoxicants to excess. His indulgence seems to have been limited to a moderate drink of whisky in the morning and another of the same kind on retiring at night. Yet this careful and methodical user of alcohol is said to have had delirium tremens before he died.

Medical men explain the anomaly by the weakness which followed a surgical operation, but they say that evidences of slow alcoholic poisoning, resulting in decay of the brain, and the nervous system and in other grave maladies, were plainly shown by the autopsy which followed Turner's death. So his case is officially pronounced one of "refined alcoholism."

Temperance workers will seize eagerly upon this extraordinary case as a strong argument against the use of any form of alcoholic liquor, either moderately or in larger quantities. They will insist that the fate of Turner is that of many another careful drinker of spirits whose death is not so rigorously investigated. On the other hand, those who favor the use of intoxicants will discredit the whole affair. They will argue that if the doctors are right Turner must have been a person of such exceptional physical nature and his fate signifies nothing. And it will doubtless be denied that any one could have delirium tremens from two moderate drinks of whisky daily.

It is certainly easy to exaggerate the significance of an extraordinary case of this kind, supposing the official explanation of the patient's death to be correct. A freak does not prove much, and every one knows that millions of men have reached a good old age, after taking more than two moderate drinks of whisky daily, for many years. Still, the advantage rests with the advocates of total abstinence.

Who can deny that many victims of steady, though moderate, drinking, die before their natural time of diseases which are really the affect of slow alcoholic poisoning? The chances are heavily on the side of much concealed evil which does not show in official mortality reports. On the other hand, the safety of total abstainers is complete as far as the evils of strong drink are concerned. They have no reason to question the matter of moderate drinking at all, as far as their own welfare goes. And what offsetting disadvantage do they suffer?

Obviously, there is none. No one has ever shown that any use of alcoholic liquors is either essential or beneficial. The efforts of advocates of the drinking of spirits and malt liquors are pretty generally confined to the defensive. If they can persuade people that there is not much harm in the use of such beverages they are pretty well satisfied. That is more than can be accomplished with multitudes of men who drink steadily, feeling, all the while, that they are unwise in doing so.

So the Turner case will strengthen the attack of the champions of total abstinence and weaken the defense of the apologists for the use of intoxicants. It cannot have any other tendency, however medical authorities may dispute the accuracy of the coroner's verdict or question the relevancy of this seemingly exceptional case to the general subject of moderate drinking. The natural conclusion is that the safest way is to let strong liquors go wholly untouched.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hyomei Cures this Common and Disagreeable Disease.

Hyomei cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of catarrhal poison, heals and soothes the irritated mucous membrane, enters the blood with the oxygen and kills the germs present there, effectually driving this disease from the system.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime, and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

offensive breath
dryness of the nose
pain across the eyes
pain in back of the head
pain in front of the head
tendency to take cold
burning pain in the throat
hawking to clear the throat pain in the chest
a cough
stitch in side
losing of flesh
variable appetite
low spirited at times
raising of frothy mucous expectorating yellow matter
difficulty in breathing frequent sneezing
huskiness of voice
discharge from the nose
stoppage of the nose, at night
aching of the body
droppings in the throat
mouth open while sleeping
tickling back of the palate formation of crusts in the nose dryness of the throat in the morning
loss of strength
spasms of coughing
cough short and hacking
cough worse nights and mornings
loss in vital force
a feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest

Hyomei will destroy activity of all catarrhal germs in the respiratory organs and in a few weeks the cure will be complete.

This is a strong statement, but Will Reed emphasizes it, by agreeing to refund your money if Hyomei does not cure.

YOUR MONEY RETURNED

If Hyomei Does Not Cure You of Catarrh, Says Will Reed.

In advertising that they will refund the money to any one purchasing a Hyomei outfit who can say that it has done them no good in the treatment of catarrh, Will Reed means exactly what the guarantee says:

Of course the percentage of cures by Hyomei is nearly one hundred or else he could not afford to make this unusual offer. But if the treatment should not be adapted to your case there will be no questions or quibblings when you go to get your money.

That the beginning of catarrh is due to the presence of germs in the air passages is now admitted by every physician. It stands to reason that catarrh cannot be cured unless the germs are first destroyed. The Hyomei treatment kills the catarrh germs even in the minutest air cells, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane and makes complete and lasting cures in cases that have resisted the usual methods of treatment.

Catarrh cannot be cured by medicines administered through the stomach. Hyomei is the only natural method and it has made cures that seem miraculous. The outfit costs but $1 and consists of an inhaler which will last a lifetime and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment. Additional bottles of Hyomei can be procured for 50c.

Will Reed gives his personal guarantee with every Hyomei outfit he sells to refund the money if it does not cure. There is no risk whatever to the purchaser of Hyomei.

ONLY GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE

Hyomei Costs You Nothing If It Fails Says Will Reed.

Among the many medicines upon the market that claim to cure catarrh, none but Hyomei has enough faith in its own merit to be willing to refund the money if it does not cure.

This remarkable remedy for catarrh kills the microbes and the germs of the disease and from its introduction has been sold under a positive guarantee to return the money to all dissatisfied customers.

Will Reed has sold a great many Hyomei outfits in the last few years, and they stand ready today to refund the price to any one who has not been helped by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

Breathe Hyomei for a few minutes four times a day, and your catarrh will grow better from the first day's use, and will be completely cured in a short time. Do not try to cure catarrh with ordinary stomach medicines. Breathe the healing Hyomei which goes to every part of the air passages and respiratory organs, killing the catarrh germs and preventing their growth.

It is the only treatment for catarrh where you can get your money back from a local dealer in case it does not help.

SKIPPED IN HASTE ON WEDDING DAY

Aged and Doting Lover the Victim of a Designing Woman.

THE SPIRITS PLAY A PART

In a Matrimonial Bargain Which Failed of Consummation—The Woman Left Her Fiance, Aged 73, $2,400 Poorer.

Columbus, December 5.—Daniel Spear, an amorous widower of but 73 winters and summers, a believer in spiritualism and the victim of two designing women, is endeavoring to recover $2,400 which he gave Mrs. Ida Laughlin at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, for her wedding portion.

Spear was to have been married to the Laughlin woman at 4 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, at the office of the probate judge in the court house. His fiancee left the house and told her devoted old admirer that she must borrow a wrap from a friend in North Columbus in order to be well prepared for the ceremony. She was to return to the apartments at the corner of Fourth and Long streets, at 2 o'clock, and the bridal party was then to wend its way to thec ourt house, where the "medium" in the case, Mrs. Wright, and the bride were to have the minister in waiting.

These were the arrangements for the day, but all that materialized was the prospective groom's gift to his bride, a check for $2,400 on the Citizens' National bank. The young bride eloped, and with her is supposed to have gone a man by the name of Jackson, who was a roomer at the apartments conducted by Spear at Fourth and Long streets. The police of the country have been furnished with a description of the two women and have been instructed to keep a sharp lookout for them.

The swindle is one of the cleverest ever worked in Columbus. The game was played with consummate skill, spiritualism was used to lure in the victim and finesse of the most accomplished type was used to defraud the old septuagenarian. The Laughlin woman told Spear that she was 33 years of age and for five years had been a stenographer in the employ of Bamcroft & Co., a firm no longer in business in Columbus, as she was careful not to inform the aged swain. Mrs. Wright, the "medium," told Spear that she was the wife of "Dr." Wright and had obtained a divorce but a few weeks ago because of the domestic unfaithfulness of her husband. Mrs. Wright is about 38 years old.

The old man came to Columbus from Cardington about six weeks ago. He has successively been a farmer, a fruit grower and a stockman and he determined to come to Columbus and live, as he had no relatives there. Through A. W. Dennis, proprietor of the barber shop at 233 South Fourth street, a former resident of Cardington and acquaintance, Spear was taken to 167½ East Long street, just two doors from the corner, and introduced to the Laughlin woman, who posed as Miss Ida Belle Laughlin. She told Spear that she had been married at 16 and widowed two years later, so that she preferred to use her maiden name.

As a result of the visit Spear purchased of the Laughlin woman her furniture and business of taking roomers for $1,000. There were seven occupants of the rooms; three paid $3; two, $2.50, and the remaining two $2 per week. The Laughlin woman agreed to remain with Spear and look after the house for him until she could locate elsewhere. No room rent was to be charged her during this time.

It was about this time the "medium" got busy. The woman found out that Spear was a believer in spiritualism so Mrs. Wright developed the power. A dark room was fixed up and Spear was invited to a sitting. Mrs. Wright used a trumpet and the devout old devotee heard the voice of his deceased wife and brother-in-law very distinctly. The dead partner of his joys and sorrows tearfully advised her Daniel not to live alone but to take to his bosom some one who would love and care for him. Then she vanished and after Daniel had meditated on the words of his deceased spouse his brother-in-law "trumpeted" at him and indicated that the comely and prepossessing Mrs. Laughlin was the proper person to assume the matrimonial yoke. The brother-in-law, George O. Wood, was an employe of Amican Bros. and dropped dead at Redlands, Cal. "Do you think she will have me, George," faltered the aged lover.

"How can I know what is in her head? Go and ask her the first thing tomorrow morning," advised the shade as it passed out of the trumpet. After a sleepless night Daniel did ask Ida if she would be his wife. She smirked and said, "This is too sudden."

"I told her that was what they all said," was the way Spear told of his proposal. She consented and the marriage was set for Tuesday.

Then the woman told her aged lover that she knew of a fine two story brick building at State and Fourth streets. She said she had befriended the owner and he would sell her the property for $5,000 or $2,000 less than it was worth. Spear was told that there were 14 rooms over the large store rooms that occupied the first floor and these could be used for renting to people in search of apartments.

Spear was to give her $2,400 as her marriage portion, the deed to the house was to be in her name and she was t borrow the remainder of the purchase money from a good friend. They were to divide the proceeds and share alike. At 11 o'clock, Tuesday, Spear gave the check on the Citizens' National bank and the woman took it to the M. & M. bank and got it cashed. Now Spear is looking for her.

Ex-Congressman Springer Dead.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Former Representative William M. Springer, of Illinois, a Democratic leader conspicuous in the house of representatives during the Forty-fourth to Fifty-third congresses inclusive, and once chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, died at his residence in this city, aged 64 years. His death was due to pneumonia contracted in Chicago on Thanksgiving day. Mr. Springer has been a resident of this city during the past few years following his retirement from congress and has followed the practice of law begun at Springfield, Ill., before his congressional career began. He has represented many of the Indian claims before the interior department and before the federal and local courts here.

Whiskey and Beer Habit

PERMANENTLY CURED BY

"ORRINE,"

A SAFE, SURE AND HARMLESS SPECIFIC.

Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system, creating a morbid craving for a stimulant. Continued indulgence in whiskey, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and stupefies the digestive organs, thus destroying the digestion and ruining the health. No "will power" can heal the inflamed stomach membranes. "ORRINE" permanently removes the craving for liquor by acting directly on the affected nerves, restoring the stomach and digestive organs to normal conditions, improving the appetite and restoring the health. No sanitarium treatment necessary; "ORRINE" can be taken at your own home without publicity. Can be given secretly if desired.

CURE GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Mr. E. T. Sims, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "Use my name as a twenty-year drunkard restored to manhood and health by four boxes of 'ORRINE.' It is a wonderful and marvelous cure for the drink habit."

Mrs. E. Wycliff, New York City, writes: "'ORRINE' cured my husband, who was a steady drunkard for many years. He now has no desire for stimulants, his health is good and he is fully restored to manhood. He used only five boxes of 'ORRINE.'"

Mrs. W. L. D., Helena, Mont., writes: "I have waited one year before writing you of the permanent cure of my son. He took sanitarium treatment, as well as other advertised cures, but they all failed until we gave him 'ORRINE.' He is now fully restored to health and has no desire for drink."

Mr. U. L. R., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I am satisfied that drunkenness is a disease and the worst in the world. 'ORRINE,' in my opinion, will cure any case if taken as you direct. I was a common drunkard for twenty years, but to-day I am free of any desire for liquor. You have found the specific. God bless you!"

Mr. A. E. L., Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I was born with a love of whiskey and drank it for thirty-two years. It finally brought me to the gutter, homeless and friendless. I was powerless to resist the craving and would steal and lie to get whiskey. Four boxes of 'ORRINE' cured me of all desire and I now hate the smell of liquor."

Price $1 per box, 6 boxes for $5. Mailed in plain, sealed wrapper by Orrine Company, 817 14th street, Washington, D. C. Interesting booklet (sealed) free on request.

BEYOND DOUBT

These Facts Must Convince Every East Liverpool Reader.

The statement which follows tells the experience of a resident of East Liverpool. Incredulity cannot long exist about this testimony because it can easily be investigated.

Mr. William Terrence, fireman at engine house No. 1, says: "For some time I was annoyed with symptoms of either weakened or over-excited kidneys. I had noticed more than one recommendation made by people living in East Liverpool about Doan's Kidney Pills, and thinking that if the medicine performed half what it promised it might help me. I bought a box at Laughlins' drug store. The treatment cured me."

BRIGHTS DISEASE AND DIABETES NEWS

San Francisco, Nov. 26, 1903.
To Will Reed's Pharmacy.
Dear Sirs:

There are daily occurrences in this city that ought to be known all over the world. A guileless old gentleman, an octogenarian, a distant relative of Robert Fulton of first steamship fame, saved the lives of hundreds (probably thousands) after they were believed to be beyond human aid. His discovery is undoubtedly the long-sought cure of Bright's disease and diabetes.

This is not easy of belief and it is the purpose of a number of business and professional men of this city (of whom I am one) to tell the people. You are hereby authorized to tell all those in your city who have either Bright's Disease or Diabetes that nearly nine-tenths of them can recover. Among the business men who are giving moral and financial support and who would give neither if the above was not strictly true are Hon. D. M. Burns, President Candelaria Mining Company; Edward Mills, President Bullock & Jones Company; Captain Roberts, President Boca and Loyalton R. R. Co.; Thos. Kirpatrick, Capitalist; D. E. Bender, Capitalist; Wm. Sharp, Capitalist; W. C. Price, Capitalist, and many others. The pamphlets herewith are to be given to all inquirers without charge. They give the complete history of our long and exhaustive investigation.

Yours truly,
A. E. SHATTUCK,
President Pacific States Type Foundry.

Murderer Armstrong Will Hang.

Tuskegee, Ala., Dec. 5.—Ralph Armstrong was convicted of the murder of his cousin, Miss Allie Armstrong, and was sentenced to be hanged on Jan. 8. The case will be appealed. Armstrong shot his cousin, with whom he was in love, in Natasulga, Ala. The defense attempted to show that Armstrong was irresponsible by reason of prolonged drinking. The state proved that Armstrong the day before the murder had written a note to his mother announcing his intention of killing his cousin and himself. Armstrong is a son of the late H. Clay Armstrong, once United States consul at Rio Janiero and twice speaker of the Alabama house of representatives.

Gold Hunters Fight Over Claims.

Rincon, N. M., Dec. 5.—Three men, badly wounded, were brought here from the new gold fields at Apache canyon for treatment. They had been shot in conflicts over claims. It is reported that several other men have been shot. No names are given. A mining expert who was sent to Apache canyon to investigate returned, reporting that the field is very rich, but limited in extent. There are now 2,500 men on the ground and more are arriving daily.

Blair in Depressed Condition.

St. Louis, Dec. 5.—James L. Blair, who was indicted by the grand jury on two counts charging forgery, is in a very depressed condition, according to what can be learned at the hospital. The attending physician said he feared the result of the shock on Mr. Blair, but would make no further statement. It is expected that the date for the trial of Blair will be set in a few days.

Fast Mail Has Accident.

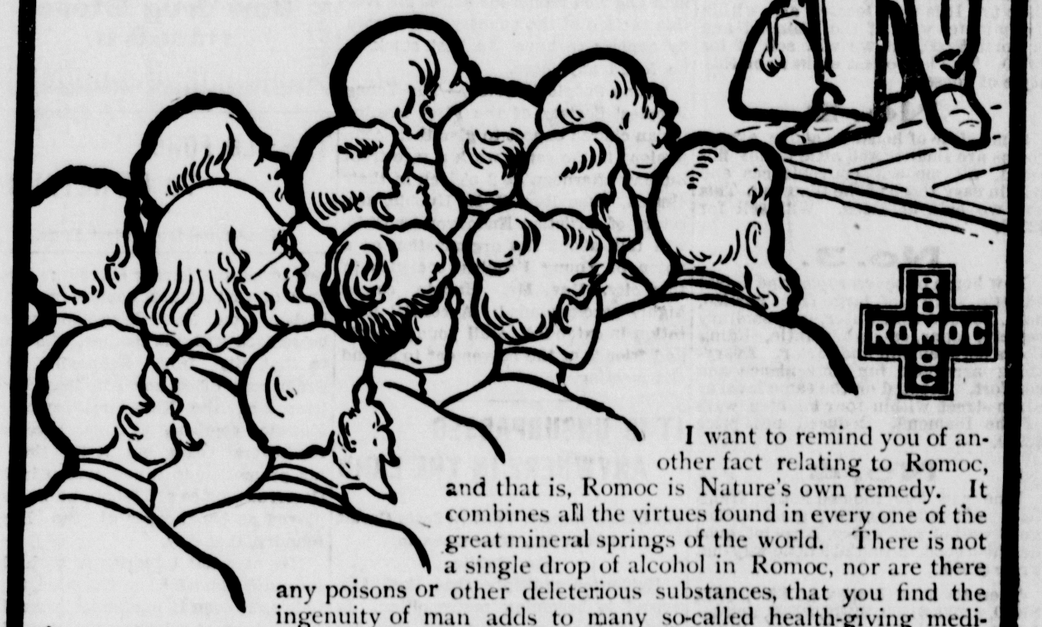
Peru, Ind., Dec. 5.—Wabash fast mail train No. 9, running rapidly because behind time, jumped the rails at the Baltimore and Ohio crossing at St. Joe, on the Butler-New Haven branch, and a bad accident was prevented by Engineman Higgins, of Peoria. The baggage and combination cars were on the ties when the train was brought to a halt. No one was injured.

HERE HE IS AGAIN!

Once more the Romoc man expounds the Theories of Health. This is What He Says:

SEE here, good people, I have only a few words to say in making my appearance again this year. If you need my advice, you probably need it badly, and it is simply this: start in with Romoc, the sooner the better, and fortify yourself against the ills that are bound to come during the next few months.

Remember that Romoc is the medicine made from a rock. There is nothing in this whole, wide world that I have ever found in my travels, or that any of you have ever seen or heard of, that will so effectually cure Rheumatism, Indigestion, Nervousness, and all Blood Troubles, and besides curing these ills, that will absolutely make you well of any of the many derangements that are a result of such affections.



I want to remind you of another fact relating to Romoc, and that is, Romoc is Nature's own remedy. It combines all the virtues found in every one of the great mineral springs of the world. There is not a single drop of alcohol in Romoc, nor are there any poisons or other deleterious substances, that you find the ingenuity of man adds to many so-called health-giving medicines to their detriment, and the danger of the people who use them.

Ask for ROMOC LAXATIVE TABLETS—SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION.

We have investigated Romoc. We know that all that is said by the Romoc man pertaining to this wonderful remedy is true, and we will refund to anyone the price of the remedy not satisfied with the results obtained. Remember, Romoc is guaranteed and sold by

OFFER NO WITNESSES.

Counsel for McGregor and Upton Says Government Failed to Make Case.

Baltimore, Dec. 5.—Pinning confidence in their belief that the prosecution has failed to make a prima facie case against former Postal Clerks Thomas W. McGregor and Columbus E. Upton, counsel for the defense in the now widely-known trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the government by selling leather pouches at exorbitant prices decided to close the case without putting a single witness on the stand to testify for their clients.

When United States District Attorney John C. Rose announced to Judge Morris and the jury in the United States circuit court that the government had produced all its testimony it was generally thought that witnesses for the defense would be called immediately. William S. Bryan, of counsel for the accused, sprung a decided surprise when he arose and said:

"We do not think the government has made out a prima facie case and, therefore, we will offer no witnesses."

Mr. Bryan then announced that prayers will be prepared and exchanged between counsel. Argument on the prayers will be offered Monday. The court will not sit on the case today. General argument on the entire case will begin after the prayers are argued upon.

FEVER FATALITIES.

Death List of Butler's Typhoid Epidemic Now Numbers Forty-Three.

Butler, Pa., Dec. 5.—Eleven new cases of typhoid fever were reported to the board of health Friday and more deaths occurred than in any previous day since the epidemic commenced, the number being six, which makes the total 43. The dead of the day are:

Annie Vargo, aged 9, of West End.
Edith Bayors, aged 17, daughter of Francis J. Bayors, who died of fever last week.
Mrs. Sophie Davis, aged 39.
Emma Helen Stone, aged 12, daughter of Reading Stone.
Helen R. Maxwell, aged 3, daughter of ex-Tax Collector James M. Maxwell.

ness, and it is thought the city will be free in a short time from the numerous violators.

Mrs. Huffman, of Second street, had the same complaint as of yore. She is up in arms over the condition of the street in front of her residence and asks the board to repair the gutter and sidewalk. The street commissioner reported that an open gutter only could bring about the desired results and it is possible such a gutter will be laid in the near future.

Michael McClure was present and asked for information relative to his duties as wharfmaster. He was told to wait until a decision is received from the solicitor. The wharves are in a poor condition in many places and the board feels that they should be repaired before the bad weather sets in. The opinion of the solicitor will effect the conditions materially and will be awaited with considerable anxiety.

An Enjoyable Social.

The ladies of the Golden Eagle held a very enjoyable social in their hall last night. A large crowd was present, and the evening was delightfully spent in dancing and other forms of amusement.

HOME AFFAIRS

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

A Mayor to Speak—Mayor T. Cairns Anderson, of Tarentum, Pa., will be the speaker at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 4 p. m. Sunday. Subject, "Diamond Drilling."

Dr. Ogden's Advice—Dr. C. B. Ogden, city health officer, left for Butler, Pa., today to study the typhoid fever situation there. He advises all users of East Liverpool city water to boil it.

Poultry Show Premiums—John Pollock has received his premiums from the awarding committee of the Erie (Pa.) poultry exhibition held in that city recently. Mr. Pollock received a special prize for a game cock, four first prizes on hens and a first and second on Wyandot stock. The local man has won numerous prizes all over this section of the country and is said by experts to have the best stock to be found anywhere.

Young Peoples' Society—The Young Peoples' Society of the First Presbyterian church expect to give their companions in the same work a rare treat Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in their church, when Rev. C. H. Hubble, secretary of Christian Endeavor for Ohio, will talk about the organization of a union of Young Peoples' societies in this city. Rev. Mr. Hubble comes highly recommended. A cordial invitation is extended to all young people and friends of the movement to attend the meeting.

IT IS UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE IN THE LAND

An Establishment That Reflects Credit on the City Now Open to the Public.

Evidences multiply that East Liverpool is becoming metropolitan. In certain lines of effort the city has few equals and no superiors. In art, industry and features that make life attractive it is steadily progressing.

The latest proof that the city is up to date and in advance of its neighbors and competitors is the opening of one of the finest and best fitted billiard parlors and pool rooms in the country. The establishment known as the Diamond Billiard Parlors, on Diamond street, Joseph W. Geon, proprietor, opening Saturday, is certainly without a superior in this city and would be hard to excel for beauty and attractiveness in any city in the land.

Externally as well as internally it is certainly a place that is bound to attract attention. Those who are devotees of the gentlemen's game, billiards or pool, will find that every provision has been made here for their convenience, comfort and enjoyment.

Entering the attractive parlor on the ground floor, one finds himself in a palatial room, finished in onyx tile and moulded ceiling with the walls of a handsome maroon color. Here are the pool tables, four in number, all of the finest make of the Brunswick-Balke company, and around the walls are arranged comfortable seats for those who desire to watch the game.

On the floor above, reached by a superb ornamental stairway, one finds the billiard tables, of the latest, most attractive and best design. These are also Brunswick tables. This room is finished in cherry mahogany wainscoting, surmounted by walls of rich olive, the floor beautifully carpeted in a harmonious color. The rooms are large, well lighted, well ventilated and airy—cool in summer and warm in winter.

Every lover of pool or billiards will find it worth his while to visit these rooms which are now open for inspection and use. 284-r

Crowds at the Play.

The "Trip to the Moon," played for the benefit of the hospital, attracted an even larger crowd to the Grand last night than on the first night. The production went splendidly and a neat sum will be realized for a worthy cause.

two terms the former served as treasurer of Columbiana county, going to Lisbon from East Liverpool, where he resided with his mother, who came to that city from Salineville. Mr. Green was office boy and later bookkeeper at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company at East Liverpool for several years, but at the time of his promotion to a deputyship in Mr. Cameron's office at Lisbon, he was employed as bookkeeper at the Boyce foundry, that city.

His personal integrity is such that it would almost be a reflection to allude to it even in laudatory terms. His is a career of brightest promise. His advancement is largely due to his sound business judgment, untiring zeal, high character and affability.

Captain J. W. Barnaby is a citizen of Canton, but formerly resided at Alliance. He is a veteran of the civil war and a former recorder of Stark county. He is a pleasant gentleman and is universally esteemed.

A. H. Griffith, of Windsor, Ashtabula county, is one of the most enthusiastic Republicans of the state, enjoying the confidence and esteem of the party leaders. He is painstaking and exact as an official, and is happiest when he is doing you a favor. It is needless to add he is of high character.

James S. Hughes, of Salem, was appoint guard last spring to succeed Charles Gore, of that city, resigned. His re-appointment will be especially pleasing to union labor with which he has been identified for years. Mr. Hughes has been here long enough to demonstrate his worth and fitness and his many friends will rejoice over his good fortune.

Zachariah S. Jackson, of Springfield, is the representative of the colored race in the department. He is grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, colored, having been elevated to that office at the grand lodge meting of the organization at Steubenville last year. He was chosen to succeed himself at this year's session. He is one of the best colored orators in Ohio and has made a record for trustworthiness. He is a checker player of more than ordinary ability. He defeated the champion of the world in a tournament at the Y. M. C. A. in this city once.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Next Meeting in This City.

Rev. J. G. Reinartz and Mrs. Frank Buxton have returned from Freedom, Pa., where as representatives of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of this city they attended the sixteenth convention of the Central Mission League of the Pittsburg synod of the Lutheran church. The sessions were of much interest and were held in St. John's church at Freedom, and Rev. Loci, the pastor, delivered the address of welcome. To this address Rev. Mr. Reinartz made a fitting response. In the evening session Rev. Mr. Gongaware and Rev. Mr. Reinartz addressed the convention on the subject, "A Missionary Work." The next convention will be held in this city next summer, when for two days an interesting program and delightful entertainment will make the convention one of note for the many missionary workers of Ohio and Beaver valleys who will attend.

A Charming Party.

An Erie, Pa., paper gives the following account of a charming party given by Mrs. E. S. Taylor, of French street, in that city, formerly of East Liverpool: "The house was beautifully decorated in Japanese fans, parasols, palms, etc., and the floral decorations were chrysanthemums. All the guests wore the Japanese national costume. At 11 p. m. the guests were invited to an upper room, which was fitted up as a tea garden, where a fine lunch was served. The amusements consisted of ping pong, games, dancing, etc., and it was a late hour before the guests bethought themselves to hie away home, so well pleased were they with the pleasant time prepared by the hostess."

GEN. LYON POST

Sporting World Review

Heatherbloom and His Jumping Prowess. Facts About High Baseball Salaries. August Belmont Will Race Horses Here and In England.

Heatherbloom, the brown gelding belonging to Howard Willetts of White Plains, N. Y., is still secure in his position as the high jump record holder. He has held the record for several years now, as no other jumper has been able to touch his high mark.

The present record of seven feet nine inches, which beats his previous record by one inch, was established at the Bryn Mawr (Pa.) horse show at the fourth attempt. He was ridden by Richard Donnelly, his trainer and the only man who can make him jump.

Mr. Willetts claims Heatherbloom is a qualified hunter, but since he has shown ability at the high jump he has been reserved for the show ring. He is a half breed, and, according to Trainer Donnelly, his sire is Simplan.

Credit for Heatherbloom's good showing over the jumps must be given to Donnelly. Donnelly was at one time a steeplechase jockey, but he did not make a great success in cross country events. He has developed most of the really successful high jumpers that have shown in recent years since he took up that sport.

Donnelly has no notion of fear when training a horse for high jumping, even though work of this sort is as dangerous as juggling dynamite bombs.

Doubtless Ban Johnson, president of the American league, was as solicitous as any one for a peace arrangement with the National league, as salaries had advanced to such a degree that it was almost impossible for his organization to pay them and live. Manager Collins of the Boston American team, who received $2,400 under the Boston National league club, was signed at $3,500 by the American leaguers, was voluntarily advanced to $5,000 and afterward asked for $7,500 and received $6,500.

"Chick" Stahl was another $2,400 man under the Boston National league regime and got a good raise when he signed with Charley Somers, and his "request" for a further raise at the beginning of the season of 1902 was duly honored. Cy Young got a good raise on the figure he had received from the St. Louis team and subsequently got another advance. Boston, therefore, had one of the highest salary lists in the country. Besides, the owner of the club, Mr. Killilea, spent money unstintedly to keep the team strong.

Pittsburg went even further than Boston in the salary matter. Barney Dreyfuss was contenting himself with the idea that the players of his team would not be approached by the other side, when an inroad was attempted in good earnest, with the result that Tannehill and Chesbro, two of his star players, were weaned from him; O'Connor, his catcher; "Lefty" Davis and Conroy. As soon as he found out that O'Connor had been secured and was doing missionary work among other players of the team the catcher was cast adrift. Dreyfuss induced Leach and Bransfield to remain true to him and succeeded in keeping Wagner in line. Hearing that the American league was desirous of securing grounds in Pittsburg, he got the options on two grounds, all that were available.

Boston was partly successful in its attempt to retain its players. It took big money to induce Dineen and Willis to remain with the team instead of going—the former to the Boston Americans and the latter to the Athletics. Dineen stuck to the Boston National team for a year, and then over he went.

The attempt of Philadelphia to hold Lajoie, Bernhardt and others is still fresh in the memory of the baseball fan. Wolverton Fraser decided to go back, while Delehanty and Orth were compelled to do a lot of dodging last year to steer clear of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania. Delehanty wavered when he needed the money, but the peace agreement knocked his plans in the head, as it did those of George Davis, and these were two players who did not obtain what they were after.

Ned Hanlon is credited with the receipt of the best stipend of any manager, and he receives $10,000 per annum. Next to him is Donovan of St. Louis, and then comes Collins. Frank Selee received more money the past season than ever before in his career.

It took extravagant figures to secure Tannehill and Chesbro of the Pittsburgs for the New York American team. Another player who received at least $6,000 was Willie Keeler. Dave Foutz received fully $5,000 last season, although he was available but one-third of the time.

It has been stated as a matter of reproach to the American leader that the pennant has landed in a different city in each of the three years in which his organization has comprised eastern cities, and it is predicted that another city will land it in accordance with a programme for 1904. Doubtless Mr. Johnson would like to see New York land first next season, for any leader of a baseball organization naturally wants to see that happen which is best for it. Certainly a race should be made as hot as possible. The outlook is for a club in New York in 1904 that will make all of the others hustle for the supremacy. Almost every club in the league will be strengthened.

August Belmont's colors will be seen on the turf next season. He will race thoroughbreds in this country and in England.

When the multimillionaire banker and chairman of the Jockey club announced recently that he would sell his race horses and yearlings at auction it caused a mild sensation in turf circles. Many were the opinions advanced for this move. Mr. Belmont said that his various business interests prevented him from giving the stable the close attention that he would like to, but trainers said that the real cause for his retirement was due to the fact that he was dissatisfied with the poor showing of his horses this year. It was an open secret that he was dissatisfied with Trainer Hyland.

Mr. Belmont will return to the turf next year. He will race four horses—Magistrate, Mizzen, Lord of the Vale and another colt. Johnny Hyland, his former trainer, will not have charge of the horses. Instead J. Whalen, who has looked after a number of his yearlings and developed the speed of the "second string" for Mr. Belmont for several years, would be the new man at the stable head.

J. Watson is the English trainer who will have charge of Mr. Belmont's American bred horses. There are now four youngsters in his charge which will be shipped abroad by Mr. Belmont. These youngsters, which will be two years old next year, consist of colts and fillies. They are well engaged in the important stakes. It is said that the English stable will be re-enforced by several additional American bred youngsters from his Nursery Stud farm in Kentucky.

Jockey John Bullman is under contract to ride for Mr. Belmont. It has not been definitely decided whether Bullman will pilot Mr. Belmont's thoroughbreds in this country or in England. It would not be a matter of surprise if the jockey was sent abroad.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Greedy Rooster

"My goodness, uncle, have you eaten all the corn in the barnyard?" asked young Mr. Rooster of old Mr. Rooster the other day.

And good cause he had for asking, too, for the old gentleman's craw stuck out in front of him like the breast of a pouter pigeon.

"No, I haven't eaten all," replied old Mr. Rooster, "but I have eaten a great deal. You see, I learned today that our master was going away tomorrow and that he was going to stay a whole week. He decided to leave each of the barnyard fowls a certain amount of corn, which is to last us until he returns. I have simply eaten all of mine at once and will not have to eat any more until he comes back."

"Well, I think I shall eat mine in daily portions," declared the nephew.

"You had better do as I have done," answered the uncle.

But the young rooster did not think this was a wise plan.

The old fellow spent a very uncomfortable day, for he was too full to be able to enjoy basking in the sun and taking his usual exercise.

"HAVE YOU EATEN ALL THE CORN?"

And, would you believe it, the next day he was as hungry as he would have been had he eaten only a regular meal on the previous day.

When the nephew and the other barnyard fowls were eating their meals the uncle stood afar off and gazed longingly at their corn.

And the next day he gazed more covetously. And the next day he just could not stand it any longer. Bursting into tears, he begged his nephew for some corn. Well, they all pitched in and made up a good square meal for the old fellow out of their daily allowance, and they did the same thing each day until the master of the barnyard returned.

"I've learned a valuable lesson," said the old rooster.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Glassmaking In Japan.

The art of making glass was introduced into Japan about 150 years ago by a Hollander, who settled at Osaka. For several generations the knowledge of the process was confined to a single family, and it was not until about 1879 that the employment of coal instead of charcoal and the construction of brick chimneys enabled the manufacturers to introduce improvements which placed the industry on a substantial basis. Osaka has continued to be the center of the industry and now manufactures for export besides supplying the home demand.

An English Borough.

In the days of "rotten boroughs" in England that of Gatton Park is said to have been the worst. It had only one qualified voter, and yet it returned two members of parliament. Of course with this right the property was very valuable, and in 1830 it was purchased by Lord Monson for $500,000. Two years later it was disfranchised.

A Domestic Incongruity.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children, for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. HISTORY OF THE GREAT TRAIL

One of the Important Highways Used by Pioneers in Early Colonial Days.

TRUNK LINE OF INDIAN TRAVEL

Started at Forks of Ohio and Had Western Terminus at Fort and Village of Detroit.

VANISHED IN TIDE OF PROGRESS

[Copyright 1903 by American Press Association.]

Prominent among the many leading highways of Indian travel which the early pioneers found and followed was that one which was very generally known as the Great Trail. It was so called because it led from one important center to another and was a trunk line of Indian travel, so to speak.

Its starting point was at the junction point of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, commonly called the forks of the Ohio. From this place, so prominently connected with the early history of this region of country, this trail, crossing the mouth of the Allegheny, led right through what is now the heart of Allegheny City, and followed the right bank of the Ohio river to the mouth of the Beaver river, then known as the Big Beaver creek. In following the Ohio during this first stretch of its course, this trail never got far away from the water's edge.

As Indian trails always did, it wound about here and there like a snake, that it might keep on the dryest and solidest ground, but this whole way it kept close to the stream. On reaching the mouth of the Beaver it struck right straight across that river and found its way on the western side as quickly and directly as possible to a watershed which ran in a generally westerly direction. Taking this upland ridge, it followed it closely to a point near the present town of Bolivar.

The next general course was toward the site of the present city of Wooster, on through Fremont, and so on to the northwestern corner of the present state of Ohio. It crossed the famous River Raisin and came to its western terminus at the fort and village of Detroit.

Running as it did from the forks of the Ohio to the straits of the lakes, its vital importance can at once be realized, for these were in those days, as now, two of the most center points in the country.

In the Indian life conditions were sufficiently similar to those which obtain in the white man's social structure to make the same locations in large measure valuable to him as are now found most desirable by us. Hence the Great Trail had important termini and rose to a corresponding place of pre-eminence among the roads of the Indians. It was early seized upon by the incoming whites and soon became a road much frequented by the early hunters and traders. The tide of settlement also followed along its course.

When the white men's government found it necessary to smite in punishment the Indian tribes who came in along the Great Trail on their errands of murder and rapine, it sent its first feeble armies out along that familiar highway, and when, in his fancied place of security in the Ohio forests the bloody handed warrior heard the sound of drum and trumpet and the tramping of many booted feet along the trail, he began for the first time to realize that his fight was lost and that his people must move onward further into the forests.

A good-sized volume could be written if one were to gather together the history which lies along the course of this old Indian thoroughfare. It would be a deeply thrilling tale. In it would be mingled the good and the bad of both Indian and white life. Horrible cruelty would there be pictured, and over against this dark background would be the fairer pictures of self-sacrifice, and daring, and heroic endeavor. It would be a panorama full worth looking at, that passing show of days which, like the Great Trail, have vanished before the coming of new and better times.

Not Businesslike.

"Has anybody engaged this berth above me?" asked the passenger in the sleeping car.

"No, sir," said the conductor.

"Then wil you please tell the porter to fold it up so I can have a little more air?"

"Certainly not, sir."

"Why not?"

"Because, sir, that would be giving you more air than you have paid for, and you can see for yourself that we can't do business on that principle."—Chicago Tribune.

His Revenge.

He—And so your answer is final. You will not be mine?

She—Never! But pray don't go and blow your brains out.

He—It would be an idle attempt. People say if I had any brains I never should have proposed to you.—Tit Bits.

Fallen from Grace.

"Is your husband a religious man?" asked Mrs. Skidmore of Mrs. Bunting.

"He was," replied Mrs. Bunting, "but in an evil hour he bought an automobile."—Life.

ness, and it is thought the city will be free in a short time from the numerous violators.

Mrs. Huffman, of Second street, had the same complaint as of yore. She is up in arms over the condition of the street in front of her residence and asks the board to repair the gutter and sidewalk. The street commissioner reported that an open gutter only could bring about the desired results and it is possible such a gutter will be laid in the near future.

Michael McClure was present and asked for information relative to his duties as wharfmaster. He was told to wait until a decision is received from the solicitor. The wharves are in a poor condition in many places and the board feels that they should be repaired before the bad weather sets in. The opinion of the solicitor will effect the conditions materially and will be awaited with considerable anxiety.

An Enjoyable Social.

The ladies of the Golden Eagle held a very enjoyable social in their hall last night. A large crowd was present, and the evening was delightfully spent in dancing and other forms of amusement.

HOME AFFAIRS

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

A Mayor to Speak—Mayor T. Cairns Anderson, of Tarentum, Pa., will be the speaker at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 4 p. m. Sunday. Subject, "Diamond Drilling."

Dr. Ogden's Advice—Dr. C. B. Ogden, city health officer, left for Butler, Pa., today to study the typhoid fever situation there. He advises all users of East Liverpool city water to boil it.

Poultry Show Premiums—John Pollock has received his premiums from the awarding committee of the Erie (Pa.) poultry exhibition held in that city recently. Mr. Pollock received a special prize for a game cock, four first prizes on hens and a first and second on Wyandot stock. The local man has won numerous prizes all over this section of the country and is said by experts to have the best stock to be found anywhere.

Young Peoples' Society—The Young Peoples' Society of the First Presbyterian church expect to give their companions in the same work a rare treat Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in their church, when Rev. C. H. Hubble, secretary of Christian Endeavor for Ohio, will talk about the organization of a union of Young Peoples' societies in this city. Rev. Mr. Hubble comes highly recommended. A cordial invitation is extended to all young people and friends of the movement to attend the meeting.

IT IS UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE IN THE LAND

An Establishment That Reflects Credit on the City Now Open to the Public.

Evidences multiply that East Liverpool is becoming metropolitan. In certain lines of effort the city has few equals and no superiors. In art, industry and features that make life attractive it is steadily progressing.

The latest proof that the city is up to date and in advance of its neighbors and competitors is the opening of one of the finest and best fitted billiard parlors and pool rooms in the country. The establishment known as the Diamond Billiard Parlors, on Diamond street, Joseph W. Geon, proprietor, opening Saturday, is certainly without a superior in this city and would be hard to excel for beauty and attractiveness in any city in the land.

Externally as well as internally it is certainly a place that is bound to attract attention. Those who are devotees of the gentlemen's game, billiards or pool, will find that every provision has been made here for their convenience, comfort and enjoyment.

Entering the attractive parlor on the ground floor, one finds himself in a palatial room, finished in onyx tile and moulded ceiling with the walls of a handsome maroon color. Here are the pool tables, four in number, all of the finest make of the Brunswick-Balke company, and around the walls are arranged comfortable seats for those who desire to watch the game.

On the floor above, reached by a superb ornamental stairway, one finds the billiard tables, of the latest, most attractive and best design. These are also Brunswick tables. This room is finished in cherry mahogany waintscoting, surmounted by walls of rich olive, the floor beautifully carpeted in a harmonious color. The rooms are large, well lighted, well ventilated and airy—cool in summer and warm in winter.

Every lover of pool or billiards will find it worth his while to visit these rooms which are now open for inspection and use. 284-r

two terms the former served as treasurer of Columbiana county, going to Lisbon from East Liverpool, where he resided with his mother, who came to that city from Salineville. Mr. Green was office boy and later bookkeeper at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company at East Liverpool for several years, but at the time of his promotion to a deputyship in Mr. Cameron's office at Lisbon, he was employed as bookkeeper at the Boyce foundry, that city.

His personal integrity is such that it would almost be a reflection to allude to it even in laudatory terms. His is a career of brightest promise. His advancement is largely due to his sound business judgment, untiring zeal, high character and affability.

Captain J. W. Barnaby is a citizen of Canton, but formerly resided at Alliance. He is a veteran of the civil war and a former recorder of Stark county. He is a pleasant gentleman and is universally esteemed.

A. H. Griffith, of Windsor, Ashtabula county, is one of the most enthusiastic Republicans of the state, enjoying the confidence and esteem of the party leaders. He is painstaking and exact as an official, and is happiest when he is doing you a favor. It is needless to add he is of high character.

James S. Hughes, of Salem, was appoint guard last spring to succeed Charles Gore, of that city, resigned. His re-appointment will be especially pleasing to union labor with which he has been identified for years. Mr. Hughes has been here long enough to demonstrate his worth and fitness and his many friends will rejoice over his good fortune.

Zachariah S. Jackson, of Springfield, is the representative of the colored race in the department. He is grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, colored, having been elevated to that office at the grand lodge meting of the organization at Steubenville last year. He was chosen to succeed himself at this year's session. He is one of the best colored orators in Ohio and has made a record for trustworthiness. He is a checker player of more than ordinary ability. He defeated the champion of the world in a tournament at the Y. M. C. A. in this city once.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Next Meeting in This City.

Rev. J. G. Reinartz and Mrs. Frank Buxton have returned from Freedom, Pa., where as representatives of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of this city they attended the sixteenth convention of the Central Mission League of the Pittsburg synod of the Lutheran church. The sessions were of much interest and were held in St. John's church at Freedom, and Rev. Loci, the pastor, delivered the address of welcome. To this address Rev. Mr. Reinartz made a fitting response. In the evening session Rev. Mr. Gongaware and Rev. Mr. Reinartz addressed the convention on the subject, "A Missionary Work." The next convention will be held in this city next summer, when for two days an interesting program and delightful entertainment will make the convention one of note for the many missionary workers of Ohio and Beaver valleys who will attend.

A Charming Party.

An Erie, Pa., paper gives the following account of a charming party given by Mrs. E. S. Taylor, of French street, in that city, formerly of East Liverpool: "The house was beautifully decorated in Japanese fans, parasols, palms, etc., and the floral decorations were chrysanthemums. All the guests wore the Japanese national costume. At 11 p. m. the guests were invited to an upper room, which was fitted up as a tea garden, where a fine lunch was served. The amusements consisted of ping pong, games, dancing, etc., and it was a late hour before the guests bethought themselves to hie away home, so well pleased were they with the pleasant time prepared by the hostess."

GEN. LYON POST

20TH YEAR. NO. 285. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1903. TWO CENTS.

THE MODERATE USE OF STRONG DRINK

As Dangerous as Intemperance, According to a Recent Revelation.

THE DELIRIUM TREMENS

Overtook a Man Who Never Used Liquor to Excess And Who Took But Two Drinks a Day—A Warning Lesson.

The case of George Turner, dying in Bellevue hospital, New York, from what physicians declare were the direct effects of alcohol, is sure to cause no little discussion and attract wide attention. It is asserted by those who ought to know that he had never used intoxicants to excess. His indulgence seems to have been limited to a moderate drink of whisky in the morning and another of the same kind on retiring at night. Yet this careful and methodical user of alcohol is said to have had delirium tremens before he died.

Medical men explain the anomaly by the weakness which followed a surgical operation, but they say that evidences of slow alcoholic poisoning, resulting in decay of the brain, and the nervous system and in other grave maladies, were plainly shown by the autopsy which followed Turner's death. So his case is officially pronounced one of "refined alcoholism."

Temperance workers will seize eagerly upon this extraordinary case as a strong argument against the use of any form of alcoholic liquor, either moderately or in larger quantities. They will insist that the fate of Turner is that of many another careful drinker of spirits whose death is not so rigorously investigated. On the other hand, those who favor the use of intoxicants will discredit the whole affair. They will argue that if the doctors are right Turner must have been a person of such exceptional physical nature and his fate signifies nothing. And it will doubtless be denied that any one could have delirium tremens from two moderate drinks of whisky daily.

It is certainly easy to exaggerate the significance of an extraordinary case of this kind, supposing the official explanation of the patient's death to be correct. A freak does not prove much, and every one knows that millions of men have reached a good old age, after taking more than two moderate drinks of whisky daily, for many years. Still, the advantage rests with the advocates of total abstinence.

Who can deny that many victims of steady, though moderate, drinking, die before their natural time of diseases which are really the affect of slow alcoholic poisoning? The chances are heavily on the side of much concealed evil which does not show in official mortality reports. On the other hand, the safety of total abstainers is complete as far as the evils of strong drink are concerned. They have no reason to question the matter of moderate drinking at all, as far as their own welfare goes. And what offsetting disadvantage do they suffer?

Obviously, there is none. No one has ever shown that any use of alcoholic liquors is either essential or beneficial. The efforts of advocates of the drinking of spirits and malt liquors are pretty generally confined to the defensive. If they can persuade people that there is not much harm in the use of such beverages they are pretty well satisfied. That is more than can be accomplished with multitudes of men who drink steadily, feeling, all the while, that they are unwise in doing so.

So the Turner case will strengthen the attack of the champions of total abstinence and weaken the defense of the apologists for the use of intoxicants. It cannot have any other tendency, however medical authorities may dispute the accuracy of the coroner's verdict or question the relevancy of this seemingly exceptional case to the general subject of moderate drinking. The natural conclusion is that the safest way is to let strong liquors go wholly untouched.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hyomei Cures this Common and Disagreeable Disease.

Hyomei cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of catarrhal poison, heals and soothes the irritated mucous membrane, enters the blood with the oxygen and kills the germs present there, effectually driving this disease from the system.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime, and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

offensive breath
dryness of the nose
pain across the eyes
pain in back of the head
pain in front of the head
tendency to take cold
burning pain in the throat
hawking to clear the throat
pain in the chest
a cough
stitch in side
losing of flesh
variable appetite
low spirited at times
raising of frothy mucous expectorating yellow matter
difficulty in breathing
frequent sneezing
huskiness of voice
discharge from the nose
stoppage of the nose at night
aching of the body
droppings in the throat
mouth open while sleeping
tickling back of the palate
formation of crusts in the nose dryness of the throat in the morning
loss of strength
spasms of coughing
cough short and hacking
cough worse nights and mornings
loss in vital force
a feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest

Hyomei will destroy activity of all catarrhal germs in the respiratory organs and in a few weeks the cure will be complete.

This is a strong statement, but Will Reed emphasizes it, by agreeing to refund your money if Hyomei does not cure.

YOUR MONEY RETURNED

If Hyomei Does Not Cure You of Catarrh, Says Will Reed.

In advertising that they will refund the money to any one purchasing a Hyomei outfit who can say that it has done them no good in the treatment of catarrh, Will Reed means exactly what the guarantee says:

Of course the percentage of cures by Hyomei is nearly one hundred or else he could not afford to make this unusual offer. But if the treatment should not be adapted to your case there will be no questions or quibblings when you go to get your money.

That the beginning of catarrh is due to the presence of germs in the air passages is now admitted by every physician. It stands to reason that catarrh cannot be cured unless the germs are first destroyed. The Hyomei treatment kills the catarrh germs even in the minutest air cells, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane and makes complete and lasting cures in cases that have resisted the usual methods of treatment.

Catarrh cannot be cured by medicines administered through the stomach. Hyomei is the only natural method and it has made cures that seem miraculous. The outfit costs but $1 and consists of an inhaler which will last a lifetime and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment. Additional bottles of Hyomei can be procured for 50c.

Will Reed gives his personal guarantee with every Hyomei outfit he sells to refund the money if it does not cure. There is no risk whatever to the purchaser of Hyomei.

ONLY GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE

Hyomei Costs You Nothing If It Fails Says Will Reed.

Among the many medicines upon the market that claim to cure catarrh, none but Hyomei has enough faith in its own merit to be willing to refund the money if it does not cure.

This remarkable remedy for catarrh kills the microbes and the germs of the disease and from its introduction has been sold under a positive guarantee to return the money to all dissatisfied customers.

Will Reed has sold a great many Hyomei outfits in the last few years, and they stand ready today to refund the price to any one who has not been helped by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

Breathe Hyomei for a few minutes four times a day, and your catarrh will grow better from the first day's use, and will be completely cured in a short time. Do not try to cure catarrh with ordinary stomach medicines. Breathe the healing Hyomei which goes to every part of the air passages and respiratory organs, killing the catarrh germs and preventing their growth.

It is the only treatment for catarrh where you can get your money back from a local dealer in case it does not help.

SKIPPED IN HASTE ON WEDDING DAY

Aged and Doting Lover the Victim of a Designing Woman.

THE SPIRITS PLAY A PART

In a Matrimonial Bargain Which Failed of Consummation—The Woman Left Her Fiance, Aged 73, $2,400 Poorer.

Columbus, December 5.—Daniel Spear, an amorous widower of but 73 winters and summers, a believer in spiritualism and the victim of two designing women, is endeavoring to recover $2,400 which he gave Mrs. Ida Laughlin at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, for her wedding portion.

Spear was to have been married to the Laughlin woman at 4 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, at the office of the probate judge in the court house. His fiancee left the house and told her devoted old admirer that she must borrow a wrap from a friend in North Columbus in order to be well prepared for the ceremony. She was to return to the apartments at the corner of Fourth and Long streets, at 2 o'clock, and the bridal party was then to wend its way to thec ourt house, where the "medium" in the case, Mrs. Wright, and the bride were to have the minister in waiting.

These were the arrangements for the day, but all that materialized was the prospective groom's gift to his bride, a check for $2,400 on the Citizens' National bank. The young bride eloped, and with her is supposed to have gone a man by the name of Jackson, who was a roomer at the apartments conducted by Spear at Fourth and Long streets. The police of the country have been furnished with a description of the two women and have been instructed to keep a sharp lookout for them.

The swindle is one of the cleverest ever worked in Columbus. The game was played with consummate skill, spiritualism was used to lure in the victim and finesse of the most accomplished type was used to defraud the old septuagenarian. The Laughlin woman told Spear that she was 33 years of age and for five years had been a stenographer in the employ of Bancroft & Co., a firm no longer in business in Columbus, as she was careful not to inform the aged swain. Mrs. Wright, the "medium," told Spear that she was the wife of "Dr." Wright and had obtained a divorce but a few weeks ago because of the domestic unfaithfulness of her husband. Mrs. Wright is about 38 years old.

The old man came to Columbus from Cardington about six weeks ago. He has successively been a farmer, a fruit grower and a stockman and he determined to come to Columbus and live, as he had no relatives there. Through A. W. Dennis, proprietor of the barber shop at 233 South Fourth street, a former resident of Cardington and acquaintance, Spear was taken to 167½ East Long street, just two doors from the corner, and introdueed to the Laughlin woman, who posed as Miss Ida Belle Laughlin. She told Spear that she had been married at 16 and widowed two years later, so that she preferred to use her maiden name.

As a result of the visit Spear purchased of the Laughlin woman her furniture and business of taking roomers for $1,000. There were seven occupants of the rooms; three paid $3; two, $2.50, and the remaining two $2 per week. The Laughlin woman agreed to remain with Spear and look after the house for him until she could locate elsewhere. No room rent was to be charged her during this time.

It was about this time the "medium" got busy. The woman found out that Spear was a believer in spiritualism so Mrs. Wright developed the power. A dark room was fixed up and Spear was invited to a sitting. Mrs. Wright used a trumpet and the devout old devotee heard the voice of his deceased wife and brother-in-law very distinctly. The dead partner of his joys and sorrows tearfully advised her Daniel not to live alone but to take to his bosom some one who would love and care for him. Then she vanished and after Daniel had meditated on the words of his deceased spouse his brother-in-law "trumpeted" at him and indicated that the comely and prepossessing Mrs. Laughlin was the proper person to assume the matrimonial yoke. The brother-in-law, George O. Wood, was an employe of Amican Bros. and dropped dead at Redlands, Cal. "Do you think she will have me, George," faltered the aged lover.

"How can I know what is in her head? Go and ask her the first thing tomorrow morning," advised the shade as it passed out of the trumpet. After a sleepless night Daniel did ask Ida if she would be his wife. She smirked and said, "This is too sudden."

"I told her that was what they all said," was the way Spear told of his proposal. She consented and the marriage was set for Tuesday.

Then the woman told her aged lover that she knew of a fine two story brick building at State and Fourth streets. She said she had befriended the owner and he would sell her the property for $5,000 or $2,000 less than it was worth. Spear was told that there were 14 rooms over the large store rooms that occupied the first floor and these could be used for renting to people in search of apartments.

Spear was to give her $2,400 as her marriage portion, the deed to the house was to be in her name and she was t borrow the remainder of the purchase money from a good friend. They were to divide the proceeds and share alike. At 11 o'clock, Tuesday, Spear gave the check on the Citizens' National bank and the woman took it to the M. & M. bank and got it cashed. Now Spear is looking for her.

Ex-Congressman Springer Dead.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Former Representative William M. Springer, of Illinois, a Democratic leader conspicuous in the house of representatives during the Forty-fourth to Fifty-third congresses inclusive, and once chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, died at his residence in this city, aged 64 years. His death was due to pneumonia contracted in Chicago on Thanksgiving day. Mr. Springer has been a resident of this city during the past few years following his retirement from congress and has followed the practice of law begun at Springfield, Ill., before his congressional career began. He has represented many of the Indian claims before the interior department and before the federal and local courts here.

AGED INDIAN ASSASSINATED

Two Vicious White Men Are Guilty of the Murder of a Harmless Delaware.

CRUEL AND COWARDLY CRIME

Matter Reported to Governor Penn by General St. Clair—Reward Offered by Legislature.

LAWLESS MEN GO UNPUNISHED

Just previous to the opening of the Revolutionary war a most despicable and causeless crime was committed in the vicinity of Johnstown, Pa., which might have given great trouble along the border. Those were days when the millstones of fate were grinding out the destiny of the fated red tribes which had so long lorded it over these noble forest lands. A generation before this time, as the result of the crushing out of Pontiac's great conspiracy, the Delaware Indians had nearly all deserted their old ancestral hunting grounds on the western slope of the Alleghenies and had gone on further westward into what is now Ohio. Here and there some old man remained tied to the familiar haunts by the unbreakable bonds of memory and affection for the graves of his fathers. Here and there, amid the scenes of their childhood plays and mature conquests, these solitary reminders of the former days of glory lingered on until time was no more for them.

One such notable relic of Indian occupation remained behind when the Delawares moved away. His name was Joseph Wipey, sometimes styled John. Wipey was a man of perfectly quiet and inoffensive nature, innocently occupying his time in hunting and fishing, by which simple pursuits he managed to supply his few wants. His home was a small and comparatively rude cabin, which he had constructed on the bank of a small stream to the north side of the Conemaugh river, in what is now the corner of Indiana county lying nearest to the adjoining county of Cambria. Here this harmless old Delaware was content to live out his few remaining years, feeling sure that the coming white men would not be able to drive away all the game and fish in his lifetime.

Year by year the incoming of the whites increased in volume. The stream of immigration surged about him more and more strongly, but Wipey lived on in simple contentment. The nearby settlers soon learned his real character and made him welcome in their cabins. They passed up and down the streams of the Conemaugh valley and spoke kindly to the solitary figure as they passed him on the forest trail or found him sitting in his canoe fishing. Such was the life of this harmless child of nature. From all accounts he seems to have been honorable and moral in all his ways.

But such was not the nature of all the whites who came crowding and jostling into the old hunting grounds of the Delawares. It is a great misfortune that the advancing van of white civilization always carries on its crest its most vicious elements. This was the case in those years of settlement west of the mountains. There were many desperate and cruel men in the coming crowds, and they were able to do evil and shameful deeds in those early years with but slight fear of punishment.

Wipey's cabin was located on or very near to the land taken up by George Findlay, who was the first white settler in the region, lying immediately to the north of the Conemaugh river. Here the solitary Indian lived in peace till he was foully murdered by two bitter Indian haters. Their names were John Hinkson, or Hinckston, and James Cooper. The Indian was at the time of the attack fishing from a canoe just by the mouth of Hinckston's run, a stream which empties into the Conemaugh in what is now the Fourteenth ward of the city of Johnstown. The murder was cruelly and cowardly done, and aroused great fear of what might be done in revenge for it by the Delaware bands west of the Allegheny river. Fortunately there is extant contemporary documentary testimony as to the effect of this heinous crime. In a letter to Governor Penn, written at Ligonier on May 29, 1774, Colonel Arthur St. Clair says:

"An affair that has given me much trouble and vexation had liked to have escaped my memory, the murder of a Delaware Indian, Joseph Wipey, about 25 miles from this place. It is the most astonishing thing in the world, the disposition of the common people of this community. Actuated by the most savage cruelty, they wantonly perpetrate crimes that are a disgrace to humanity, and seem at the same time to be under a kind of religious enthusiasm, whilst they want the daring spirit that usually inspires. Two of the persons concerned in the murder are John Hinkson and James Cooper. I had got information of their design some time before they executed it and had wrote to Hinkson, whom I know to be a leader amongst them, to dissuade them, and threatened them with the weight of the law if they persisted, but so far from preventing them it only produced the inclosed letter. The body was discovered hid in a small run of water and covered with stones. I immediately sent for the coroner, but before he had got a jury together the body was removed, so that no inquest could be taken. I have issued warrants, but they are so much on their guard I doubt they cannot be executed. Your honor will please to consider whether it may be proper to proclaim them. It is most unlucky at this time; the letter may perhaps be made use of as evidence."

Just what this letter was cannot now be known, for it does not appear that Governor Penn preserved it, or, if he did, it has since been lost. The words of St. Clair show that there was a lawless spirit abroad in the settlement and that the man who planned and executed this cowardly crime did not entertain any very great amount of fear of punishment. Indeed, along during the next July, they visited Hannastown, the place of holding court, and practically defied the authorities to arrest the murderers. They came in an armed body, about 18 in number, and though they were present openly and boldly, and the whole legal machinery of Westmoreland county was in full operation, they were not harmed, but were suffered to depart when and how they pleased. There was sufficient force present to have taken them, but the attempt was not made.

The murder of Wipey was an unusually noted crime, because it brought fear of trouble along the entire Pennsylvania frontier. It became a public matter, and on July 20 the legislature passed a resolution, which we quote in full because of its great interest:

"Resolved, that the house will make provisions for paying the reward of £100 to any person who shall apprehend James Cooper and John Hinkson, who, it is said, have barbarously murdered an Indian on the frontiers of this province, and deliver them into the custody of the keeper of the gaol, within either of the counties of Lancaster, York or Cumberland, or the sum of £50 for either of them."

Printed copies of this proclamation were scattered throughout Westmoreland county, but no arrests followed. This seems to have been a case in which organized and lawful government was yet too weak to cope with and crush out the spirit of desperate lawlessness which was yet prevalent along the frontier. The simple and harmless career of Wipey was thus cruelly brought to an end, but human justice never exacted reparation at the hands of the murderers. The stain of their base crime yet remains in the Conemaugh valley.

C. L. SMITH.

A FAITHFUL CHIEFTAIN.

Remains of Noted Shawanese Taken from Pittsburg Burial Ground.

[Copyright 1903 by American Press Association.]

The removal of the old First Presbyterian church, Pittsburg, from its ancient site on Wood street to make room for a big business building makes necessary the abandonment of the historic old graveyard which has been for so many generations one of the quaintest sites of the city. Its removal draws attention to one very interesting grave dating from the century before the last. In the portion of the churchyard over by the Trinity church stands an old and much defaced headstone. If its inscription were restored it would read:

"Mio-Qua-Coo-Ua-Caw, or Red Pole, Principal Village Chief of the Shawanese Nation; Died at Pittsburg the 28th of January, 1797. Lamented by the United States."

The latter part of this inscription was literally true. Red Pole was a noted Shawanese chieftain of the powerful and warlike Shawanese tribe. He was a steadfast friend of the Americans, and in many instances did the frontier settlements an incalculable favor by warning them of approaching attacks on the part of the redskins. These great kindnesses he did because he looked on the presence of the white men as a blessing to the Indians, if the latter should be wise enough to learn the white man's virtues and shun his vices.

Red Pole's prominence and friendliness brought him into great esteem in the country along the upper Ohio valley and he was welcomed heartily wherever he went.

The winter of 1796-7 was an unusually rigorous season. It began early and was long continued. The snows were very deep and the temperature low for long periods. The rivers closed Nov. 23 and did not break up till Feb. 3. During that winter a party of Wyandot and Shawanese braves had made a visit of some importance to Philadelphia. When on their return they reached Pittsburg, Red Pole, who was one of the number, was taken sick with an affection of the lungs, resulting from the exposures of the perilous journey. Every care was given the sick man. Dr. Bedford, a leading physician of the infant city, and Dr. Carmichael, an army surgeon, attended him assiduously, but after lying with much suffering for six weeks the chief died. There was a ceremonious funeral and the burial was in the old ground now being disturbed. White and red men alike joined in doing honor to the memory of the one who had been a good friend to both.

And thus, in the heart of the town which has since grown to be the greatest industrial center in the world, the old Shawanese chief has slumbered on, all unconscious of the growth at his very side of a civilization the possibilities of which were but little appreciated in his day. C. L. SMITH.

O'Brien's Ambition

"Philadelphia Jack" Wants to Fight Ryan or Fitzsimmons.

Wearing a broad brimmed English beaver, "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien recently walked down the gangplank of a transatlantic liner at New York with $5,000 in his pockets, the profits of three months' touring of the variety halls and beating the best middle weights old England could put up against him.

O'Brien was looking fine and tanned. "Boxing in England is on the boom," he said, "but it's easy money because the English fighters lack speed."

With O'Brien was Joe Hagan, former amateur champion of Philadelphia, who by his success abroad boxed himself out of the A. A. U. into the ranks of the professionals.

"PHILADELPHIA JACK" O'BRIEN.

Speaking of his success in England, O'Brien said: "I met Charley Haghey of Boston, Jack Mullen and Bill Herron, all of whom I defeated in very quick time, taking respectively three, eight and five rounds to accomplish the jobs.

"One couldn't do better in America than I have done in England in three months. My former weight was 154 pounds, but now 158 pounds is just nice for me to make.

"On my first trip to England, just after Queen Victoria's death, I was away fourteen months and took in $10,000, but had to wait eleven months before I could make a shilling.

"I am anxious to get on a match with Tommy Ryan for the middle weight championship of the world. Several clubs are bidding for the contest, but the Yosemite of San Francisco will probably be the winner."

Of the coming fight between Fitz and Gardner O'Brien said, "Gardner is a good, game fellow, with youth and everything, but he lacks experience."

O'Brien was enthusiastic over the work of his trainer and assistant, Joe Hagan, with whom he toured Ireland, Scotland and England, meeting all comers. Hagan won several battles.

"Hagan had a match on with Jack Palmer," said O'Brien, "but Palmer forfeited the stakes, $250. He didn't admire his task when he heard that Hagan was traveling with me. He thought that I had brought over my brother and was ringing him in and that Hagan could fight as well as I could."

O'Brien returns with his pockets full of keepsakes and souvenirs presented him by English admirers. One sporting enthusiast gave him a pocket compass set in polished coal, while James Lowes, the premier promoter of the world, who is not addicted to reckless generosity, presented him with a beautiful medal and gold watch fob bearing the inscription: "Presented to Jack O'Brien, champion (sic) middle weight of the world, by James Lowes, who admires him for his business ability as well as for his great boxing abilities."

O'Brien has also delivered lectures on physical culture, which caught the English every time. His lectures were illustrated with stereopticon slides, while the boxer himself gave illustrations of his methods and system of posing.

He combated the Sandow theory of largely developed muscles and recommended simpler exercises. He started off by saying that in his opinion, gained by experience, walking and running gave quickness, suppleness and flexibility, greater than could be obtained by heavier exercise. He then quoted President Roosevelt, who as a boy was pale and sickly, as one of the finest examples of all around physical development, which had been secured principally by the lighter open air exercises. "No one now works harder than our president," he said. "The reference to President Roosevelt always brought applause from the English audiences, who agreed with me in nearly all I said."

The Philadelphia fighter wants to fight Fitzsimmons at 158 pounds and will challenge him after Fitz has fought Gardner. In fact, he will fight anybody but Jeffries.

THE DELIRIUM TREMENS

Overtook a Man Who Never Used Liquor to Excess And Who Took But Two Drinks a Day—A Warning Lesson.

The case of George Turner, dying in Bellevue hospital, New York, from what physicians declare were the direct effects of alcohol, is sure to cause no little discussion and attract wide attention. It is asserted by those who ought to know that he had never used intoxicants to excess. His indulgence seems to have been limited to a moderate drink of whisky in the morning and another of the same kind on retiring at night. Yet this careful and methodical user of alcohol is said to have had delirium tremens before he died.

Medical men explain the anomaly by the weakness which followed a surgical operation, but they say that evidences of slow alcoholic poisoning, resulting in decay of the brain, and the nervous system and in other grave maladies, were plainly shown by the autopsy which followed Turner's death. So his case is officially pronounced one of "refined alcoholism."

Temperance workers will seize eagerly upon this extraordinary case as a strong argument against the use of any form of alcoholic liquor, either moderately or in larger quantities. They will insist that the fate of Turner is that of many another careful drinker of spirits whose death is not so rigorously investigated. On the other hand, those who favor the use of intoxicants will discredit the whole affair. They will argue that if the doctors are right Turner must have been a person of such exceptional physical nature and his fate signifies nothing. And it will doubtless be denied that any one could have delirium tremens from two moderate drinks of whisky daily.

It is certainly easy to exaggerate the significance of an extraordinary case of this kind, supposing the official explanation of the patient's death to be correct. A freak does not prove much, and every one knows that millions of men have reached a good old age, after taking more than two moderate drinks of whisky daily, for many years. Still, the advantage rests with the advocates of total abstinence.

Who can deny that many victims of steady, though moderate, drinking, die before their natural time of diseases which are really the affect of slow alcoholic poisoning? The chances are heavily on the side of much concealed evil which does not show in official mortality reports. On the other hand, the safety of total abstainers is complete as far as the evils of strong drink are concerned. They have no reason to question the matter of moderate drinking at all, as far as their own welfare goes. And what offsetting disadvantage do they suffer?

Obviously, there is none. No one has ever shown that any use of alcoholic liquors is either essential or beneficial. The efforts of advocates of the drinking of spirits and malt liquors are pretty generally confined to the defensive. If they can persuade people that there is not much harm in the use of such beverages they are pretty well satisfied. That is more than can be accomplished with multitudes of men who drink steadily, feeling, all the while, that they are unwise in doing so.

So the Turner case will strengthen the attack of the champions of total abstinence and weaken the defense of the apologists for the use of intoxicants. It cannot have any other tendency, however medical authorities may dispute the accuracy of the coroner's verdict or question the relevancy of this seemingly exceptional case to the general subject of moderate drinking. The natural conclusion is that the safest way is to let strong liquors go wholly untouched.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hyomei Cures this Common and Disagreeable Disease.

Hyomei cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of catarrhal poison, heals and soothes the irritated mucous membrane, enters the blood with the oxygen and kills the germs present there, effectually driving this disease from the system.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime, and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

offensive breath
dryness of the nose
pain across the eyes
pain in back of the head
pain in front of the head
tendency to take cold
burning pain in the throat
hawking to clear the throat
pain in the chest
a cough
stitch in side
losing of flesh
variable appetite
low spirited at times
raising of frothy mucous expectorating yellow matter
difficulty in breathing
frequent sneezing
huskiness of voice
discharge from the nose stoppage of the nose at night
aching of the body
droppings in the throat
mouth open while sleeping
tickling back of the palate
formation of crusts in the nose dryness of the throat in the morning
loss of strength
spasms of coughing
cough short and hacking
cough worse nights and mornings
loss in vital force
a feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest

Hyomei will destroy activity of all catarrhal germs in the respiratory organs and in a few weeks the cure will be complete.

This is a strong statement, but Will Reed emphasizes it, by agreeing to refund your money if Hyomei does not cure.

YOUR MONEY RETURNED

If Hyomei Does Not Cure You of Catarrh, Says Will Reed.

In advertising that they will refund the money to any one purchasing a Hyomei outfit who can say that it has done them no good in the treatment of catarrh, Will Reed means exactly what the guarantee says:

Of course the percentage of cures by Hyomei is nearly one hundred or else he could not afford to make this unusual offer. But if the treatment should not be adapted to your case there will be no questions or quibblings when you go to get your money.

That the beginning of catarrh is due to the presence of germs in the air passages is now admitted by every physician. It stands to reason that catarrh cannot be cured unless the germs are first destroyed. The Hyomei treatment kills the catarrh germs even in the minutest air cells, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane and makes complete and lasting cures in cases that have resisted the usual methods of treatment.

Catarrh cannot be cured by medicines administered through the stomach. Hyomei is the only natural method and it has made cures that seem miraculous. The outfit costs but $1 and consists of an inhaler which will last a lifetime and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment. Additional bottles of Hyomei can be procured for 50c.

Will Reed gives his personal guarantee with every Hyomei outfit he sells to refund the money if it does not cure. There is no risk whatever to the purchaser of Hyomei.

ONLY GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE

Hyomei Costs You Nothing If It Fails Says Will Reed.

Among the many medicines upon the market that claim to cure catarrh, none but Hyomei has enough faith in its own merit to be willing to refund the money if it does not cure.

This remarkable remedy for catarrh kills the microbes and the germs of the disease and from its introduction has been sold under a positive guarantee to return the money to all dissatisfied customers.

Will Reed has sold a great many Hyomei outfits in the last few years, and they stand ready today to refund the price to any one who has not been helped by Hyomei.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

Breathe Hyomei for a few minutes four times a day, and your catarrh will grow better from the first day's use, and will be completely cured in a short time. Do not try to cure catarrh with ordinary stomach medicines. Breathe the healing Hyomei which goes to every part of the air passages and respiratory organs, killing the catarrh germs and preventing their growth.

It is the only treatment for catarrh where you can get your money back from a local dealer in case it does not help.

SKIPPED IN HASTE ON WEDDING DAY

Aged and Doting Lover the Victim of a Designing Woman.

THE SPIRITS PLAY A PART

In a Matrimonial Bargain Which Failed of Consummation—The Woman Left Her Fiance, Aged 73, $2,400 Poorer.

Columbus, December 5.—Daniel Spear, an amorous widower of but 73 winters and summers, a believer in spiritualism and the victim of two designing women, is endeavoring to recover $2,400 which he gave Mrs. Ida Laughlin at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, for her wedding portion.

Spear was to have been married to the Laughlin woman at 4 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon. at the office of the probate judge in the court house. His fiancee left the house and told her devoted old admirer that she must borrow a wrap from a friend in North Columbus in order to be well prepared for the ceremony. She was to return to the apartments at the corner of Fourth and Long streets, at 2 o'clock, and the bridal party was then to wend its way to thec ourt house, where the "medium" in the case, Mrs. Wright, and the bride were to have the minister in waiting.

These were the arrangements for the day, but all that materialized was the prospective groom's gift to his bride, a check for $2,400 on the Citizens' National bank. The young bride eloped, and with her is supposed to have gone a man by the name of Jackson, who was a roomer at the apartments conducted by Spear at Fourth and Long streets. The police of the country have been furnished with a description of the two women and have been instructed to keep a sharp lookout for them.

The swindle is one of the cleverest ever worked in Columbus. The game was played with consummate skill, spiritualism was used to lure in the victim and finesse of the most accomplished type was used to defraud the old septuagenarian. The Laughlin woman told Spear that she was 33 years of age and for five years had been a stenographer in the employ of Bamcroft & Co., a firm no longer in business in Columbus, as she was careful not to inform the aged swain. Mrs. Wright, the "medium," told Spear that she was the wife of "Dr." Wright and had obtained a divorce but a few weeks ago because of the domestic unfaithfulness of her husband. Mrs. Wright is about 38 years old.

The old man came to Columbus from Cardington about six weeks ago. He has successively been a farmer, a fruit grower and a stockman and he determined to come to Columbus and live, as he had no relatives there. Through A. W. Dennis, proprietor of the barber shop at 333 South Fourth street, a former resident of Cardington and acquaintance, Spear was taken to 167½ East Long street, just two doors from the corner, and introduced to the Laughlin woman, who posed as Miss Ida Belle Laughlin. She told Spear that she had been married at 16 and widowed two years later, so that she preferred to use her maiden name.

As a result of the visit Spear purchased of the Laughlin woman her furniture and business of taking roomers for $1,000. There were seven occupants of the rooms; three paid $3; two, $2.50, and the remaining two $2 per week. The Laughlin woman agreed to remain with Spear and look after the house for him until she could locate elsewhere. No room rent was to be charged her during this time.

It was about this time the "medium" got busy. The woman found out that Spear was a believer in spiritualism so Mrs. Wright developed the power. A dark room was fixed up and Spear was invited to a sitting. Mrs. Wright used a trumpet and the devout old devotee heard the voice of his deceased wife and brother-in-law very distinctly. The dead partner of his joys and sorrows tearfully advised her Daniel not to live alone but to take to his bosom some one who would love and care for him. Then she vanished and after Daniel had meditated on the words of his deceased spouse his brother-in-law "trumpeted" at him and indicated that the comely and prepossessing Mrs. Laughlin was the proper person to assume the matrimonial yoke. The brother-in-law, George O. Wood, was an employe of Amican Bros. and dropped dead at Redlands, Cal. "Do you think she will have me, George," faltered the aged lover.

"How can I know what is in her head? Go and ask her the first thing tomorrow morning," advised the shade as it passed out of the trumpet. After a sleepless night Daniel did ask Ida if she would be his wife. She smirked and said, "This is too sudden."

"I told her that was what they all said," was the way Spear told of his proposal. She consented and the marriage was set for Tuesday.

Then the woman told her aged lover that she knew of a fine two story brick building at State and Fourth streets. She said she had befriended the owner and he would sell her the property for $5,000 or $2,000 less than it was worth. Spear was told that there were 14 rooms over the large store rooms that occupied the first floor and these could be used for renting to people in search of apartments.

Spear was to give her $2,400 as her marriage portion, the deed to the house was to be in her name and she was t borrow the remainder of the purchase money from a good friend. They were to divide the proceeds and share alike. At 11 o'clock, Tuesday, Spear gave the check on the Citizens' National bank and the woman took it to the M. & M. bank and got it cashed. Now Spear is looking for her.

Ex-Congressman Springer Dead.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Former Representative William M. Springer, of Illinois, a Democratic leader conspicuous in the house of representatives during the Forty-fourth to Fifty-third congresses inclusive, and once chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, died at his residence in this city, aged 64 years. His death was due to pneumonia contracted in Chicago on Thanksgiving day. Mr. Springer has been a resident of this city during the past few years following his retirement from congress and has followed the practice of law begun at Springfield, Ill., before his congressional career began. He has represented many of the Indian claims before the interior department and before the federal and local courts here.

Sporting World Review

Heatherbloom and His Jumping Prowess. Facts About High Baseball Salaries. August Belmont Will Race Horses Here and In England.

Heatherbloom, the brown gelding belonging to Howard Willetts of White Plains, N. Y., is still secure in his position as the high jump record holder. He has held the record for several years now, as no other jumper has been able to touch his high mark.

The present record of seven feet nine inches, which beats his previous record by one inch, was established at the Bryn Mawr (Pa.) horse show at the fourth attempt. He was ridden by Richard Donnelly, his trainer and the only man who can make him jump.

Mr. Willetts claims Heatherbloom is a qualified hunter, but since he has shown ability at the high jump he has been reserved for the show ring. He is a half breed, and, according to Trainer Donnelly, his sire is Simplan.

Credit for Heatherbloom's good showing over the jumps must be given to Donnelly. Donnelly was at one time a steeplechase jockey, but he did not make a great success in cross country events. He has developed most of the really successful high jumpers that have shown in recent years since he took up that sport.

Donnelly has no notion of fear when training a horse for high jumping, even though work of this sort is as dangerous as juggling dynamite bombs.

Doubtless Ban Johnson, president of the American league, was as solicitous as any one for a peace arrangement with the National league, as salaries had advanced to such a degree that it was almost impossible for his organization to pay them and live. Manager Collins of the Boston American team, who received $2,400 under the Boston National league club, was signed at $3,500 by the American leaguers, was voluntarily advanced to $5,000 and afterward asked for $7,500 and received $6,500.

"Chick" Stahl was another $2,400 man under the Boston National league regime and got a good raise when he signed with Charley Somers, and his "request" for a further raise at the beginning of the season of 1902 was duly honored. Cy Young got a good raise on the figure he had received from the St. Louis team and subsequently got another advance. Boston, therefore, had one of the highest salary lists in the country. Besides, the owner of the club, Mr. Killilea, spent money unstintedly to keep the team strong.

Pittsburg went even further than Boston in the salary matter. Barney Dreyfuss was contenting himself with the idea that the players of his team would not be approached by the other side, when an inroad was attempted in good earnest, with the result that Tannehill and Chesbro, two of his star players, were weaned from him; O'Connor, his catcher; "Lefty" Davis and Conroy. As soon as he found out that O'Connor had been secured and was doing missionary work among other players of the team the catcher was cast adrift. Dreyfuss induced Leach and Bransfield to remain true to him and succeeded in keeping Wagner in line. Hearing that the American league was desirous of securing grounds in Pittsburg, he got the options on two grounds, all that were available.

Boston was partly successful in its attempt to retain its players. It took big money to induce Dineen and Willis to remain with the team instead of going—the former to the Boston Americans and the latter to the Athletics. Dineen stuck to the Boston National team for a year, and then over he went.

The attempt of Philadelphia to hold Lajoie, Bernhardt and others is still fresh in the memory of the baseball fan. Wolverton Fraser decided to go back, while Delehanty and Orth were compelled to do a lot of dodging last year to steer clear of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania. Delehanty wavered when he needed the money, but the peace agreement knocked his plans in the head, as it did those of George Davis, and these were two players who did not obtain what they were after.

Ned Hanlon is credited with the receipt of the best stipend of any manager, and he receives $10,000 per annum. Next to him is Donovan of St. Louis, and then comes Collins. Frank Selee received more money the past season than ever before in his career.

It took extravagant figures to secure Tannehill and Chesbro of the Pittsburgs for the New York American team. Another player who received at least $6,000 was Willie Keeler. Dave Foutz received fully $5,000 last season, although he was available but one-third of the time.

It has been stated as a matter of reproach to the American leader that the pennant has landed in a different city in each of the three years in which his organization has comprised eastern cities, and it is predicted that another city will land it in accordance with a programme for 1904. Doubtless Mr. Johnson would like to see New York land first next season, for any leader of a baseball organization naturally wants to see that happen which is best for it. Certainly a race should be made as hot as possible. The outlook is for a club in New York in 1904 that will make all of the others hustle for the supremacy. Almost every club in the league will be strengthened.

August Belmont's colors will be seen on the turf next season. He will race thoroughbreds in this country and in England.

When the multimillionaire banker and chairman of the Jockey club announced recently that he would sell his race horses and yearlings at auction it caused a mild sensation in turf circles. Many were the opinions advanced for this move. Mr. Belmont said that his various business interests prevented him from giving the stable the close attention that he would like to, but trainers said that the real cause for his retirement was due to the fact that he was dissatisfied with the poor showing of his horses this year. It was an open secret that he was dissatisfied with Trainer Hyland.

Mr. Belmont will return to the turf next year. He will race four horses—Magistrate, Mizzen, Lord of the Vale and another colt. Johnny Hyland, his former trainer, will not have charge of the horses. Instead J. Whalen, who has looked after a number of his yearlings and developed the speed of the "second string" for Mr. Belmont for several years, would be the new man at the stable head.

J. Watson is the English trainer who will have charge of Mr. Belmont's American bred horses. There are now four youngsters in his charge which will be shipped abroad by Mr. Belmont. These youngsters, which will be two years old next year, consist of colts and fillies. They are well engaged in the important stakes. It is said that the English stable will be re-enforced by several additional American bred youngsters from his Nursery Stud farm in Kentucky.

Jockey John Bullman is under contract to ride for Mr. Belmont. It has not been definitely decided whether Bullman will pilot Mr. Belmont's thoroughbreds in this country or in England. It would not be a matter of surprise if the jockey was sent abroad.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Greedy Rooster

"My goodness, uncle, have you eaten all the corn in the barnyard?" asked young Mr. Rooster of old Mr. Rooster the other day.

And good cause he had for asking, too, for the old gentleman's craw stuck out in front of him like the breast of a pouter pigeon.

"No, I haven't eaten all," replied old Mr. Rooster, "but I have eaten a great deal. You see, I learned today that our master was going away tomorrow and that he was going to stay a whole week. He decided to leave each of the barnyard fowls a certain amount of corn, which is to last us until he returns. I have simply eaten all of mine at once and will not have to eat any more until he comes back."

"Well, I think I shall eat mine in daily portions," declared the nephew.

"You had better do as I have done," answered the uncle.

But the young rooster did not think this was a wise plan.

The old fellow spent a very uncomfortable day, for he was too full to be able to enjoy basking in the sun and taking his usual exercise.

And, would you believe it, the next day he was as hungry as he would have been had he eaten only a regular meal on the previous day.

When the nephew and the other barnyard fowls were eating their meals the uncle stood afar off and gazed longingly at their corn.

And the next day he gazed more covetously. And the next day he just could not stand it any longer. Bursting into tears, he begged his nephew for some corn. Well, they all pitched in and made up a good square meal for the old fellow out of their daily allowance, and they did the same thing each day until the master of the barnyard returned.

"I've learned a valuable lesson," said the old rooster.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Glassmaking In Japan.

The art of making glass was introduced into Japan about 150 years ago by a Hollander, who settled at Osaka. For several generations the knowledge of the process was confined to a single family, and it was not until about 1879 that the employment of coal instead of charcoal and the construction of brick chimneys enabled the manufacturers to introduce improvements which placed the industry on a substantial basis. Osaka has continued to be the center of the industry and now manufactures for export besides supplying the home demand.

HISTORY OF THE GREAT TRAIL

One of the Important Highways Used by Pioneers in Early Colonial Days.

TRUNK LINE OF INDIAN TRAVEL

Started at Forks of Ohio and Had Western Terminus at Fort and Village of Detroit.

[Copyright 1903 by American Press Association.]

Prominent among the many leading highways of Indian travel which the early pioneers found and followed was that one which was very generally known as the Great Trail. It was so called because it led from one important center to another and was a trunk line of Indian travel, so to speak.

Its starting point was at the junction point of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, commonly called the forks of the Ohio. From this place, so prominently connected with the early history of this region of country, this trail, crossing the mouth of the Allegheny, led right through what is now the heart of Allegheny City, and followed the right bank of the Ohio river to the mouth of the Beaver river, then known as the Big Beaver creek. In following the Ohio during this first stretch of its course, this trail never got far away from the water's edge.

As Indian trails always did, it wound about here and there like a snake, that it might keep on the dryest and solidest ground, but this whole way it kept close to the stream. On reaching the mouth of the Beaver it struck right straight across that river and found its way on the western side as quickly and directly as possible to a watershed which ran in a generally westerly direction. Taking this upland ridge, it followed it closely to a point near the present town of Bolivar.

The next general course was toward the site of the present city of Wooster, on through Fremont, and so on to the northwestern corner of the present state of Ohio. It crossed the famous River Raisin and came to its western terminus at the fort and village of Detroit.

Running as it did from the forks of the Ohio to the straits of the lakes, its vital importance can at once be realized, for these were in those days, as now, two of the most center points in the country.

In the Indian life conditions were sufficiently similar to those which obtain in the white man's social structure to make the same locations in large measure valuable to him as are now found most desirable by us. Hence the Great Trail had important termini and rose to a corresponding place of pre-eminence among the roads of the Indians. It was early seized upon by the incoming whites and soon became a road much frequented by the early hunters and traders. The tide of settlement also followed along its course.

When the white men's government found it necessary to smite in punishment the Indian tribes who came in along the Great Trail on their errands of murder and rapine, it sent its first feeble armies out along that familiar highway, and when, in his fancied place of security in the Ohio forests the bloody handed warrior heard the sound of drum and trumpet and the tramping of many booted feet along the trail, he began for the first time to realize that his fight was lost and that his people must move onward further into the forests.

A good-sized volume could be written if one were to gather together the history which lies along the course of this old Indian thoroughfare. It would be a deeply thrilling tale. In it would be mingled the good and the bad of both Indian and white life. Horrible cruelty would there be pictured, and over against this dark background would be the fairer pictures of self-sacrifice, and daring, and heroic endeavor. It would be a panorama full worth looking at, that passing show of days which, like the Great Trail, have vanished before the coming of new and better times.

"No, sir," said the conductor.

"Then will you please tell the porter to fold it up so I can have a little more air?"

"Because, sir, that would be giving you more air than you have paid for, and you can see for yourself that we can't do business on that principle."—Chicago Tribune.

His Revenge.

She—Never! But pray don't go and blow your brains out.

"He was," replied Mrs. Bunting, "but in an evil hour he bought an automobile."—Life.

Children and the "Great White Plague."

Prof. Hoff's Cure for Consumption Saves Many Young Lives.

To see the young and trustful—the children in whose breasts have just begun to blossom hopes of useful lives and a faint glimmering of life's perplexing problems—begin to wither under the touch of the great white plague is the most pitiful thing that comes to parents.

A little girl in Lowell, Mass., was given up to die.

On her cheek was the red spot that has always been looked upon as the seal of the consumptive's fate.

The child's doctor said that no medicine yet devised by man could benefit her. The mother must patiently await the end, each day adding its weight to her heart's burden.

But the newspapers going into Lowell told of the discovery made in Vienna. They told of the wonderful cure of Frederick Hammann, the celebrated New York consumptive who was sent to Vienna at the expense of the New York American and Journal, and was cured by Prof. Hoff.

And now that same mother tells of another cure:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Kindly send me two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Consumption Cure. Our little girl is now cured, while last May our doctor said no medicine could help her and that she would live only a short while. We have had it now six months, and the doctor now says that her lungs are all right. I am also getting the medicine for catarrh, and hope to be as successful in curing it as we were with consumption. MRS. W. ENGLAND, 256 Hale st., Lowell, Mass.

It is the growing prevalence of consumption among children that has made thinking persons believe more than ever that it was not a part of the great scheme of creation to have this dreadful disease placed on earth to strike indiscriminately among the young and the old, without a cure being placed within easy reach, if man could but discover it.

In some cases from one to three bottles have checked the malady. Of course, cures are not to be expected so shortly every time. This gentleman has used but two:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
I have used two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Cure and I cannot express my gratitude for it. It certainly is a wonder. A. M. KREPP, Fairmount, S. C.

How bronchitis may draw down your weight and vitality and how Hoff's cure will build both up in a short season are here shown:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Please send me one bottle of Prof. Hoff's Cure for Bronchitis. I commenced taking it in October; at the time weighed 97 pounds, now I weigh 107½. WILHELMINA SPATH, 1225½ N. Missouri Ave., Atlantic City, N. J.

Another symptom of returning health, when the Hoff Cure begins its work, is the recovery of the appetite promptly:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Enclosed find $1.00, for which please send me one bottle of Prof. Hoff's Cure. The one bottle I have taken has done me a world of good, and I have a splendid appetite, weigh more and am benefited in every way. MILTON SILANCE, Milburn, N. Y.

Some people go to New Mexico hoping the climate may cure them. Read this:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Please send me two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Consumption Cure BY FIRST MAIL. It is doing me worlds of good, and greatly benefiting me. E. G. C. DUVAL, Agent A., T. & S. F. R. R., Glorietta, N. M.

Any general practitioner can recognize that feeling of weariness and languor, sensitiveness to cold and exertion, which are the forerunners of the first stages of consumption It is at this stage that Professor Hoff's treatment gives immediate results. Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, and the various forms of Catarrh require but a few weeks' treatment.

In the second and third stages, where the foregoing symptoms are accompanied by night sweats, chills, fever, hemorrhages, loss of flesh and swelling of legs and feet, and in the case of women, especially young girls blossoming into womanhood, the interruption of womanly functions, the remedy produces the same beneficial results, and in all cases a marked and decided improvement is immediately noticed.

In a few days the fever, as well as the insomnia, disappears, and increase of weight is the most conspicuous sign of improvement. Cure upon cure of cases pronounced hopeless are daily reported, and physicians and sanitariums throughout the country have discarded creosote and adopted this treatment.

Asthma and bronchial affections—even severe coughs—are cured as effectually by the remedy as is consumption. Sometimes, when the diagnosis has not fully established the nature of the disease, the Hoff Cure has successfully diagnosed it by working a cure.

Professor Hoff desires his cure to be in the hands of every sufferer. It is humanity's medicine. The presription is compounded in accordance with Prof. Hoff's directions and sent out by the American Bureau at Third Avenue and 10th Street, New York, at $1.00 per bottle. For greater convenience the remedy may be had at the same price from the well and favorably known firm mentioned below.

The triangular trade mark of the American Bureau of Professor Hoff's Cure must be on the label, and this is the guarantee to the purchaser that it is the exact prescription used by Prof. Hoff at Vienna.

A 64-page book, containing complete descriptive treatise on the Professor Hoff Cure, and accurate reports of several hundred cases, is mailed free on application or may be obtained by calling at these well known druggists'.

IMPORTANT.—Other Hoff cures not bearing this triangular trade mark are not the authentic preparation authorized by the American Bureau.
You can obtain the genuine Hoff Cure at most drug stores. The great body of honorable druggists do not stoop to substitution by selling something "just as good" that means more profit to them. The genuine Hoff cure can always be procured of the well-known druggists.

MISS MONIE BOWEY,

No. 38 Perry Street, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

Miss Monie Bowey.

A couple of winters ago I slipped on a frozen sidewalk and fell flat on my back. On being examined I found that I had sustained internal injuries which laid me up for more than two months. After that I noticed that I had pains in the back and groin which I never had before. I doctored and doctored for several months but as the pains increased instead of growing better I decided that I was not having the right treatment. Reading in the papers of the wonderful cures performed by Wine of Cardui I wrote to one of the parties and received a very satisfactory reply and I immediately sent for some. In a very short time I felt generally better and after seven weeks faithful use I was once more well and strong. I have never had a sick hour since and I daily bless your splendid medicine.

MONIE BOWEY.

WINE OF CARDUI is one medicine that should always be kept on hand in every home for immediate use when female weakness first makes its appearance. Miss Bowey's painful and dangerous accident would not have resulted so seriously had she taken Wine of Cardui promptly.

Wine of Cardui makes women more womanly by curing their weakness and making them stronger. Wine of Cardui cured Miss Bowey. As a medicine for all women in every trying period of their lives can you think of a better medicine for yourself, your sister, your daughter or your mother? Can you think of a more acceptable present to give your friend than a bottle of this medicine which will bring her health and happiness? You are suffering? Your duty is to rid yourself of this pain. If your daughter, mother, sister or friend is sick and in need of relief, your duty is equally great to them. Many women, now well, owe their lives to friends who brought them Wine of Cardui.

Wine of Cardui is adapted to women at any age in any walk of life. For the working woman it gives her strength for her tasks and better treatment than a doctor for very small cost.

Your druggist will sell you a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. Secure the medicine today. Take it in the privacy of your home. Relief will come to you as surely as you take it.

WINE of CARDUI A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

PRETTY PREDICAMENT

Dallying of Extra Session May Prove Embarrassing to the President.

PENDING APPOINTMENTS IN PERIL

Situation Without Precedent in Senate—Neither Body Cares to Take Initiative—Duration of Recess May Not Permit of Appointments.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Unless there is an agreement by both houses of congress to adjourn the present session before noon Monday, when the regular session begins, all nominations must fall, and if the present special session ends by limitation, thus preventing the president from sending recess appointments to the senate, all pending appointments must end with the closing of congress. Friends of General Wood are vitally interested and will try to bring about adjournment by concurrent action. Failure of action would mean General Wood's reversion to the rank of brigadier general and have similar effect on the appointments of 167 army officers, advanced by reason of General Wood's promotion, all of whom have assumed the ranks and pay of their new appointments in the same manner as though their nominations had been confirmed by the senate.

War Department Alarmed.

The situation also has been canvassed at the war department and considerable alarm is felt over the dissatisfaction which will occur among the late promotions and those whose promotion are to follow. In view of this situation it is possible that the administration will suggest sine die adjournment.

The situation is said to be without precedent in the senate. It had been argued in the senate that if the nomination of Wood failed of confirmation through the failure of the senate committee on military affairs to complete its hearing of charges against confirmation, or for other cause, that the nomination would be again sent to the senate for action at the regular session. This program was suggested on the theory that nominations and recess appointments have the same effect. An examination of the rules, however, discloses that a nomination does not carry authority for the president to clothe the nominee with rank and pay of the office to which he is appointed. In the case of recess appointment the appointee is given the rank and pay of the position for which he is named, but under the constitution the commission continues until the end of the next session of the senate. The last paragraph of section 2, article 2, of the legislature of the United States is as follows:

Power of President.

"The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session."

It is argued by senators who have given serious thought to the questions involved that inasmuch as "the congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meetings shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day" (article 1, last paragraph of section 4), that a recess must occur between the termination of the present extra session and the beginning of the next session in order to relieve the embarrassment resultant on failure to confirm the army nominations referred to. The merging of the special session into the regular session would only leave an infinite small recess and not sufficient, it is feared, for recess appointments to be made.

Both the senate and the house will be in session today, but from present appearances neither body cares to take the initiative, and the outcome is uncertain.

The senate committee on military affairs will convene Monday at 11 o'clock to resume its hearing of the Wood case. If the hearing should continue until one minute after 12 o'clock the committee would be in the unique situation of investigating a matter which was not pending before the senate.

Industrial War in Illinois.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Industrial war, long expected, has broken out in the Fox river valley in northern Illinois. Manufacturers at Batavia, Aurora, Elgin, St. Charles and Geneva have organized and have decided to increase the hours of labor from nine to 10. The first notice was served by manufacturers at Batavia and gun machinists quit work. The wage earners are united and will resist this attempt to add to the hours of labor without increase of pay. The industries likely to be affected include many lines from windmills to shirts. The manufacturers in the organization emlpoy, it is stated, 10,000 wage earners.

Boat Saved by Heroic Seaman.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 5.—The naval tug Peoria, towing the submarine torpedo boat Adder, has arrived at the navy yard here. The Adder was saved by the heroism of a boatswain, who responded to a call for volunteers and swam 100 yards with a line to the Adder from the tug and pulled a hawser after him. The Moccasin is ashore at Currituck and appears to be only slightly damaged. The Adder is leaking badly.

WANT RECEIVERS DISMISSED.

Creditors Declare Dowie Is Solvent—Claims Small Compared to Assets.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Stronger proof of the fact that all John Alexander Dowie's creditors are not a unit in the desire to have his estate administered by the bankruptcy court is given. Seven ceditors representing claims of more than $10,000 filed an answer in the United States district court in which they asked Judge Kohlsaat to inquire into the question of Dowie's solvency at once. They denied that the head of Zion City is insolvent or that he was in that condition when the bankruptcy proceedings were begun against him, and they also averred that Dowie should not be declared bankrupt for any cause set forth in the original petition.

Attorney Frank Helmer, who represents clients having claims of about $100,000 against Dowie, said:

"Several of our clients have been doing business with Dowie for a long time and have always been paid what was due them. They believe full payment would be made them without the receivership of the federal court, because they do not think Dowie is insolvent. The receivership, in our opinion, is unnecessary, and without it Dowie would be able to pay 100 cents for every dollar of his indebtedness and have much money left. For this reason we want to have the costly bankruptcy proceedings dismissed.

"As nearly as I can determine from an examination of Dowie's accounts, he has assets worth at least $10,000,000, while the claims against him do not exceed $400,000. If such is the case it is wrong to continue the receivership."

Thieves Fatally Beat Pawnbroker.

Canton, O., Dec. 5.—John Miller was fatally injured by robbers in his place of business. With his skull fractured in five or six places and his face crushed doctors say he cannot survive. Miller conducted a second-hand store and pawnbrokerage office on a side street near the business center of the city. He was alone when two young men sneaked into the store and beat him over the head with a piece of gaspipe until he was unconscious. Money was taken from his pockets. His wife says the amount was $40. Watches and jewelry were also taken. Miller is about 60 years old.

Wanted to Paper Senate Chamber.

New York, Dec. 5.—An attendant of the government hospital for the insane at Washington took to Bellevue hospital Arthur S. Pulsifer, a paperhanger and decorator, and asked that he be placed in the pyschopathic ward for observation. Pulsifer is the man who recently went to Washington and demanded to see the president. He had with him a roll of wall paper and said that he wished to get permission to paper the walls of the senate chamber. He was taken into custody and confined in the government hospital for the insane. Being a resident of New York he was brought here.

Roosevelt and Hanna Confer.

Washington, Dec. 5. — President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna had a conference of several hours' duration at the White House, at which the Panama canal situation and important legislation to come before congress was discussed, with incidental references to the case of General Leonard Wood and the chairmanship of the Republican national committee. Senator Hanna would say nothing as to the conference. His acceptance of the management of the next Republican campaign will depend upon his health Treaty Ready for Shipment.

Panama, Dec. 5.—Wrapped in the flags of the United States and Panama the canal treaty was officially delivered into the hands of United States Consul General Gudger. The transfer took place at the palace in the presence of the members of the junta, the ministers of the republic, United States Vice Consul Ehrman and other prominent persons. From the palace the chest containing the treaty was carried by two policemen to the consulate general, where it will be kept until shipped to the United States.

Dinner to Former Business Associates.

New York, Dec. 5.—A dinner was given at his home by Andrew Carnegie to 43 men who were formerly associated with him in the Carnegie Steel company. Some of those present were Charles M. Schwab, W. E. Corey, John E. McLeod, George E. McCague, F. T. F. Lovejoy, W. R. Blasinger, W. N. Frew, Alexander Peacock, A. C. Dinkey, L. T. Brown, James Gayley, H. P. Bope and J. H. Reed.

Congressman Burk at Death's Door.

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—Congressman Henry Burk, who has been seriously ill for a year, is unconscious at his home here and is not expected to live 48 hours. Since September he has been confined to his house and there has been little hope of recovery for the last few months. His illness is an affection of the heart, complicated by other ailments.

Shamrock I. to Be Sold for Junk.

New York, Dec. 5.—The yacht Shamrock I., the first vessel of that name sent by Sir Thomas Lipton to sail for the America's cup, was hauled out on the marine railway at City Island and now lies high and dry alongside her old rival, the Columbia. The work of breaking Shamrock I. up to be sold for old metal will begin Monday.

Counterfeiters Arrested.

Boston, Dec. 5.—Three men were arrested in a counterfeiting raid in which a complete paraphernalia was seized. There was sufficient paper on hand to print $1,000,000 in money.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

Why the Tortoise Won

Did you ever hear the true story of the race between the hare and the tortoise? Old Brother Terrapin told it to me one day as I lay on my back in the grass by the pond.

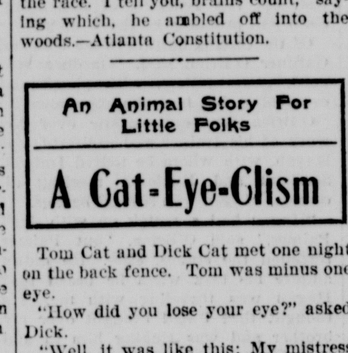
"Never heard the real truth of that victory of mine, did you?" he squeaked as he crawled up to me.

"No, never," said I. "How was it?"

"Well, he laughed, "you see, they always supposed that I won that race by keeping on plodding along at my usual gait while old man Rabbit frisked around and fooled and wasted his time 'showing off' before the spectators.

"But it was nothing of that sort. Let me tell you at the start that all the plodding in the world without a little thought and common sense will never win anything.

"You see, I had a little bone to pick with that 'yaller' dog of Bill Sikes' 'cause one day when I was asleep he turned me over on my back, and I didn't get my footing for two days and was nearly starved, to say nothing of the worry brought on the old lady and the children. So when Mr. Rabbit and



HE GAVE A YELL OF TERROR.

I started on that race that you've read of I knew at the start that I had no chance to win without some little game. Just then along comes Bill Sikes' 'yaller' dog.

"'Mornin',' says he. 'Nice day for the race.'

"'Yes,' says I, and if you want to see the start sit right down where you are, and you'll see a great show.'

"So down he sat on his yaller tail and opened his yaller jaws and let his red tongue hang out. 'One, two, three, go!' says the starter, and just then I saw my chance and grabbed Mr. Dog's tail between my jaws. He gave one yell of terror and surprise and set off through the woods toward the goal at lightning speed, pulling me through the air after him. My, but we did fly! And when we got near the goal I let go and walked the rest. Mr. Dog was so scared he ran on home. Served him right for turning me over. But I won the race. I tell you, brains count," saying which, he ambled off into the woods.—Atlanta Constitution.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

A Cat-Eye-Clism

Tom Cat and Dick Cat met one night on the back fence. Tom was minus one eye.

"How did you lose your eye?" asked Dick.

"Well, it was like this: My mistress was coming home on the train from the seashore and got a cinder in her eye. It bothered her so that the doctor was called in. He said it was a serious case and they would have to take out her eye and look for the cinder. He put it on a table and began to hunt. I came in just then, hungry as usual, for they don't half feed me, and saw the eye, thought it was good to eat and swallowed it."

"Oh!" said Dick. "Then you had three eyes."

"Yes, but listen. The doctor saw what I had done, said he would have to get an eye from me to take the place of the other I had inside and gave chase with a big knife. He caught me, took out my eye and put it in the mistress. That leaves me, you see, with only this one."

"Yes," said Dick. "But you've got two all the same."

"But how can I use the one I swallowed?" asked Tom sadly.

"But, say," asked Dick quickly, as the new thought struck him, "how did the mistress get along with your lonely orb?"

"Oh, pretty well, except that when one of her eyes is in bed asleep the other is down cellar with me hunting rats."

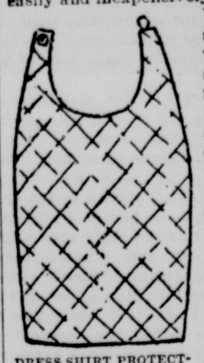
"Terrible!" said Dick.

"Yes. Doctors ought to be more careful," replied Tom.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

PRESENTS FOR MEN.

Dress Shirt Protector—Knitted Waistcoat—Other Suggestions.

A dress shirt protector is a most useful present for a man and is quite easily and inexpensively made at home.



DRESS SHIRT PROTECTOR.

You will require some quilted white satin for a lining (the ready quilted material is best) and some thick corded black silk. Cut to a length of thirteen and a half inches, width ten and a half inches, the shape shown in the sketch, and make the collar band the size of the wearer's neck. The materials are placed together and the edges neatly oversewed, the black silk being worn, of course, on the outside. The collar band should be lined with white glace silk, as the satin will be a little thick, and a pearl button and a loop added. It is so difficult to make anything that a man will really use, but beyond a doubt the majority of the masculine sex will appreciate the dress shirt protector.

Tobacco pouches are never amiss as presents for men, and embroidered slippers are useful, but a smoking cap is not popular nowadays, unless, indeed, grandfather is to be the recipient.

Still, anything that loving fingers have labored over cannot fail to give satisfaction, and the following directions for making a knitted waistcoat and tie may prove useful: To knit the waistcoat double Berlin wool and two steel needles to match are necessary. Cast on seventy stitches. Knit one purl, one plain, but be sure you plain your plain stitch and purl your purl stitch in next row, and so on all the way up. Every two inches cast off four stitches about five stitches from the front, and next row cast on the four stitches again to form buttonhole. When two finger lengths are knitted, cast off twenty stitches. Knit ten more rows and on the side where you cast off stitches let out one stitch every second row and at the other side take in one stitch every second row, till neck and armhole are long enough, and cast off on shoulder. Knit other side the same, omitting the buttonholes. This is an ordinary sized vest. It ought to be sent to a tailor to be made up.

For the tie a very simple and yet very effective style is to knit it in one purl and one plain alternately. In each succeeding row purl the one you purled previously and plain the one you plained. Cast on forty stitches, and knit the length required.

WRITING BOARD.

A Gift That Is Easily Made and Very Useful.

A writing board is always an acceptable present and is quite easy and inexpensive to make. Procure a piece of light board measuring about 22 by 14 inches and cover it with a thin art serge in any color you prefer, taking care to stretch the material to insure a perfectly smooth, tight surface. Next, at a harness maker's, get some thin tan colored leather if smartness be desired, but if economy must be studied substitute art serge for leather.

In the center is the blotting pad, each corner of which is slipped in triangular pieces of leather tacked neatly down with small copper or brass headed nails. Directly above the pad is a band of leather divided into compartments to hold paper knife, penholder, pencil, penknife and sealing wax. Next it is a cloth penwiper and under this a scribbling tablet, also slipped under a piece of leather. On the right of the blotting pad a small leather inkstand must be firmly glued, and on each side of the pad are shaped leather pockets to hold note paper, envelopes, letter cards, telegraph forms and the like. In the left hand corner a small framelike arrangement is cut from the leather and a calendar slipped in.

WRITING BOARD.

Care must be taken to do the nailing evenly wherever it occurs, and you will have quite a smart effect, whereas any irregularity will quite spoil the whole. A pretty finish is to paint the owner's initials on the leather compartments, and for this use oil paints.

One can imagine no more useful gift for an invalid or indeed for any one. The cost is quite trifling and the making quite an easy task.

Nice Gifts For Girls.

A Christmas present of a bookshelf filled with books for a nine-year-old girl is a capital idea. Among the old favorites should be "Timothy's Quest" and "Polly Oliver's Problem," by Kate Douglas Wiggin; "Sara Crewe," by Frances Hodgson Burnett; "Hans Andersen's Fairy Tales," "Alice In Wonderland," "Little Women," by Louisa May Alcott; "Water Babies," by Charles Kingsley; "The Tales of a Grandfather," by Sir Walter Scott; "The Jungle Books," by Rudyard Kipling; "Tanglewood Tales," by Nathaniel Hawthorne, and "Leslie Goldthwaite," by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney.

Mothers and Daughters

Every woman who has a grown daughter knows well the worry and anxiety which always comes at that period of life when girlhood merges into womanhood. Upon a girl's condition at this time depends her future health, strength and happiness. Too much care can not be taken to see that she passes through this period safely.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA

Herb Tea

is of the greatest assistance to nature in bringing about the change which takes place, without disarranging the natural functions of the system. It is a strengthening tonic. It will keep the roses in a girl's cheeks and prevent that tendency to decline which so often endangers her life at this critical point in development.

This Herb Tea is likewise of corresponding value and assistance to matrons and mothers at the end of this period. Its use will at this time prevent endless pain and worry. A woman will enter the evening of life with scarcely the knowledge that the change has occurred. Many are the thankful women who know the value of Aunt Dinah's Old Virginia Herb Tea and are grateful for the benefits derived from its use.

Sporting World Review

Heatherbloom and His Jumping Prowess. Facts About High Baseball Salaries. August Belmont Will Race Horses Here and In England.

Heatherbloom, the brown gelding belonging to Howard Willetts of White Plains, N. Y., is still secure in his position as the high jump record holder. He has held the record for several years now, as no other jumper has been able to touch his high mark.

The present record of seven feet nine inches, which beats his previous record by one inch, was established at the Bryn Mawr (Pa.) horse show at the fourth attempt. He was ridden by Richard Donnelly, his trainer and the only man who can make him jump.

Mr. Willetts claims Heatherbloom is a qualified hanter, but since he has shown ability at the high jump he has been reserved for the show ring. He is a half breed, and, according to Trainer Donnelly, his sire is Simplan.

Credit for Heatherbloom's good showing over the jumps must be given to Donnelly. Donnelly was at one time a steeplechase jockey, but he did not make a great success in cross country events. He has developed most of the really successful high jumpers that have shown in recent years since he took up that sport.

Donnelly has no notion of fear when training a horse for high jumping, even though work of this sort is as dangerous as juggling dynamite bombs.

Doubtless Ban Johnson, president of the American league, was as solicitous as any one for a peace arrangement with the National league, as salaries had advanced to such a degree that it was almost impossible for his organization to pay them and live. Manager Collins of the Boston American team, who received $2,400 under the Boston National league club, was signed at $3,500 by the American leaguers, was voluntarily advanced to $5,000 and afterward asked for $7,500 and received $6,500.

"Chick" Stahl was another $2,400 man under the Boston National league regime and got a good raise when he signed with Charley Somers, and his "request" for a further raise at the beginning of the season of 1902 was duly honored. Cy Young got a good raise on the figure he had received from the St. Louis team and subsequently got another advance. Boston, therefore, had one of the highest salary lists in the country. Besides, the owner of the club, Mr. Killilea, spent money unstintedly to keep the team strong.

Pittsburg went even further than Boston in the salary matter. Barney Dreyfuss was contenting himself with the idea that the players of his team would not be approached by the other side, when an inroad was attempted in good earnest, with the result that Tannehill and Chesbro, two of his star players, were weaned from him; O'Connor, his catcher; "Lefty" Davis and Conroy. As soon as he found out that O'Connor had been secured and was doing missionary work among other players of the team the catcher was cast adrift. Dreyfuss induced Leach and Bransfield to remain true to him and succeeded in keeping Wagner in line. Hearing that the American league was desirous of securing grounds in Pittsburg, he got the options on two grounds, all that were available.

Boston was partly successful in its attempt to retain its players. It took big money to induce Dineen and Willis to remain with the team instead of going—the former to the Boston Americans and the latter to the Athletics. Dineen stuck to the Boston National team for a year, and then over he went.

The attempt of Philadelphia to hold Lajoie, Bernhardt and others is still fresh in the memory of the baseball fan. Wolverton Fraser decided to go back, while Delehanty and Orth were compelled to do a lot of dodging last year to steer clear of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania. Delehanty wavered when he needed the money, but the peace agreement knocked his plans in the head, as it did those of George Davis, and these were two players who did not obtain what they were after.

Ned Hanlon is credited with the receipt of the best stipend of any manager, and he receives $10,000 per annum. Next to him is Donovan of St. Louis, and then comes Collins. Frank Selee received more money the past season than ever before in his career.

It took extravagant figures to secure Tannehill and Chesbro of the Pittsburgs for the New York American team. Another player who received at least $6,000 was Willie Keeler. Dave Foutz received fully $5,000 last season, although he was available but one-third of the time.

It has been stated as a matter of reproach to the American leader that the pennant has landed in a different city in each of the three years in which his organization has comprised eastern cities, and it is predicted that another city will land it in accordance with a programme for 1904. Doubtless Mr. Johnson would like to see New York land first next season, for any leader of a baseball organization naturally wants to see that happen which is best for it. Certainly a race should be made as hot as possible. The outlook is for a club in New York in 1904 that will make all of the others hustle for the supremacy. Almost every club in the league will be strengthened.

August Belmont's colors will be seen on the turf next season. He will race thoroughbreds in this country and in England.

When the multimillionaire banker and chairman of the Jockey club announced recently that he would sell his race horses and yearlings at auction it caused a mild sensation in turf circles. Many were the opinions advanced for this move. Mr. Belmont said that his various business interests prevented him from giving the stable the close attention that he would like to, but trainers said that the real cause for his retirement was due to the fact that he was dissatisfied with the poor showing of his horses this year. It was an open secret that he was dissatisfied with Trainer Hyland.

Mr. Belmont will return to the turf next year. He will race four horses—Magistrate, Mizzen, Lord of the Vale and another colt. Johnny Hyland, his former trainer, will not have charge of the horses. Instead J. Whalen, who has looked after a number of his yearlings and developed the speed of the "second string" for Mr. Belmont for several years, would be the new man at the stable head.

J. Watson is the English trainer who will have charge of Mr. Belmont's American bred horses. There are now four youngsters in his charge which will be shipped abroad by Mr. Belmont. These youngsters, which will be two years old next year, consist of colts and fillies. They are well engaged in the important stakes. It is said that the English stable will be re-enforced by several additional American bred youngsters from his Nursery Stud farm in Kentucky.

Jockey John Bullman is under contract to ride for Mr. Belmont. It has not been definitely decided whether Bullman will pilot Mr. Belmont's thoroughbreds in this country or in England. It would not be a matter of surprise if the jockey was sent abroad.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Greedy Rooster

"My goodness, uncle, have you eaten all the corn in the barnyard?" asked young Mr. Rooster of old Mr. Rooster the other day.

And good cause he had for asking, too, for the old gentleman's craw stuck out in front of him like the breast of a pouter pigeon.

"No, I haven't eaten all," replied old Mr. Rooster, "but I have eaten a great deal. You see, I learned today that our master was going away tomorrow and that he was going to stay a whole week. He decided to leave each of the barnyard fowls a certain amount of corn, which is to last us until he returns. I have simply eaten all of mine at once and will not have to eat any more until he comes back."

"Well, I think I shall eat mine in daily portions," declared the nephew.

"You had better do as I have done," answered the uncle.

But the young rooster did not think this was a wise plan.

The old fellow spent a very uncomfortable day, for he was too full to be able to enjoy basking in the sun and taking his usual exercise.

"HAVE YOU EATEN ALL THE CORN?"

And, would you believe it, the next day he was as hungry as he would have been had he eaten only a regular meal on the previous day.

When the nephew and the other barnyard fowls were eating their meals the uncle stood afar off and gazed longingly at their corn.

And the next day he gazed more covetously. And the next day he just could not stand it any longer. Bursting into tears, he begged his nephew for some corn. Well, they all pitched in and made up a good square meal for the old fellow out of their daily allowance, and they did the same thing each day until the master of the barnyard returned.

"I've learned a valuable lesson," said the old rooster.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Glassmaking In Japan.

The art of making glass was introduced into Japan about 150 years ago by a Hollander, who settled at Osaka. For several generations the knowledge of the process was confined to a single family, and it was not until about 1879 that the employment of coal instead of charcoal and the construction of brick chimneys enabled the manufacturers to introduce improvements which placed the industry on a substantial basis. Osaka has continued to be the center of the industry and now manufactures for export besides supplying the home demand.

An English Borough.

In the days of "rotten boroughs" in England that of Gatton Park is said to have been the worst. It had only one qualified voter, and yet it returned two members of parliament. Of course with this right the property was very valuable, and in 1830 it was purchased by Lord Monson for $500,000. Two years later it was disfranchised.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children, for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. HISTORY OF THE GREAT TRAIL

One of the Important Highways Used by Pioneers in Early Colonial Days.

TRUNK LINE OF INDIAN TRAVEL

Started at Forks of Ohio and Had Western Terminus at Fort and Village of Detroit.

[Copyright 1903 by American Press Association.]

Prominent among the many leading highways of Indian travel which the early pioneers found and followed was that one which was very generally known as the Great Trail. It was so called because it led from one important center to another and was a trunk line of Indian travel, so to speak.

Its starting point was at the junction point of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, commonly called the forks of the Ohio. From this place, so prominently connected with the early history of this region of country, this trail, crossing the mouth of the Allegheny, led right through what is now the heart of Allegheny City, and followed the right bank of the Ohio river to the mouth of the Beaver river, then known as the Big Beaver creek. In following the Ohio during this first stretch of its course, this trail never got far away from the water's edge.

As Indian trails always did, it wound about here and there like a snake, that it might keep on the dryest and solidest ground, but this whole way it kept close to the stream. On reaching the mouth of the Beaver it struck right straight across that river and found its way on the western side as quickly and directly as possible to a watershed which ran in a generally westerly direction. Taking this upland ridge, it followed it closely to a point near the present town of Bolivar.

The next general course was toward the site of the present city of Wooster, on through Fremont, and so on to the northwestern corner of the present state of Ohio. It crossed the famous River Raisin and came to its western terminus at the fort and village of Detroit.

Running as it did from the forks of the Ohio to the straits of the lakes, its vital importance can at once be realized, for these were in those days, as now, two of the most center points in the country.

In the Indian life conditions were sufficiently similar to those which obtain in the white man's social structure to make the same locations in large measure valuable to him as are now found most desirable by us. Hence the Great Trail had important termini and rose to a corresponding place of pre-eminence among the roads of the Indians. It was early seized upon by the incoming whites and soon became a road much frequented by the early hunters and traders. The tide of settlement also followed along its course.

When the white men's government found it necessary to smite in punishment the Indian tribes who came in along the Great Trail on their errands of murder and rapine, it sent its first feeble armies out along that familiar highway, and when, in his fancied place of security in the Ohio forests the bloody handed warrior heard the sound of drum and trumpet and the tramping of many booted feet along the trail, he began for the first time to realize that his fight was lost and that his people must move onward further into the forests.

A good-sized volume could be written if one were to gather together the history which lies along the course of this old Indian thoroughfare. It would be a deeply thrilling tale. In it would be mingled the good and the bad of both Indian and white life. Horrible cruelty would there be pictured, and over against this dark background would be the fairer pictures of self-sacrifice, and daring, and heroic endeavor. It would be a panorama full worth looking at, that passing show of days which, like the Great Trail, have vanished before the coming of new and better times.

C. L. SMITH.

Not Businesslike.

"Has anybody engaged this berth above me?" asked the passenger in the sleeping car.

"No, sir," said the conductor.

"Then wil you please tell the porter to fold it up so I can have a little more air?"

"Certainly not, sir."

"Why not?"

"Because, sir, that would be giving you more air than you have paid for, and you can see for yourself that we can't do business on that principle."—Chicago Tribune.

His Revenge.

He—And so your answer is final. You will not be mine?

She—Never! But pray don't go and blow your brains out.

He—It would be an idle attempt. People say if I had any brains I never should have proposed to you.—Tit Bits.

Fallen from Grace.

"Is your husband a religious man?" asked Mrs. Skidmore of Mrs. Bunting.

"He was," replied Mrs. Bunting, "but in an evil hour he bought an automobile."—Life.

AGED INDIAN ASSASSINATED

Two Vicious White Men Are Guilty of the Murder of a Harmless Delaware.

LAWLESS MEN GO UNPUNISHED

Just previous to the opening of the Revolutionary war a most despicable and causeless crime was committed in the vicinity of Johnstown, Pa., which might have given great trouble along the border. Those were days when the millstones of fate were grinding out the destiny of the fated red tribes which had so long lorded it over these noble forest lands. A generation before this time, as the result of the crushing out of Pontiac's great conspiracy, the Delaware Indians had nearly all deserted their old ancestral hunting grounds on the western slope of the Alleghenies and had gone on further westward into what is now Ohio. Here and there some old man remained tied to the familiar haunts by the unbreakable bonds of memory and affection for the graves of his fathers. Here and there, amid the scenes of their childhood plays and mature conquests, these solitary reminders of the former days of glory lingered on until time was no more for them.

One such notable relic of Indian occupation remained behind when the Delawares moved away. His name was Joseph Wipey, sometimes styled John. Wipey was a man of perfectly quiet and inoffensive nature, innocently occupying his time in hunting and fishing, by which simple pursuits he managed to supply his few wants. His home was a small and comparatively rude cabin, which he had constructed on the bank of a small stream to the north side of the Conemaugh river, in what is now the corner of Indiana county lying nearest to the adjoining county of Cambria. Here this harmless old Delaware was content to live out his few remaining years, feeling sure that the coming white men would not be able to drive away all the game and fish in his lifetime.

Year by year the incoming of the whites increased in volume. The stream of immigration surged about him more and more strongly, but Wipey lived on in simple contentment. The nearby settlers soon learned his real character and made him welcome in their cabins. They passed up and down the streams of the Conemaugh valley and spoke kindly to the solitary figure as they passed him on the forest trail or found him sitting in his canoe fishing. Such was the life of this harmless child of nature. From all accounts he seems to have been honorable and moral in all his ways.

But such was not the nature of all the whites who came crowding and jostling into the old hunting grounds of the Delawares. It is a great misfortune that the advancing van of white civilization always carries on its crest its most vicious elements. This was the case in those years of settlement west of the mountains. There were many desperate and cruel men in the coming crowds, and they were able to do evil and shameful deeds in those early years with but slight fear of punishment.

Wipey's cabin was located on or very near to the land taken up by George Findlay, who was the first white settler in the region, lying immediately to the north of the Conemaugh river. Here the solitary Indian lived in peace till he was foully murdered by two bitter Indian haters. Their names were John Hinkson, or Hinckston, and James Cooper. The Indian was at the time of the attack fishing from a canoe just by the mouth of Hinckston's run, a stream which empties into the Conemaugh in what is now the Fourteenth ward of the city of Johnstown. The murder was cruelly and cowardly done, and aroused great fear of what might be done in revenge for it by the Delaware bands west of the Allegheny river. Fortunately there is extant contemporary documentary testimony as to the effect of this heinous crime. In a letter to Governor Penn, written at Ligonier on May 29, 1774, Colonel Arthur St. Clair says:

"An affair that has given me much trouble and vexation had liked to have escaped my memory, the murder of a Delaware Indian, Joseph Wipey, about 25 miles from this place. It is the most astonishing thing in the world, the disposition of the common people of this community. Actuated by the most savage cruelty, they wantonly perpetrate crimes that are a disgrace to humanity, and seem at the same time to be under a kind of religious enthusiasm, whilst they want the daring spirit that usually inspires. Two of the persons concerned in the murder are John Hinkson and James Cooper. I had got information of their design some time before they executed it and had wrote to Hinkson, whom I know to be a leader amongst them, to dissuade them, and threatened them with the weight of the law if they persisted, but so far from preventing them it only produced the inclosed letter. The body was discovered hid in a small run of water and covered with stones. I immediately sent for the coroner, but before he had got a jury together the body was removed, so that no inquest could be taken. I have issued warrants, but they are so much on their guard I doubt they cannot be executed. Your honor will please to consider whether it may be proper to proclaim them. It is most unlucky at this time; the letter may perhaps be made use of as evidence."

Just what this letter was cannot now be known, for it does not appear that Governor Penn preserved it, or, if he did, it has since been lost. The words of St. Clair show that there was a lawless spirit abroad in the settlement and that the man who planned and executed this cowardly crime did not entertain any very great amount of fear of punishment. Indeed, along during the next July, they visited Hannastown, the place of holding court, and practically defied the authorities to arrest the murderers. They came in an armed body, about 18 in number, and though they were present openly and boldly, and the whole legal machinery of Westmoreland county was in full operation, they were not harmed, but were suffered to depart when and how they pleased. There was sufficient force present to have taken them, but the attempt was not made.

The murder of Wipey was an unusually noted crime, because it brought fear of trouble along the entire Pennsylvania frontier. It became a public matter, and on July 20 the legislature passed a resolution, which we quote in full because of its great interest:

"Resolved, that the house will make provisions for paying the reward of £100 to any person who shall apprehend James Cooper and John Hinkson, who, it is said, have barbarously murdered an Indian on the frontiers of this province, and deliver them into the custody of the keeper of the gaol, within either of the counties of Lancaster, York or Cumberland, or the sum of £50 for either of them."

Printed copies of this proclamation were scattered throughout Westmoreland county, but no arrests followed. This seems to have been a case in which organized and lawful government was yet too weak to cope with and crush out the spirit of desperate lawlessness which was yet prevalent along the frontier. The simple and harmless career of Wipey was thus cruelly brought to an end, but human justice never exacted reparation at the hands of the murderers. The stain of their base crime yet remains in the Conemaugh valley.

A FAITHFUL CHIEFTAIN.

Remains of Noted Shawanese Taken from Pittsburg Burial Ground.

[Copyright 1903 by American Press Association.]

The removal of the old First Presbyterian church, Pittsburg, from its ancient site on Wood street to make room for a big business building makes necessary the abandonment of the historic old graveyard which has been for so many generations one of the quaintest sites of the city. Its removal draws attention to one very interesting grave dating from the century before the last. In the portion of the churchyard over by the Trinity church stands an old and much defaced headstone. If its inscription were restored it would read:

"Mio-Qua-Coo-Ua-Caw, or Red Pole, Principal Village Chief of the Shawanese Nation; Died at Pittsburg the 28th of January, 1797. Lamented by the United States."

The latter part of this inscription was literally true. Red Pole was a noted Shawanese chieftain of the powerful and warlike Shawanese tribe. He was a steadfast friend of the Americans, and in many instances did the frontier settlements an incalculable favor by warning them of approaching attacks on the part of the redskins. These great kindnesses he did because he looked on the presence of the white men as a blessing to the Indians, if the latter should be wise enough to learn the white man's virtues and shun his vices.

Red Pole's prominence and friendliness brought him into great esteem in the country along the upper Ohio valley and he was welcomed heartily wherever he went.

The winter of 1796-7 was an unusually rigorous season. It began early and was long continued. The snows were very deep and the temperature low for long periods. The rivers closed Nov. 23 and did not break up till Feb. 3. During that winter a party of Wyandot and Shawanese braves had made a visit of some importance to Philadelphia. When on their return they reached Pittsburg, Red Pole, who was one of the number, was taken sick with an affection of the lungs, resulting from the exposures of the perilous journey. Every care was given the sick man. Dr. Bedford, a leading physician of the infant city, and Dr. Carmichael, an army surgeon, attended him assiduously, but after lying with much suffering for six weeks the chief died. There was a ceremonious funeral and the burial was in the old ground now being disturbed. White and red men alike joined in doing honor to the memory of the one who had been a good friend to both.

And thus, in the heart of the town which has since grown to be the greatest industrial center in the world, the old Shawanese chief has slumbered on, all unconscious of the growth at his very side of a civilization the possibilities of which were but little appreciated in his day. C. L. SMITH.

O'Brien's Ambition

"Philadelphia Jack" Wants to Fight Ryan or Fitzsimmons.

Wearing a broad brimmed English beaver, "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien recently walked down the gangplank of a transatlantic liner at New York with $5,000 in his pockets, the profits of three months' touring of the variety halls and beating the best middle weights old England could put up against him.

O'Brien was looking fine and tanned. "Boxing in England is on the boom," he said, "but it's easy money because the English fighters lack speed."

With O'Brien was Joe Hagan, former amateur champion of Philadelphia, who by his success abroad boxed himself out of the A. A. U. into the ranks of the professionals.

"PHILADELPHIA JACK" O'BRIEN.

Speaking of his success in England, O'Brien said: "I met Charley Haghey of Boston, Jack Mullen and Bill Herron, all of whom I defeated in very quick time, taking respectively three, eight and five rounds to accomplish the jobs.

"One couldn't do better in America than I have done in England in three months. My former weight was 154 pounds, but now 158 pounds is just nice for me to make.

"On my first trip to England, just after Queen Victoria's death, I was away fourteen months and took in $10,000, but had to wait eleven months before I could make a shilling.

"I am anxious to get on a match with Tommy Ryan for the middle weight championship of the world. Several clubs are bidding for the contest, but the Yosemite of San Francisco will probably be the winner."

Of the coming fight between Fitz and Gardner O'Brien said, "Gardner is a good, game fellow, with youth and everything, but he lacks experience."

O'Brien was enthusiastic over the work of his trainer and assistant, Joe Hagan, with whom he toured Ireland, Scotland and England, meeting all comers. Hagan won several battles.

"Hagan had a match on with Jack Palmer," said O'Brien, "but Palmer forfeited the stakes, $250. He didn't admire his task when he heard that Hagan was traveling with me. He thought that I had brought over my brother and was ringing him in and that Hagan could fight as well as I could."

O'Brien returns with his pockets full of keepsakes and souvenirs presented him by English admirers. One sporting enthusiast gave him a pocket compass set in polished coal, while James Lowes, the premier promoter of the world, who is not addicted to reckless generosity, presented him with a beautiful medal and gold watch fob bearing the inscription: "Presented to Jack O'Brien, champion (sic) middle weight of the world, by James Lowes, who admires him for his business ability as well as for his great boxing abilities."

O'Brien has also delivered lectures on physical culture, which caught the English every time. His lectures were illustrated with stereopticon slides, while the boxer himself gave illustrations of his methods and system of posing.

He combated the Sandow theory of largely developed muscles and recommended simpler exercises. He started off by saying that in his opinion, gained by experience, walking and running gave quickness, suppleness and flexibility, greater than could be obtained by heavier exercise. He then quoted President Roosevelt, who as a boy was pale and sickly, as one of the finest examples of all around physical development, which had been secured principally by the lighter open air exercises. "No one now works harder than our president," he said. "The reference to President Roosevelt always brought applause from the English audiences, who agreed with me in nearly all I said."

The Philadelphia fighter wants to fight Fitzsimmons at 158 pounds and will challenge him after Fitz has fought Gardner. In fact, he will fight anybody but Jeffries.

It is most unlucky at this time; the letter may perhaps be made use of as evidence."

Just what this letter was cannot now be known, for it does not appear that Governor Penn preserved it, or, if he did, it has since been lost. The words of St. Clair show that there was a lawless spirit abroad in the settlement and that the man who planned and executed this cowardly crime did not entertain any very great amount of fear of punishment. Indeed, along during the next July, they visited Hannastown, the place of holding court, and practically defied the authorities to arrest the murderers. They came in an armed body, about 18 in number, and though they were present openly and boldly, and the whole legal machinery of Westmoreland county was in full operation, they were not harmed, but were suffered to depart when and how they pleased. There was sufficient force present to have taken them, but the attempt was not made.

The murder of Wipey was an unusually noted crime, because it brought fear of trouble along the entire Pennsylvania frontier. It became a public matter, and on July 20 the legislature passed a resolution, which we quote in full because of its great interest:

"Resolved, that the house will make provisions for paying the reward of £100 to any person who shall apprehend James Cooper and John Hinkson, who, it is said, have barbarously murdered an Indian on the frontiers of this province, and deliver them into the custody of the keeper of the gaol, within either of the counties of Lancaster, York or Cumberland, or the sum of £50 for either of them."

Printed copies of this proclamation were scattered throughout Westmoreland county, but no arrests followed. This seems to have been a case in which organized and lawful government was yet too weak to cope with and crush out the spirit of desperate lawlessness which was yet prevalent along the frontier. The simple and harmless career of Wipey was thus cruelly brought to an end, but human justice never exacted reparation at the hands of the murderers. The stain of their base crime yet remains in the Conemaugh valley.

A FAITHFUL CHIEFTAIN.

Remains of Noted Shawanese Taken from Pittsburg Burial Ground.

[Copyright 1903 by American Press Association.]

The removal of the old First Presbyterian church, Pittsburg, from its ancient site on Wood street to make room for a big business building makes necessary the abandonment of the historic old graveyard which has been for so many generations one of the quaintest sites of the city. Its removal draws attention to one very interesting grave dating from the century before the last. In the portion of the churchyard over by the Trinity church stands an old and much defaced headstone. If its inscription were restored it would read:

"Mio-Qua-Coo-Ua-Caw, or Red Pole, Principal Village Chief of the Shawanese Nation; Died at Pittsburg the 28th of January, 1797. Lamented by the United States."

The latter part of this inscription was literally true. Red Pole was a noted Shawanese chieftain of the powerful and warlike Shawanese tribe. He was a steadfast friend of the Americans, and in many instances did the frontier settlements an incalculable favor by warning them of approaching attacks on the part of the redskins. These great kindnesses he did because he looked on the presence of the white men as a blessing to the Indians, if the latter should be wise enough to learn the white man's virtues and shun his vices.

Red Pole's prominence and friendliness brought him into great esteem in the country along the upper Ohio valley and he was welcomed heartily wherever he went.

The winter of 1796-7 was an unusually rigorous season. It began early and was long continued. The snows were very deep and the temperature low for long periods. The rivers closed Nov. 23 and did not break up till Feb. 3. During that winter a party of Wyandot and Shawanese braves had made a visit of some importance to Philadelphia. When on their return they reached Pittsburg, Red Pole, who was one of the number, was taken sick with an affection of the lungs, resulting from the exposures of the perilous journey. Every care was given the sick man. Dr. Bedford, a leading physician of the infant city, and Dr. Carmichael, an army surgeon, attended him assiduously, but after lying with much suffering for six weeks the chief died. There was a ceremonious funeral and the burial was in the old ground now being disturbed. White and red men alike joined in doing honor to the memory of the one who had been a good friend to both.

And thus, in the heart of the town which has since grown to be the greatest industrial center in the world, the old Shawanese chief has slumbered on, all unconscious of the growth at his very side of a civilization the possibilities of which were but little appreciated in his day. C. L. SMITH.

O'Brien's Ambition

"Philadelphia Jack" Wants to Fight Ryan or Fitzsimmons.

Wearing a broad brimmed English beaver, "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien recently walked down the gangplank of a transatlantic liner at New York with $5,000 in his pockets, the profits of three months' touring of the variety halls and beating the best middle weights old England could put up against him.

O'Brien was looking fine and tanned. "Boxing in England is on the boom," he said, "but it's easy money because the English fighters lack speed."

With O'Brien was Joe Hagan, former amateur champion of Philadelphia, who by his success abroad boxed himself out of the A. A. U. into the ranks of the professionals.

"PHILADELPHIA JACK" O'BRIEN.

Speaking of his success in England, O'Brien said: "I met Charley Haghey of Boston, Jack Mullen and Bill Herron, all of whom I defeated in very quick time, taking respectively three, eight and five rounds to accomplish the jobs.

"One couldn't do better in America than I have done in England in three months. My former weight was 154 pounds, but now 158 pounds is just nice for me to make.

"On my first trip to England, just after Queen Victoria's death, I was away fourteen months and took in $10,000, but had to wait eleven months before I could make a shilling.

"I am anxious to get on a match with Tommy Ryan for the middle weight championship of the world. Several clubs are bidding for the contest, but the Yosemite of San Francisco will probably be the winner."

Of the coming fight between Fitz and Gardner O'Brien said, "Gardner is a good, game fellow, with youth and everything, but he lacks experience."

O'Brien was enthusiastic over the work of his trainer and assistant, Joe Hagan, with whom he toured Ireland, Scotland and England, meeting all comers. Hagan won several battles.

"Hagan had a match on with Jack Palmer," said O'Brien, "but Palmer forfeited the stakes, $250. He didn't admire his task when he heard that Hagan was traveling with me. He thought that I had brought over my brother and was ringing him in and that Hagan could fight as well as I could."

O'Brien returns with his pockets full of keepsakes and souvenirs presented him by English admirers. One sporting enthusiast gave him a pocket compass set in polished coal, while James Lowes, the premier promoter of the world, who is not addicted to reckless generosity, presented him with a beautiful medal and gold watch fob bearing the inscription: "Presented to Jack O'Brien, champion (sic) middle weight of the world, by James Lowes, who admires him for his business ability as well as for his great boxing abilities."

O'Brien has also delivered lectures on physical culture, which caught the English every time. His lectures were illustrated with stereopticon slides, while the boxer himself gave illustrations of his methods and system of posing.

He combated the Sandow theory of largely developed muscles and recommended simpler exercises. He started off by saying that in his opinion, gained by experience, walking and running gave quickness, suppleness and flexibility, greater than could be obtained by heavier exercise. He then quoted President Roosevelt, who as a boy was pale and sickly, as one of the finest examples of all around physical development, which had been secured principally by the lighter open air exercises. "No one now works harder than our president," he said. "The reference to President Roosevelt always brought applause from the English audiences, who agreed with me in nearly all I said."

The Philadelphia fighter wants to fight Fitzsimmons at 158 pounds and will challenge him after Fitz has fought Gardner. In fact, he will fight anybody but Jeffries.

Children and the "Great White Plague."

Prof. Hoff's Cure for Consumption Saves Many Young Lives.

To see the young and trustful—the children in whose breasts have just begun to blossom hopes of useful lives and a faint glimmering of life's perplexing problems—begin to wither under the touch of the great white plague is the most pitiful thing that comes to parents.

A little girl in Lowell, Mass., was given up to die.

On her cheek was the red spot that has always been looked upon as the seal of the consumptive's fate.

The child's doctor said that no medicine yet devised by man could benefit her. The mother must patiently await the end, each day adding its weight to her heart's burden.

But the newspapers going into Lowell told of the discovery made in Vienna. They told of the wonderful cure of Frederick Hammann, the celebrated New York consumptive who was sent to Vienna at the expense of the New York American and Journal, and was cured by Prof. Hoff.

And now that same mother tells of another cure:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Kindly send me two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Consumption Cure. Our little girl is now cured, while last May our doctor said no medicine could help her and that she would live only a short while. We have had it now six months, and the doctor now says that her lungs are all right. I am also getting the medicine for catarrh, and hope to be as successful in curing it as we were with consumption. MRS. W. ENGLAND, 256 Hale st., Lowell, Mass.

It is the growing prevalence of consumption among children that has made thinking persons believe more than ever that it was not a part of the great scheme of creation to have this dreadful disease placed on earth to strike indiscriminately among the young and the old, without a cure being placed within easy reach, if man could but discover it.

In some cases from one to three bottles have checked the malady. Of course, cures are not to be expected so shortly every time. This gentleman has used but two:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
I have used two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Cure and I cannot express my gratitude for it. It certainly is a wonder. A. M. KREPP, Fairmount, S. C.

How bronchitis may draw down your weight and vitality and how Hoff's cure will build both up in a short season are here shown:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Please send me one bottle of Prof. Hoff's Cure for Bronchitis. I commenced taking it in October; at the time weighed 97 pounds, now I weigh 107½. WILHELMINA SPATH, 122½ N. Missouri Ave., Atlantic City, N. J.

Another symptom of returning health, when the Hoff Cure begins its work, is the recovery of the appetite promptly:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Enclosed find $1.00, for which please send me one bottle of Prof. Hoff's Cure. The one bottle I have taken has done me a world of good, and I have a splendid appetite, weigh more and am benefited in every way. MILTON SILANCE, Milburn, N. Y.

Some people go to New Mexico hoping the climate may cure them. Read this:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Please send me two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Consumption Cure BY FIRST MAIL. It is doing me worlds of good, and greatly benefiting me. E. G. C. DUVAL, Agent A., T. & S. F. R. R., Glorietta, N. M.

Any general practitioner can recognize that feeling of weariness and languor, sensitiveness to cold and exertion, which are the forerunners of the first stages of consumption It is at this stage that Professor Hoff's treatment gives immediate results. Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, and the various forms of Catarrh require but a few weeks' treatment.

In the second and third stages, where the foregoing symptoms are accompanied by night sweats, chills, fever, hemorrhages, loss of flesh and swelling of legs and feet, and in the case of women, especially young girls blossoming into womanhood, the interruption of womanly functions, the remedy produces the same beneficial results, and in all cases a marked and decided improvement is immediately noticed.

In a few days the fever, as well as the insomnia, disappears, and increase of weight is the most conspicuous sign of improvement. Cure upon cure of cases pronounced hopeless are daily reported, and physicians and sanitariums throughout the country have discarded creosote and adopted this treatment.

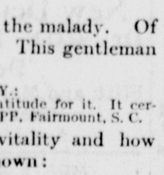
Asthma and bronchial affections—even severe coughs—are cured as effectually by the remedy as is consumption. Sometimes, when the diagnosis has not fully established the nature of the disease, the Hoff Cure has successfully diagnosed it by working a cure.

Professor Hoff desires his cure to be in the hands of every sufferer. It is humanity's medicine. The presription is compounded in accordance with Prof. Hoff's directions and sent out by the American Bureau at Third Avenue and 10th Street, New York, at $1.00 per bottle. For greater convenience the remedy may be had at the same price from the well and favorably known firm mentioned below.

The triangular trade mark of the American Bureau of Professor Hoff's Cure must be on the label, and this is the guarantee to the purchaser that it is the exact prescription used by Prof. Hoff at Vienna.

A 64-page book, containing complete descriptive treatise on the Professor Hoff Cure, and accurate reports of several hundred cases, is mailed free on application or may be obtained by calling at these well known druggists'.

IMPORTANT.—Other Hoff cures not bearing this triangular trade mark are not the authentic preparation authorized by the American Bureau. You can obtain the genuine Hoff Cure at most drug stores. The great body of honorable druggists do not stoop to substitution by selling something "just as good" that means more profit to them. The genuine Hoff cure can always be procured of the well-known druggists.



Will Reed, Opera House Pharmacy, Potters Drug Store, Fourth Street.

MISS MONIE BOWEY,

No. 38 Perry Street, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

A couple of winters ago I slipped on a frozen sidewalk and fell flat on my back. On being examined I found that I had sustained internal injuries which laid me up for more than two months. After that I noticed that I had pains in the back and groin which I never had before. I doctored and doctored for several months but as the pains increased instead of growing better I decided that I was not having the right treatment. Reading in the papers of the wonderful cures performed by Wine of Cardui I wrote to one of the parties and received a very satisfactory reply and I immediately sent for some. In a very short time I felt generally better and after seven weeks faithful use I was once more well and strong. I have never had a sick hour since and I daily bless your splendid medicine.

MONIE BOWEY.

Miss Monie Bowey.

WINE OF CARDUI is one medicine that should always be kept on hand in every home for immediate use when female weakness first makes its appearance. Miss Bowey's painful and dangerous accident would not have resulted so seriously had she taken Wine of Cardui promptly.

Wine of Cardui makes women more womanly by curing their weakness and making them stronger. Wine of Cardui cured Miss Bowey. As a medicine for all women in every trying period of their lives can you think of a better medicine for yourself, your sister, your daughter or your mother? Can you think of a more acceptable present to give your friend than a bottle of this medicine which will bring her health and happiness? You are suffering? Your duty is to rid yourself of this pain. If your daughter, mother, sister or friend is sick and in need of relief, your duty is equally great to them. Many women, now well, owe their lives to friends who brought them Wine of Cardui.

Wine of Cardui is adapted to women at any age in any walk of life. For the working woman it gives her strength for her tasks and better treatment than a doctor for very small cost.

Your druggist will sell you a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. Secure the medicine today. Take it in the privacy of your home. Relief will come to you as surely as you take it.

WINE of CARDUI A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

PRETTY PREDICAMENT

Dallying of Extra Session May Prove Embarrassing to the President.

PENDING APPOINTMENTS IN PERIL

Situation Without Precedent in Senate—Neither Body Cares to Take Initiative—Duration of Recess May Not Permit of Appointments.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Unless there is an agreement by both houses of congress to adjourn the present session before noon Monday, when the regular session begins, all nominations must fall, and if the present special session ends by limitation, thus preventing the president from sending recess appointments to the senate, all pending appointments must end with the closing of congress. Friends of General Wood are vitally interested and will try to bring about adjournment by concurrent action. Failure of action would mean General Wood's reversion to the rank of brigadier general and have similar effect on the appointments of 167 army officers, advanced by reason of General Wood's promotion, all of whom have assumed the ranks and pay of their new appointments in the same manner as though their nominations had been confirmed by the senate.

War Department Alarmed.

The situation also has been canvassed at the war department and considerable alarm is felt over the dissatisfaction which will occur among the late promotions and those whose promotion are to follow. In view of this situation it is possible that the administration will suggest sine die adjournment.

The situation is said to be without precedent in the senate. It had been argued in the senate that if the nomination of Wood failed of confirmation through the failure of the senate committee on military affairs to complete its hearing of charges against confirmation, or for other cause, that the nomination would be again sent to the senate for action at the regular session. This program was suggested on the theory that nominations and recess appointments have the same effect. An examination of the rules, however, discloses that a nomination does not carry authority for the president to clothe the nominee with rank and pay of the office to which he is appointed. In the case of recess appointment the appointee is given the rank and pay of the position for which he is named, but under the constitution the commission continues until the end of the next session of the senate. The last paragraph of section 2, article 2, of the legislature of the United States is as follows:

Power of President.

"The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session."

It is argued by senators who have given serious thought to the questions involved that inasmuch as "the congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meetings shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day" (article 1, last paragraph of section 4), that a recess must occur between the termination of the present extra session and the beginning of the next session in order to relieve the embarrassment resultant on failure to confirm the army nominations referred to. The merging of the special session into the regular session would only leave an infinite small recess and not sufficient, it is feared, for recess appointments to be made.

Both the senate and the house will be in session today, but from present appearances neither body cares to take the initiative, and the outcome is uncertain.

The senate committee on military affairs will convene Monday at 11 o'clock to resume its hearing of the Wood case. If the hearing should continue until one minute after 12 o'clock the committee would be in the unique situation of investigating a matter which was not pending before the senate.

Industrial War in Illinois.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Industrial war, long expected, has broken out in the Fox river valley in northern Illinois. Manufacturers at Batavia, Aurora, Elgin, St. Charles and Geneva have organized and have decided to increase the hours of labor from nine to 10. The first notice was served by manufacturers at Batavia and 300 machinists quit work. The wage earners are united and will resist this attempt to add to the hours of labor without increase of pay. The industries likely to be affected include many lines from windmills to shirts. The manufacturers in the organization employ, it is stated, 10,000 wage earners.

Boat Saved by Heroic Seaman.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 5.—The naval tug Peoria, towing the submarine torpedo boat Adder, has arrived at the navy yard here. The Adder was saved by the heroism of a boatswain, who responded to a call for volunteers and swam 100 yards with a line to the Adder from the tug and pulled a hawser after him. The Moccasin is ashore at Currituck and appears to be only slightly damaged. The Adder is leaking badly.

Creditors Declare Dowie Is Solvent—Claims Small Compared to Assets.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Stronger proof of the fact that all John Alexander Dowie's creditors are not a unit in the desire to have his estate administered by the bankruptcy court is given. Seven ceditors representing claims of more than $10,000 filed an answer in the United States district court in which they asked Judge Kohlsaat to inquire into the question of Dowie's solvency at once. They denied that the head of Zion City is insolvent or that he was in that condition when the bankruptcy proceedings were begun against him, and they also averred that Dowie should not be declared bankrupt for any cause set forth in the original petition.

Attorney Frank Helmer, who represents clients having claims of about $100,000 against Dowie, said:

"Several of our clients have been doing business with Dowie for a long time and have always been paid what was due them. They believe full payment would be made them without the receivership of the federal court, because they do not think Dowie is insolvent. The receivership, in our opinion, is unnecessary, and without it Dowie would be able to pay 100 cents for every dollar of his indebtedness and have much money left. For this reason we want to have the costly bankruptcy proceedings dismissed.

"As nearly as I can determine from an examination of Dowie's accounts, he has assets worth at least $10,000,000, while the claims against him do not exceed $400,000. If such is the case it is wrong to continue the receivership."

Thieves Fatally Beat Pawnbroker.

Canton, O., Dec. 5.—John Miller was fatally injured by robbers in his place of business. With his skull fractured in five or six places and his face crushed doctors say he cannot survive. Miller conducted a second-hand store and pawnbrokerage office on a side street near the business center of the city. He was alone when two young men sneaked into the store and beat him over the head with a piece of gaspipe until he was unconscious. Money was taken from his pockets. His wife says the amount was $40. Watches and jewelry were also taken. Miller is about 60 years old.

Wanted to Paper Senate Chamber.

New York, Dec. 5.—An attendant of the government hospital for the insane at Washington took to Bellevue hospital Arthur S. Pulsifer, a paperhanger and decorator, and asked that he be placed in the pyschopathic ward for observation. Pulsifer is the man who recently went to Washington and demanded to see the president. He had with him a roll of wall paper and said that he wished to get permission to paper the walls of the senate chamber. He was taken into custody and confined in the government hospital for the insane. Being a resident of New York he was brought here.

Roosevelt and Hanna Confer.

Washington, Dec. 5. — President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna had a conference of several hours' duration at the White House, at which the Panama canal situation and important legislation to come before congress was discussed, with incidental references to the case of General Leonard Wood and the chairmanship of the Republican national committee. Senator Hanna would say nothing as to the conference. His acceptance of the management of the next Republican campaign will depend upon his health Treaty Ready for Shipment.

Panama, Dec. 5.—Wrapped in the flags of the United States and Panama the canal treaty was officially delivered into the hands of United States Consul General Gudger. The transfer took place at the palace in the presence of the members of the junta, the ministers of the republic, United States Vice Consul Ehrman and other prominent persons. From the palace the chest containing the treaty was carried by two policemen to the consulate general, where it will be kept until shipped to the United States.

Dinner to Former Business Associates.

New York, Dec. 5.—A dinner was given at his home by Andrew Carnegie to 43 men who were formerly associated with him in the Carnegie Steel company. Some of those present were Charles M. Schwab, W. E. Corey, John E. McLeod, George E. McCague, F. T. F. Lovejoy, W. R. Blasinger, W. N. Frew, Alexander Peacock, A. C. Dinkey, L. T. Brown, James Gayley, H. P. Bope and J. H. Reed.

Congressman Burk at Death's Door.

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—Congressman Henry Burk, who has been seriously ill for a year, is unconscious at his home here and is not expected to live 48 hours. Since September he has been confined to his house and there has been little hope of recovery for the last few months. His illness is an affection of the heart, complicated by other ailments.

Shamrock I. to Be Sold for Junk.

New York, Dec. 5.—The yacht Shamrock I., the first vessel of that name sent by Sir Thomas Lipton to sail for the America's cup, was hauled out on the marine railway at City Island and now lies high and dry alongside her old rival, the Columbia. The work of breaking Shamrock I. up to be sold for old metal will begin Monday.

Counterfeiters Arrested.

Boston, Dec. 5.—Three men were arrested in a counterfeiting raid in which a complete paraphernalia was seized. There was sufficient paper on hand to print $1,000,000 in money.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

Why the Tortoise Won

Did you ever hear the true story of the race between the hare and the tortoise? Old Brother Terrapin told it to me one day as I lay on my back in the grass by the pond.

"Never heard the real truth of that victory of mine, did you?" he squeaked as he crawled up to me.

"No, never," said I. "How was it?"

"Well, he laughed, "you see, they always supposed that I won that race by keeping on plodding along at my usual gait while old man Rabbit frisked around and fooled and wasted his time 'showing off' before the spectators.

"But it was nothing of that sort. Let me tell you at the start that all the plodding in the world without a little thought and common sense will never win anything.

"You see, I had a little bone to pick with that 'yaller' dog of Bill Sikes' 'cause one day when I was asleep he turned me over on my back, and I didn't get my foot[illegible] for two days and was nearly starved, to say nothing of the worry brought on the old lady and the children. So when Mr. Rabbit and

HE GAVE A YELL OF TERROR.

I started on that race that you've read of I knew at the start that I had no chance to win without some little game. Just then along comes Bill Sikes' 'yaller' dog.

"'Mornin',' says he. 'Nice day for the race.'

"'Yes,' says I, and if you want to see the start sit right down where you are, and you'll see a great show.'

"So down he sat on his yaller tail and opened his yaller jaws and let his red tongue hang out. 'One, two, three, go!' says the starter, and just then I saw my chance and grabbed Mr. Dog's tail between my jaws. He gave one yell of terror and surprise and set off through the woods toward the goal at lightning speed, pulling me through the air after him. My, but we did fly! And when we got near the goal I let go and walked the rest. Mr. Dog was so scared he ran on home. Served him right for turning me over. But I won the race. I tell you, brains count," saying which, he ambled off into the woods.—Atlanta Constitution.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

A Cat-Eye-Clism

Tom Cat and Dick Cat met one night on the back fence. Tom was minus one eye.

"How did you lose your eye?" asked Dick.

"Well, it was like this: My mistress was coming home on the train from the seashore and got a cinder in her eye. It bothered her so that the doctor was called in. He said it was a serious case and they would have to take out her eye and look for the cinder. He put it on a table and began to hunt. I came in just then, hungry as usual, for they don't half feed me, and saw the eye, thought it was good to eat and swallowed it."

"Oh!" said Dick. "Then you had three eyes."

"Yes, but listen. The doctor saw what I had done, said he would have to get an eye from me to take the place of the other I had inside and gave chase with a big knife. He caught me, took out my eye and put it in the mistress. That leaves me, you see, with only this one."

"Yes," said Dick. "But you've got two all the same."

"But how can I use the one I swallowed?" asked Tom sadly.

"But, say," asked Dick quickly, as the new thought struck him, "how did the mistress get along with your lonely orb?"

"Oh, pretty well, except that when one of her eyes is in bed asleep the other is down cellar with me hunting rats."

"Terrible!" said Dick.

"Yes. Doctors ought to be more careful," replied Tom.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

PRESENTS FOR MEN.

A Dress Shirt Protector—Knitted Waistcoat—Other Suggestions.

A dress shirt protector is a most useful present for a man and is quite easily and inexpensively made at home.

DRESS SHIRT PROTECTOR.

You will require some quilted white satin for a lining (the ready quilted material is best) and some thick corded black silk. Cut to a length of thirteen and a half inches, width ten and a half inches, the shape shown in the sketch, and make the collar band the size of the wearer's neck. The materials are placed together and the edges neatly oversewed, the black silk being worn, of course, on the outside. The collar band should be lined with white glace silk, as the satin will be a little thick, and a pearl button and a loop added. It is so difficult to make anything that a man will really use, but beyond a doubt the majority of the masculine sex will appreciate the dress shirt protector.

Tobacco pouches are never amiss as presents for men, and embroidered slippers are useful, but a smoking cap is not popular nowadays, unless, indeed, grandfather is to be the recipient.

Still, anything that loving fingers have labored over cannot fail to give satisfaction, and the following directions for making a knitted waistcoat and tie may prove useful: To knit the waistcoat double Berlin wool and two steel needles to match are necessary. Cast on seventy stitches. Knit one purl, one plain, but be sure you plain your plain stitch and purl your purl stitch in next row, and so on all the way up. Every two inches cast off four stitches about five stitches from the front, and next row cast on the four stitches again to form buttonhole. When two finger lengths are knitted, cast off twenty stitches. Knit ten more rows and on the side where you cast off stitches let out one stitch every second row and at the other side take in one stitch every second row, till neck and armhole are long enough, and cast off on shoulder. Knit other side the same, omitting the buttonholes. This is an ordinary sized vest. It ought to be sent to a tailor to be made up.

For the tie a very simple and yet very effective style is to knit it in one purl and one plain alternately. In each succeeding row purl the one you purled previously and plain the one you plained. Cast on forty stitches, and knit the length required.

WRITING BOARD.

A Gift That Is Easily Made and Very Useful.

A writing board is always an acceptable present and is quite easy and inexpensive to make. Procure a piece of light board measuring about 22 by 14 inches and cover it with a thin art serge in any color you prefer, taking care to stretch the material to insure a perfectly smooth, tight surface. Next, at a harness maker's, get some thin tan colored leather if smartness be desired, but if economy must be studied substitute art serge for leather.

In the center is the blotting pad, each corner of which is slipped in triangular pieces of leather tacked neatly down with small copper or brass headed nails. Directly above the pad is a band of leather divided into compartments to hold paper knife, penholder, pencil, penknife and sealing wax. Next it is a cloth penwiper and under this a scribbling tablet, also slipped under a piece of leather. On the right of the blotting pad a small leather inkstand must be firmly glued, and on each side of the pad are shaped leather pockets to hold note paper, envelopes, letter cards, telegraph forms and the like. In the left hand corner a small framelike arrangement is cut from the leather and a calendar slipped in.

WRITING BOARD.

Care must be taken to do the nailing evenly wherever it occurs, and you will have quite a smart effect, whereas any irregularity will quite spoil the whole. A pretty finish is to paint the owner's initials on the leather compartments, and for this use oil paints.

One can imagine no more useful gift for an invalid or indeed for any one. The cost is quite trifling and the making quite an easy task.

Nice Gifts For Girls.

A Christmas present of a bookshelf filled with books for a nine-year-old girl is a capital idea. Among the old favorites should be "Timothy's Quest" and "Polly Oliver's Problem," by Kate Douglas Wiggin; "Sara Crewe," by Frances Hodgson Burnett; "Hans Andersen's Fairy Tales," "Alice In Wonderland," "Little Women," by Louisa May Alcott; "Water Babies," by Charles Kingsley; "The Tales of a Grandfather," by Sir Walter Scott; "The Jungle Books," by Rudyard Kipling; "Tanglewood Tales," by Nathaniel Hawthorne, and "Leslie Goldthwaite," by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney.

Mothers and Daughters

Every woman who has a grown daughter knows well the worry and anxiety which always comes at that period of life when girlhood merges into womanhood. Upon a girl's condition at this time depends her future health, strength and happiness. Too much care can not be taken to see that she passes through this period safely.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA

Herb Tea

is of the greatest assistance to nature in bringing about the change which takes place, without disarranging the natural functions of the system. It is a strengthening tonic. It will keep the roses in a girl's cheeks and prevent that tendency to decline which so often endangers her life at this critical point in development.

This Herb Tea is likewise of corresponding value and assistance to matrons and mothers at the end of this period. Its use will at this time prevent endless pain and worry. A woman will enter the evening of life with scarcely the knowledge that the change has occurred. Many are the thankful women who know the value of Aunt Dinah's Old Virginia Herb Tea and are grateful for the benefits derived from its use.

Children and the "Great White Plague."

Prof. Hoff's Cure for Consumption Saves Many Young Lives.

To see the young and trustful—the children in whose breasts have just begun to blossom hopes of useful lives and a faint glimmering of life's perplexing problems—begin to wither under the touch of the great white plague is the most pitiful thing that comes to parents.

A little girl in Lowell, Mass., was given up to die.

On her cheek was the red spot that has always been looked upon as the seal of the consumptive's fate.

The child's doctor said that no medicine yet devised by man could benefit her. The mother must patiently await the end, each day adding its weight to her heart's burden.

But the newspapers going into Lowell told of the discovery made in Vienna. They told of the wonderful cure of Frederick Hammann, the celebrated New York consumptive who was sent to Vienna at the expense of the New York American and Journal, and was cured by Prof. Hoff.

And now that same mother tells of another cure:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Kindly send me two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Consumption Cure. Our little girl is now cured, while last May our doctor said no medicine could help her and that she would live only a short while. We have had it now six months, and the doctor now says that her lungs are all right. I am also getting the medicine for catarrh, and hope to be as successful in curing it as we were with consumption. MRS. W. ENGLAND, 236 Hale st., Lowell, Mass.

It is the growing prevalence of consumption among children that has made thinking persons believe more than ever that it was not a part of the great scheme of creation to have this dreadful disease placed on earth to strike indiscriminately among the young and the old, without a cure being placed within easy reach, if man could but discover it.

In some cases from one to three bottles have checked the malady. Of course, cures are not to be expected so shortly every time. This gentleman has used but two:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
I have used two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Cure and I cannot express my gratitude for it. It certainly is a wonder. A. M. KREPP, Fairmount, S. C.

How bronchitis may draw down your weight and vitality and how Hoff's cure will build both up in a short season are here shown:

Another symptom of returning health, when the Hoff Cure begins its work, is the recovery of the appetite promptly:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Enclosed find $1.00, for which please send me one bottle of Prof. Hoff's Cure. The one bottle I have taken has done me a world of good, and I have a splendid appetite, weigh more and am benefited in every way. MILTON SILANCE, Milburn, N. Y.

Some people go to New Mexico hoping the climate may cure them. Read this:

American Bureau, Bendiner & Schlesinger, Third Avenue and 10th Street, N. Y.:
Please send me two bottles of Prof. Hoff's Consumption Cure BY FIRST MAIL. It is doing me worlds of good, and greatly benefiting me. E. G. C. DUVAL, Agent A., T. & S. F. R. R., Glorietta, N. M.

Any general practitioner can recognize that feeling of weariness and languor, sensitiveness to cold and exertion, which are the forerunners of the first stages of consumption It is at this stage that Professor Hoff's treatment gives immediate results. Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, and the various forms of Catarrh require but a few weeks' treatment.

In the second and third stages, where the foregoing symptoms are accompanied by night sweats, chills, fever, hemorrhages, loss of flesh and swelling of legs and feet, and in the case of women, especially young girls blossoming into womanhood, and the interruption of womanly functions, the remedy produces the same beneficial results, and in all cases a marked and decided improvement is immediately noticed.

In a few days the fever, as well as the insomnia, disappears, and increase of weight is the most conspicuous sign of improvement. Cure upon cure of cases pronounced hopeless are daily reported, and physicians and sanitariums throughout the country have discarded creosote and adopted this treatment.

Asthma and bronchial affections—even severe coughs—are cured as effectually by the remedy as is consumption. Sometimes, when the diagnosis has not fully established the nature of the disease, the Hoff Cure has successfully diagnosed it by working a cure.

Professor Hoff desires his cure to be in the hands of every sufferer. It is humanity's medicine. The presription is compounded in accordance with Prof. Hoff's directions and sent out by the American Bureau at Third Avenue and 10th Street, New York, at $1.00 per bottle. For greater convenience the remedy may be had at the same price from the well and favorably known firm mentioned below.

The triangular trade mark of the American Bureau of Professor Hoff's Cure must be on the label, and this is the guarantee to the purchaser that it is the exact prescription used by Prof. Hoff at Vienna.

A 64-page book, containing complete descriptive treatise on the Professor Hoff Cure, and accurate reports of several hundred cases, is mailed free on application or may be obtained by calling at these well known druggists'.

IMPORTANT.—Other Hoff cures not bearing this triangular trade mark are not the authentic preparation authorized by the American Bureau.
You can obtain the genuine Hoff Cure at most drug stores. The great body of honorable druggists do not stoop to substitution by selling something "just as good" that means more profit to them. The genuine Hoff cure can always be procured of the well-known druggists.

MISS MONIE BOWEY,

No. 38 Perry Street, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

A couple of winters ago I slipped on a frozen sidewalk and fell flat on my back. On being examined I found that I had sustained internal injuries which laid me up for more than two months. After that I noticed that I had pains in the back and groin which I never had before. I doctored and doctored for several months but as the pains increased instead of growing better I decided that I was not having the right treatment. Reading in the papers of the wonderful cures performed by Wine of Cardui I wrote to one of the parties and received a very satisfactory reply and I immediately sent for some. In a very short time I felt generally better and after seven weeks faithful use I was once more well and strong. I have never had a sick hour since and I daily bless your splendid medicine.

MONIE BOWEY.

Miss Monie Bowey.

WINE OF CARDUI is one medicine that should always be kept on hand in every home for immediate use when female weakness first makes its appearance. Miss Bowey's painful and dangerous accident would not have resulted so seriously had she taken Wine of Cardui promptly.

Wine of Cardui makes women more womanly by curing their weakness and making them stronger. Wine of Cardui cured Miss Bowey. As a medicine for all women in every trying period of their lives can you think of a better medicine for yourself, your sister, your daughter or your mother? Can you think of a more acceptable present to give your friend than a bottle of this medicine which will bring her health and happiness? You are suffering? Your duty is to rid yourself of this pain. If your daughter, mother, sister or friend is sick and in need of relief, your duty is equally great to them. Many women, now well, owe their lives to friends who brought them Wine of Cardui.

Wine of Cardui is adapted to women at any age in any walk of life. For the working woman it gives her strength for her tasks and better treatment than a doctor for very small cost.

Your druggist will sell you a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. Secure the medicine today. Take it in the privacy of your home. Relief will come to you as surely as you take it.

WINE of CARDUI A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

PRETTY PREDICAMENT

Dallying of Extra Session May Prove Embarrassing to the President.

PENDING APPOINTMENTS IN PERIL

Situation Without Precedent in Senate—Neither Body Cares to Take Initiative—Duration of Recess May Not Permit of Appointments.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Unless there is an agreement by both houses of congress to adjourn the present session before noon Monday, when the regular session begins, all nominations must fall, and if the present special session ends by limitation, thus preventing the president from sending recess appointments to the senate, all pending appointments must end with the closing of congress. Friends of General Wood are vitally interested and will try to bring about adjournment by concurrent action. Failure of action would mean General Wood's reversion to the rank of brigadier general and have similar effect on the appointments of 167 army officers, advanced by reason of General Wood's promotion, all of whom have assumed the ranks and pay of their new appointments in the same manner as though their nominations had been confirmed by the senate.

War Department Alarmed.

The situation also has been canvassed at the war department and considerable alarm is felt over the dissatisfaction which will occur among the late promotions and those whose promotion are to follow. In view of this situation it is possible that the administration will suggest sine die adjournment.

The situation is said to be without precedent in the senate. It had been argued in the senate that if the nomination of Wood failed of confirmation through the failure of the senate committee on military affairs to complete its hearing of charges against confirmation, or for other cause, that the nomination would be again sent to the senate for action at the regular session. This program was suggested on the theory that nominations and recess appointments have the same effect. An examination of the rules, however, discloses that a nomination does not carry authority for the president to clothe the nominee with rank and pay of the office to which he is appointed. In the case of recess appointment the appointee is given the rank and pay of the position for which he is named, but under the constitution the commission continues until the end of the next session of the senate. The last paragraph of section 2, article 2, of the legislature of the United States is as follows:

Power of President.

"The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session."

It is argued by senators who have given serious thought to the questions involved that inasmuch as "the congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meetings shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day" (article 1, last paragraph of section 4), that a recess must occur between the termination of the present extra session and the beginning of the next session in order to relieve the embarrassment resultant on failure to confirm the army nominations referred to. The merging of the special session into the regular session would only leave an infinite small recess and not sufficient, it is feared, for recess appointments to be made.

Both the senate and the house will be in session today, but from present appearances neither body cares to take the initiative, and the outcome is uncertain.

The senate committee on military affairs will convene Monday at 11 o'clock to resume its hearing of the Wood case. If the hearing should continue until one minute after 12 o'clock the committee would be in the unique situation of investigating a matter which was not pending before the senate.

Creditors Declare Dowie Is Solvent—Claims Small Compared to Assets.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Stronger proof of the fact that all John Alexander Dowie's creditors are not a unit in the desire to have his estate administered by the bankruptcy court is given. Seven ceditors representing claims of more than $10,000 filed an answer in the United States district court in which they asked Judge Kohlsaat to inquire into the question of Dowie's solvency at once. They denied that the head of Zion City is insolvent or that he was in that condition when the bankruptcy proceedings were begun against him, and they also averred that Dowie should not be declared bankrupt for any cause set forth in the original petition.

Attorney Frank Helmer, who represents clients having claims of about $100,000 against Dowie, said:

"Several of our clients have been doing business with Dowie for a long time and have always been paid what was due them. They believe full payment would be made them without the receivership of the federal court, because they do not think Dowie is insolvent. The receivership, in our opinion, is unnecessary, and without it Dowie would be able to pay 100 cents for every dollar of his indebtedness and have much money left. For this reason we want to have the costly bankruptcy proceedings dismissed.

"As nearly as I can determine from an examination of Dowie's accounts, he has assets worth at least $10,000,000, while the claims against him do not exceed $400,000. If such is the case it is wrong to continue the receivership."

Thieves Fatally Beat Pawnbroker.

Canton, O., Dec. 5.—John Miller was fatally injured by robbers in his place of business. With his skull fractured in five or six places and his face crushed doctors say he cannot survive. Miller conducted a second-hand store and pawnbrokerage office on a side street near the business center of the city. He was alone when two young men sneaked into the store and beat him over the head with a piece of gaspipe until he was unconscious. Money was taken from his pockets. His wife says the amount was $40. Watches and jewelry were also taken. Miller is about 60 years old.

Wanted to Paper Senate Chamber.

New York, Dec. 5.—An attendant of the government hospital for the insane at Washington took to Bellevue hospital Arthur S. Pulsifer, a paperhanger and decorator, and asked that he be placed in the pyschopathic ward for observation. Pulsifer is the man who recently went to Washington and demanded to see the president. He had with him a roll of wall paper and said that he wished to get permission to paper the walls of the senate chamber. He was taken into custody and confined in the government hospital for the insane. Being a resident of New York he was brought here.

Roosevelt and Hanna Confer.

Washington, Dec. 5. — President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna had a conference of several hours' duration at the White House, at which the Panama canal situation and important legislation to come before congress was discussed, with incidental references to the case of General Leonard Wood and the chairmanship of the Republican national committee. Senator Hanna would say nothing as to the conference. His acceptance of the management of the next Republican campaign will depend upon his health Treaty Ready for Shipment.

Panama, Dec. 5.—Wrapped in the flags of the United States and Panama the canal treaty was officially delivered into the hands of United States Consul General Gudger. The transfer took place at the palace in the presence of the members of the junta, the ministers of the republic, United States Vice Consul Ehrman and other prominent persons. From the palace the chest containing the treaty was carried by two policemen to the consulate general, where it will be kept until shipped to the United States.

Dinner to Former Business Associates.

New York, Dec. 5.—A dinner was given at his home by Andrew Carnegie to 43 men who were formerly associated with him in the Carnegie Steel company. Some of those present were Charles M. Schwab, W. E. Corey, John E. McLeod, George E. McCague, F. T. F. Lovejoy, W. R. Blasinger, W. N. Frew, Alexander Peacock, A. C. Dinkey, L. T. Brown, James Gayley, H. P. Bope and J. H. Reed.

Congressman Burk at Death's Door.

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—Congressman Henry Burk, who has been seriously ill for a year, is unconscious at his home here and is not expected to live 48 hours. Since September he has been confined to his house and there has been little hope of recovery for the last few months. His illness is an affection of the heart, complicated by other ailments.

Shamrock I. to Be Sold for Junk.

New York, Dec. 5.—The yacht Shamrock I., the first vessel of that name sent by Sir Thomas Lipton to sail for the America's cup, was hauled out on the marine railway at City Island and now lies high and dry alongside her old rival, the Columbia. The work of breaking Shamrock I. up to be sold for old metal will begin Monday.

Counterfeiters Arrested.

Boston, Dec. 5.—Three men were arrested in a counterfeiting raid in which a complete paraphernalia was seized. There was sufficient paper on hand to print $1,000,000 in money.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

Why the Tortoise Won

Did you ever hear the true story of the race between the hare and the tortoise? Old Brother Terrapin told it to me one day as I lay on my back in the grass by the pond.

"Never heard the real truth of that victory of mine, did you?" he squeaked as he crawled up to me.

"No, never," said I. "How was it?"

"Well, he laughed, "you see, they always supposed that I won that race by keeping on plodding along at my usual gait while old man Rabbit frisked around and fooled and wasted his time 'showing off' before the spectators.

"But it was nothing of that sort. Let me tell you at the start that all the plodding in the world without a little thought and common sense will never win anything.

"You see, I had a little bone to pick with that 'yaller' dog of Bill Sikes' 'cause one day when I was asleep he turned me over on my back, and I didn't get my footy for two days and was nearly starved, to say nothing of the worry brought on the old lady and the children. So when Mr. Rabbit and

HE GAVE A YELL OF TERROR.

I started on that race that you've read of I knew at the start that I had no chance to win without some little game. Just then along comes Bill Sikes' 'yaller' dog.

"'Mornin',' says he. 'Nice day for the race.'

"'Yes,' says I, and if you want to see the start sit right down where you are, and you'll see a great show.'

"So down he sat on his yaller tail and opened his yaller jaws and let his red tongue hang out. 'One, two, three, go!' says the starter, and just then I saw my chance and grabbed Mr. Dog's tail between my jaws. He gave one yell of terror and surprise and set off through the woods toward the goal at lightning speed, pulling me through the air after him. My, but we did fly! And when we got near the goal I let go and walked the rest. Mr. Dog was so scared he ran on home. Served him right for turning me over. But I won the race. I tell you, brains count," saying which, he ambled off into the woods.—Atlanta Constitution.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

A Cat-Eye-Clism

Tom Cat and Dick Cat met one night on the back fence. Tom was minus one eye.

"How did you lose your eye?" asked Dick.

"Well, it was like this: My mistress was coming home on the train from the seashore and got a cinder in her eye. It bothered her so that the doctor was called in. He said it was a serious case and they would have to take out her eye and look for the cinder. He put it on a table and began to hunt. I came in just then, hungry as usual, for they don't half feed me, and saw the eye, thought it was good to eat and swallowed it."

"Oh!" said Dick. "Then you had three eyes."

"Yes, but listen. The doctor saw what I had done, said he would have to get an eye from me to take the place of the other I had inside and gave chase with a big knife. He caught me, took out my eye and put it in the mistress. That leaves me, you see, with only this one."

"Yes," said Dick. "But you've got two all the same."

"But how can I use the one I swallowed?" asked Tom sadly.

"But, say," asked Dick quickly, as the new thought struck him, "how did the mistress get along with your lonely orb?"

"Oh, pretty well, except that when one of her eyes is in bed asleep the other is down cellar with me hunting rats."

"Terrible!" said Dick.

"Yes. Doctors ought to be more careful," replied Tom.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

PRESENTS FOR MEN.

A Dress Shirt Protector—Knitted Waistcoat—Other Suggestions.

A dress shirt protector is a most useful present for a man and is quite easily and inexpensively made at home.

DRESS SHIRT PROTECTOR.

You will require some quilted white satin for a lining (the ready quilted material is best) and some thick corded black silk. Cut to a length of thirteen and a half inches, width ten and a half inches, the shape shown in the sketch, and make the collar band the size of the wearer's neck. The materials are placed together and the edges neatly oversewed, the black silk being worn, of course, on the outside. The collar band should be lined with white glace silk, as the satin will be a little thick, and a pearl button and a loop added. It is so difficult to make anything that a man will really use, but beyond a doubt the majority of the masculine sex will appreciate the dress shirt protector.

Tobacco pouches are never amiss as presents for men, and embroidered slippers are useful, but a smoking cap is not popular nowadays, unless, indeed, grandfather is to be the recipient.

Still, anything that loving fingers have labored over cannot fail to give satisfaction, and the following directions for making a knitted waistcoat and tie may prove useful: To knit the waistcoat double Berlin wool and two steel needles to match are necessary. Cast on seventy stitches. Knit one purl, one plain, but be sure you plain your plain stitch and purl your purl stitch in next row, and so on all the way up. Every two inches cast off four stitches about five stitches from the front, and next row cast on the four stitches again to form buttonhole. When two finger lengths are knitted, cast off twenty stitches. Knit ten more rows and on the side where you cast off stitches let out one stitch every second row and at the other side take in one stitch every second row, till neck and armhole are long enough, and cast off on shoulder. Knit other side the same, omitting the buttonholes. This is an ordinary sized vest. It ought to be sent to a tailor to be made up.

For the tie a very simple and yet very effective style is to knit it in one purl and one plain alternately. In each succeeding row purl the one you purled previously and plain the one you plained. Cast on forty stitches, and knit the length required.

WRITING BOARD.

A Gift That Is Easily Made and Very Useful.

A writing board is always an acceptable present and is quite easy and inexpensive to make. Procure a piece of light board measuring about 22 by 14 inches and cover it with a thin art serge in any color you prefer, taking care to stretch the material to insure a perfectly smooth, tight surface. Next, at a harness maker's, get some thin tan colored leather if smartness be desired, but if economy must be studied substitute art serge for leather.

In the center is the blotting pad, each corner of which is slipped in triangular pieces of leather tacked neatly down with small copper or brass headed nails. Directly above the pad is a band of leather divided into compartments to hold paper knife, penholder, pencil, penknife and sealing wax. Next it is a cloth penwiper and under this a scribbling tablet, also slipped under a piece of leather. On the right of the blotting pad a small leather inkstand must be firmly glued, and on each side of the pad are shaped leather pockets to hold note paper, envelopes, letter cards, telegraph forms and the like. In the left hand corner a small framelike arrangement is cut from the leather and a calendar slipped in.

Care must be taken to do the nailing evenly wherever it occurs, and you will have quite a smart effect, whereas any irregularity will quite spoil the whole. A pretty finish is to paint the owner's initials on the leather compartments, and for this use oil paints.

One can imagine no more useful gift for an invalid or indeed for any one. The cost is quite trifling and the making quite an easy task.

Nice Gifts For Girls.

A Christmas present of a bookshelf filled with books for a nine-year-old girl is a capital idea. Among the old favorites should be "Timothy's Quest" and "Polly Oliver's Problem," by Kate Douglas Wiggin; "Sara Crewe," by Frances Hodgson Burnett; "Hans Andersen's Fairy Tales," "Alice In Wonderland," "Little Women," by Louisa May Alcott; "Water Babies," by Charles Kingsley; "The Tales of a Grandfather," by Sir Walter Scott; "The Jungle Books," by Rudyard Kipling; "Tanglewood Tales," by Nathaniel Hawthorne, and "Leslie Goldthwaite," by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney.

Mothers and Daughters

Every woman who has a grown daughter knows well the worry and anxiety which always comes at that period of life when girlhood merges into womanhood. Upon a girl's condition at this time depends her future health, strength and happiness. Too much care can not be taken to see that she passes through this period safely.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA

Herb Tea

is of the greatest assistance to nature in bringing about the change which takes place, without disarranging the natural functions of the system. It is a strengthening tonic. It will keep the roses in a girl's cheeks and prevent that tendency to decline which so often endangers her life at this critical point in development.

This Herb Tea is likewise of corresponding value and assistance to matrons and mothers at the end of this period. Its use will at this time prevent endless pain and worry. A woman will enter the evening of life with scarcely the knowledge that the change has occurred. Manyare the thankful women who know the value of Aunt Dinah's Old Virginia Herb Tea and are grateful for the benefits derived from its use.
